8350. Release of prisoner—On what terms.]—Since 1869 Act, deft., who has cleared his contempt by filing his answer, cannot be detained in prison for non-payment of the costs of his contempt, but the ct. in ordering his discharge will make it part of the order that he do pay the costs of his contempt & of the motion to discharge him.—JACKSON v. MAWBY (1875), 1 Ch. SUB-SECT. 3.—DEFAULT BY TRUSTEE.

A. In General.

See 1869 Act, s. 4 (3).

8352. Object of exception—To produce payment of money—Not vindictive.]—The policy of 1869 & 1878 Acts, in leaving a defaulting trustee exposed to the penalty of imprisonment is not vindictive; the object of the penalty is simply to produce payment of the money.—BARRETT v. HAMMOND (1879), 10 Ch. 8353. —— —— To punish fraudulent trustee—To act as deterrent.]—The object of granting attachments in cases of defaulting trustees is not only to recover the money & to punish fraudulent trustees, but to deter other trustees from committing fraudulent breaches of trust.—Re KNOWLES, DOODSON v. TURNER (1883), 52 L. J. Ch. 685; 48 L. T. 760.

8354. When exception applies—Any default—Whether fraud must be shown.]—On an application, under R. S. C., Ord. 44, r. 2, for leave to issue a writ of attachment against a trustee, to enforce a judgment for the payment of money, it is not necessary, in order to bring the case within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), to show that the trustee has been guilty of any fraud. Any default, even without fraud, made by a trustee in payment of any sum in his possession or under his control, which he has been ordered to pay, is sufficient to justify the ct. in making an order for attachment.—PRESTON v. ETHERINGTON, ETHERINGTON v. PRESTON (1887), 37 Ch. 8356. —— Member of Parliament.]—The jurisdiction to attach for non-payment by a person in a fiduciary capacity is of a criminal character, & a member of Parliament will not be exempt from arrest on the ground of parliamentary privilege.—Re GENT, GENT-DAVIS v. HARRIS (1888), 40 Ch. 8357. To what orders exception applies—Order not specifying any sum.]—An extrix., deft. in an administration action, was ordered to pay into ct. the proceeds of testator's estate, which she had realised, the amount thereof to be verified by affidavit. Not having complied with that order, an order was subsequently made that an attachment should be issued against her, but when the order came to be drawn up the registrar objected that as no sum was specified in the order, the case was not within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3) :—Held : the Act must be strictly construed, & the real contempt being the default in making the affidavit, the case was not within the sub-sect., & the order should not be drawn up.—Re SPICER, SPICER v. SPICER, [1881] W. 8358. —— Order to pay trust money into court.]—A defaulting trustee, who has disregarded an order for payment of trust money into ct., is not protected from attachment by 1869 Act.—YOUNG v. DALLIMORE (1870), 22 L. T. 119; 18 W. R. 445.

8359. —— Consent order.]—An order was made by consent on deft. to deliver to a receiver bills & cheques, "or" to pay the money received in respect of them. Deft. said he delivered over the only bill in his possession, & that he had cashed the others, but did not say whether before or after the order, & contended that the neglect to pay over the money, which he admitted he had received, was merely making a default in payment of a sum of money within 1869 Act, s. 4 :—Held : that Act had no application, & deft. must be committed.—HARVEY v. HALL (1870), L. R. 11 Eq. 31; 23 L. T. 391.

Annotation :—Distd. Mickelthwaite v. Fletcher (1879), 27 W. R. 793.

8350 i. Release of prisoner—On what terms—1872 Act, s. 26.]—An attachment for non-payment of money under an order of the Ct. of Ch. is an attachment for non-payment of a debt within the above sect.; & the Ct. of Bkpcy. is invested with jurisdiction, which, in its discretion, it will exercise to discharge bkpts. from custody under such attachment.

Where bkpt. was in custody at the time of obtaining his protection, & the attachment was issued in a suit wherein he was deft., charged by the bill with fraud, & a decree pro confesso was had against him, but no application had been made to the Ct. of Ch. on his behalf in respect of the matters, & he stated in general terms that he had a meritorious defence to the bill :—Held : before entertaining an application for his discharge, the ct. would require his accounting statement to be filed & vouched by him, & reported upon.—Re WALKER (1873), 7 I. 8362. —— Order directing payment after service—Order not served.]—An order was made that a trustee should, within seven days after service of the order, pay to his cestui que trust pltf., a sum found due to him by the chief clerk's certificate. Pltf. could not find the trustee so as to serve the order, & applied for a writ of ne exeat, on the ground that the trustee was about to go out of the jurisdiction :—Held : the case did not fall within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), the trustee not being in default, as the order only directed payment after service & the order had not been served, & as the debt was not due & payable, a writ of ne exeat could not be granted.—COLVERSON v. BLOOMFIELD (1885), 29 Ch. 8366. —— Whether affected by 1883 Act, s. 9.]—By an order made on Apr. 5, 1889, deft. was directed, as trustee, to pay two sums of cash, which he was alleged to have misapplied, into ct. on or before May 6, but he failed to comply with that order. On May 13 a receiving order was made against him on his own petition, & he was adjudicated a bkpt., & he had not obtained his discharge. Pltf. moved for liberty to issue a writ of attachment against him, the notice of motion being dated Apr. 22, 1890 :—Held : the property & person of debtor were protected by the above sect., & the ct. had no jurisdiction to direct a writ of attachment to issue against him.—Re SIMES, SIMES v. NEWBERY (1890), 62 L. On Mar. 25, 1892, deft. not having paid the money, pltfs. moved for leave to issue a writ of attachment for contempt. The motion stood over by consent until Apr. 26 & again to May 13. On May 11 a receiving order was made against deft. on his own petition. On the motion coming on for hearing :—Held : the receiving order did not deprive the Ct. of Ch. of the power of making a committal order, & the ct. had jurisdiction under 1883 Act, s. 10 (2).—ILES v. T. PART XXII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.—A.

n. Power of Court—Imprisonment for Debt Limitation Act, 1908, s. 3 (2) (c).]—Where a trustee has made default in payment of a sum of money ordered to be paid into ct., which sum is proved or admitted to have been in his possession or control, an attachment may be issued against him although he may have spent the money before the date of the order & be unable to pay. Such trustee is a defaulting trustee within the above sect.—ROSE v. MACDONALD (1911), 30 N. Z. L. R. 741.—N.Z.

8365 i. Discretion of court—Defaulter holding fund for investment—No criminal offence—Arrest & Imprisonment for Debt Act, s. 15.]—A. received from B. money, part of which was to be invested & part expended on B.'s farm. A. placed the money to his wife's credit, made no investment, kept no accounts & could not account at all for a large portion, although he said it had been expended on the farm. While an action against A. by B. was pending, A. allowed his wife & sister-in-law to get judgment against him :—Held : there was no criminal offence within the above sect.—BULLOCK v. COLLINS (1901), 8 B. C. R. 23.—CAN.

8370. —— Refusal to exercise.]—Where a trustee, who has been ordered by the ct. to pay over money in respect of which he is liable, does not comply with such order & after the actual delivery of the judgment, but before the date appearing thereon, has executed a deed of partnership with his wife, by which it is agreed to carry on a business as partners in consideration of a sum of money which it was recited she had advanced to him, the ct. will not exercise its discretion in the trustee's favour.—BREWSTER v. PRIOR (1887), 3 T. L. R. 590.

8371. —— Grounds for exercising—No good purpose served by sending trustee to prison.]—Where a defaulting trustee, on being served with notice of motion for a writ of attachment, stated by uncontradicted affidavit, that he had no means at present of paying & was not aware when he should be able to pay, the ct. refused to make any order on the motion, on the ground that no good purpose would be served by sending the defaulter to prison.—BARRETT v. HAMMOND (1879), 10 Ch. D. 285; 48 L. J. Ch. 249; 27 W. R. 471.

Annotation :—Folld. Holroyde v. Garnett (1882), 20 Ch. D. 532.

8372. —— —— ——.]—Under the discretion conferred upon the ct. by 1878 Act, it will refuse to grant an application for a writ of attachment against a defaulting trustee, where, owing to the defaulter being wholly without means, no useful object would be gained thereby.—Re MACKENZIE (1881), 44 L. T. 618.

8373. —— —— Misapplication erroneous & not fraudulent.]—The policy of 1869 & 1878 Acts, as to the imprisonment of a defaulting trustee, whether vindictive or not, in the case of a fraudulent & dishonest debtor, gives the ct. a discretion in dealing with exceptional cases, & where the misapplication of trust-money has been erroneous, & not fraudulent, leave to issue a writ of attachment ought not to be given when there is a prospect of eventual payment.—HOLROYDE v. GARNETT (1882), 20 Ch. 8374. —— —— Trustee unable to pay.]—Where a trustee has committed a fraudulent breach of trust, the fact that he is unable to pay the money, in respect of which he is in default, is not a sufficient ground to induce the ct., in the exercise of its discretion under 1878 Act, to refuse to allow an attachment to issue against him.—Re KNOWLES, DOODSON v. TURNER (1883), 52 L. 8375. —— —— ——.]—The mere fact that a defaulting receiver is unable to pay is not sufficient to induce the ct. to exercise the discretion given by 1878 Act, & to refuse leave to issue a writ of attachment against him.—Re GENT, GENT-DAVIS v. HARRIS (1888), 40 Ch. 8376. —— —— —— Trustee having spent funds before order.]—Where a trustee has made default in payment of a sum of money ordered by the ct. to be paid, & admitted to have been in his possession, an attachment may be issued against him, although he may have spent the money before the order & be unable to pay, & such a trustee is within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3).—MIDDLETON v. CHICHESTER (1871), 6 Ch. 8377. —— —— Trustee not guilty of criminal offence—No contumacious refusal to comply with order.]—Where a trustee had failed to comply with an order to pay into ct. large sums, which had been disallowed him on passing his accounts, it was shown that he had by culpable negligence left trust-money entirely to the management of agents, & that he was unable to prove that the sums disallowed had been applied by them for purposes authorised. There was no charge of any dishonesty, & the trustee alleged on oath that the money had in fact been applied on behalf of the cestui que trust, though under a mistaken view of the trustee's duties. The trustee had no means of replacing the sums. The ct., in the exercise of its discretion under 1878 Act, s. 1, refused to attach the trustee, because (1) he had not been guilty of anything in the nature of a criminal offence, & (2) it did not appear that there was any contumacious refusal to comply with the order.—AYLESFORD (EARL) v. POULETT (EARL), [1892] 2 Ch. 60; 61 L. 8378. —— —— Affidavit as to application of funds—Sufficiency of affidavit—Married woman trustee.]—The ct. has jurisdiction to issue a writ of attachment against a married woman, who, as legal personal representative of deceased intestate, fails to comply with an order for payment into ct. of a sum of money forming part of the personal estate of intestate.

Where an affidavit, made by the defaulter's solr. to the effect that she had applied the sum appearing by the account to be in her hands, or part of it, in payment of intestate's debts, was insufficient to enable the ct. to exercise the powers conferred by 1878 Act, or to ascertain how the money which came to her hands had been disposed of :—Held : the order for the issue of the writ ought to go, but the writ should lie in the office for three weeks to enable the defaulter to make a proper affidavit, showing what had become of the money traced to her hands.—Re TURNBULL, TURNBULL v. NICHOLAS, [1900] 1 Ch. 180; 69 L. 8382. Release of trustee—Not until after final examination.]—Leave was given to issue an attachment against deft. for non-payment of money, being a default by a person acting in a fiduciary capacity. He was attached & put in prison. He then filed a declaration of insolvency & was adjudicated bkpt., & applied for his discharge. 8384. —— In error—Jurisdiction to rearrest—Period of imprisonment on rearrest.]—Debtor was imprisoned under an order made for his attachment for default in payment of a sum of money, which he had been ordered to pay, but was by mistake released before the expiration of the one year limited for imprisonment by 1869 Act, s. 4:—Held: there was no jurisdiction to make a second order for attachment for the same default, though, semble: an order for re-arrest might have been made under the original order for attachment.

In case of an order for re-arrest, the period of imprisonment must end with the twelve months from the date of the original imprisonment, inclusive of the time debtor had been at liberty (MATHEW, L.J.).—CHURCH'S TRUSTEE v. HIBBARD, [1902] 2 Ch. 784; 72 L. B. "Trustee or Person acting in a fiduciary Capacity."

8385. Meaning generally.]—A "person acting in a fiduciary capacity" means a person who stands in a fiduciary relation towards any other person, who may be entitled to call upon him to pay, whether such other person is or is not pltf. or one of the pltfs. in the action, in which the order is made.—MARRIS v. INGRAM (1879), 13 Ch. 8386. Relation of trustee & cestui que trust must exist.]—The special remedy afforded by 1869 Act, in respect of default in payment by a trustee, is a remedy intended to be given only as between trustee & cestui que trust, & is not a remedy for a mere creditor, where the person, against whom the remedy is sought to be asserted, is not a trustee for such creditor.—Re FIRMIN, LONDON & COUNTY BANKING CO., LTD. v. FIRMIN (1887), 57 L. 8388. ——.]—In Oct., 1889, bkpt.'s trustee applied for the committal of bkpt., a solr., on the ground of his refusal to give information & assistance to the trustee in respect of his property as required by 1883 Act, s. 24. The matter was adjourned to enable bkpt. to give the necessary information, with liberty to the trustee to apply to the ct. in respect of his costs of the application, & in July, 1891, on application of the trustee, an order was made on bkpt. to pay those costs. Bkpt. failed to comply with that order, & application was made for his committal. Bkpt. stated that it was impossible for him to pay the costs, he never having had any means to do so:—Held: the jurisdiction of the ct. ought not to be exercised in cases where all that appeared was a mere non-payment of the money bkpt. had been ordered by the ct. to pay, but if the money he had been ordered by the ct. to pay had been a sum, in respect of which he had committed a breach of trust, or if it had been in some way misappropriated, the ct. might have felt inclined to send him to prison as a punishment, but as that was not the case, the application must be dismissed.—Re R., Ex p. TRUSTEE (1892), 36 Sol. 8391. Company promoter.]—A sale by a promoter to his co. was set aside for fraud, & the promoter ordered to repay the purchase-money to the co. The promoter instituted proceedings in liquidation under 1869 Act, s. 125, & a receiver of his property was appointed. No part of the sum ordered to be repaid to the co. was paid. The co. moved to attach the promoter:—Held: attachment could not issue because the promoter was not a trustee or "person acting in a fiduciary capacity."—PHOSPHATE SEWAGE CO. v. HARTMONT (1877), 25 W. C. "Sum in his Possession or under his Control."

8401. Sum composed of principal & interest not distinguished.]—It must be shown that the money ordered to be paid in had been in the fiduciary's possession or under his control. Where the order directs payment of a sum composed of principal & interest not distinguished, an attachment cannot be issued because so much of the sum as represents interest cannot be said to have been in his possession or under his control.—Re HICKEY, HICKEY v. COLMER (1886), 55 L. Where an order was made on a defaulting trustee for payment of one lump sum, which was stated by the order to consist of "proceeds of sale" of certain securities, & of the interest on such proceeds:—Held: no attachment could issue, as it was impossible to distinguish between what was principal & what was interest, & impossible to say that the interest had ever been in the trustee's possession or under his control.—MIDDLETON v. CHICHESTER (1871), 6 Ch. Where a sum of money, forming part of the assets of testator's estate, was paid into a bank to the joint account of two exors., with power to one of them to draw cheques, & he drew out the money & misapplied it, & an order was made against both exors. for payment of the money into ct.:—Held: the other exor. was within s. 4 (3), & a writ of attachment might be issued against him for non-payment of the money.—EVANS v. BEAR (1874), 10 Ch. 8406. Costs of motion for order to pay taxed costs.]—A trustee in liquidation was ordered to pay the taxed costs of the solr., & "the costs of the motion," upon which the order was made. On default, he was committed to prison for his contempt of ct. in disobeying the order:—Held: the order of committal was wrong, for "the costs of the motion" were not money in his hands as a trustee.—Re HIND, Ex p. SHARP (1877), 37 L. T. 168.

8407. Debt due by executor personally to deceased.]—An exor. making default in payment of a sum of money found due from him in an administration action, & which he has been ordered to pay into ct., is within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), notwithstanding that the sum consists of a debt, which had been owing to testator in his life, if the exor. had been in a fiduciary relation to the testator in respect thereof.—Re HICKEY, HICKEY v. COLMER (1886), 55 L. T. 588; 35 W. R. 53.

8408. ——.]—A debtor, who is appointed exor. by his creditor, & who proves the will, is deemed in equity to have paid the debt to himself as exor., & to have the money in his possession in a fiduciary capacity as assets belonging to testator's estate, &, where an order is made against him in an administration action declaring him accountable for the debt as assets in his hands belonging to testator, & ordering him to pay within a given time, & he makes default, he is liable to attachment under 1869 Act, s. 4; but semble: the ct. in the exercise of its discretion will not make an order for attachment against him when he is not morally blameworthy in the matter, as where he never had any means available for payment of the debt, or where, being insolvent, he honestly seeks the protection of the Ct. of Bkpcy.

Where a debtor exor., who had disobeyed an order of a Ct. of Equity for payment of the debt, had, since his appointment as exor., means available for payment, but had denuded himself of his property, & filed a petition in bkpcy. for the purpose of evading payment:—Held: the ct. had jurisdiction to make an order for attachment against him, & the order ought to be made.—Re BOURNE, DAVEY v. BOURNE, [1906] 1 Ch. 697; 75 L. PART XXII. SECT. 1, SUB-SECT. 3.—C.

8401 i. Sum composed of interest & commission on sale not distinguished—Imprisonment for Debt Limitation Act, 1908, s. 3, (2) (c).]—An order for payment by a trustee into ct. included a sum for interest, & also commission received by him on the sale of trust property, for which amount he was liable to account to the beneficiaries:—Held: (1) the commission was not a sum of money within the possession or control of the trustee within the above sub-sect.; (2) as the amount could be distinguished from the other sums due, the ct. had power to amend the order for attachment by deducting the commission.—ROSE v. MACDONALD (1911), 30 N. Z. L. R. 741.—N.Z.

selling certain bonds, forming part of their trust funds. By the judgment in the action they were ordered to make good the value of the bonds at the date of the judgment. The value of the bonds at the date of the judgment was greater than the value of such bonds at the time of the sale :—Held : the difference between the value of the bonds at the time of sale & their value at the date of the judgment was not in the possession of defts. or under their control within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), & the order could not be enforced by attachment.—Re WALKER, WALKER v. WALKER (1890), 60 L. J. Ch. 25 ; 63 L. T. 237 ; 38 W. R. 766.

8410. Heirlooms in possession of tenant for life—Commission on insurance of life of tenant for life.]—Under the will of B., persons entitled to possession of the B. estates might sell the heirlooms, but were to replace them out of the proceeds of sale by articles of a similar character. F. was co-trustee with C., the tenant for life of the B. estates, & C., with the consent of F., sold the heirlooms, & received the purchase-money, but did not purchase other articles in their place. The purchaser paid F. £200 in connection with the sale. Before F., a solr., was appointed a trustee he received £200 from an insurance co. as commission on policies effected through him on C.'s life as security for trust money lent to C. On the death of C. the B. estates passed to A., who commenced an action for the administration of the estate of C., & an order was made directing F. to pay pltf. the £200 received in connection with the sale of the heirlooms, & also the £200 received from the insurance co. F. failed to comply with that order, & A. applied for leave to issue a writ of attachment against him :—Held : the payment of the £200 received as commission from the insurance co. ought not to be enforced by attachment, as the matter was not within 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), but attachment ought to issue in respect of the £200 paid by the purchaser of the heirlooms.—Re BERWICK (LORD), BERWICK (LORD) v. LANE (1900), 81 L. T. 797, C. A.

8411. Must be actual control of money—Constructive receipt not sufficient.]—Upon an application for leave to issue a writ of attachment against a trustee, who has failed to comply with an order for payment into ct. of money alleged to be "in his possession or under his control," it must be strictly proved that the money so ordered to be paid has been in the actual possession or control of the person sought to be committed. It is not sufficient to prove mere constructive receipt by a solr. or agent on such person's behalf.—Re FEWSTER, HERDMAN v. FEWSTER, [1901] 1 Ch. 447 ; 70 L. J. Ch. 254 ; 84 L. T. 45 ; 17 T. L. 8412. —— Evidence of control.]—An admission in the pleadings in an action, in which judgment has gone in the absence of deft. at the trial, cannot, for the purpose of founding an application to attach deft. under 1869 Act, s. 4 (3), as having made default as a trustee when ordered to pay a "sum in his possession or under his control," be put higher than an admission by counsel at the trial or an admission of assets in the certificate of a master in an administration action.

Where deft. charged to his solrs. scheduled debts owing to him in his business with the payment of costs due or to become due, & by a verbal agreement promised pltfs. that if without notice to debtors they would allow him to collect the debts on their behalf, he would pay the proceeds over to them as & when received, & in an action brought against him claiming a declaration that he was a trustee of the proceeds for pltfs., deft. admitted in his statement of defence that he or his agent had collected the book debts, & expended same in discharging liabilities in his business, & in default of his appearance at the trial an order is made that deft. pay a sum being the amount of the book debts in the schedule to pltfs., the ct. will not give leave to issue a writ of attachment. —HARPER v. MCINTYRE (1908), 99 L. T. 191 ; 24 T. L. R. 738 ; 52 Sol. Jo. 533.

8413. —— Master's certificate insufficient evidence of control.]—Deft. was the exor. & trustee of testator, &, by the master's certificate, it was certified that deft. had "received personal estate" of an amount stated, & had paid, or was entitled to be allowed on account thereof, a sum mentioned, "leaving a balance due from him of £1,409 19*s.* 3*d.*," & it was further certified that deft. had "received rents & profits of testator's real estate" to an amount stated, & had paid, or was entitled to be allowed on account thereof, a sum mentioned, "leaving a balance due from him of £82 7*s.* 4*d.*" On a motion for the committal of deft. for not lodging in ct. £1,492 6*s.* 7*d.*, or, in the alternative, for leave to issue a writ of attachment against him :—Held : the master's certificate was not sufficient evidence that the money ordered to be paid into ct. was or had been in the actual possession or control of deft.—Re WILKINS, EMSLEY v. WILKINS (1901), 46 Sol. Jo. 14.

8415. Order punitive—No privilege from arrest.]—Disobedience by a solr. to an order of ct. made against him as an officer of the ct. is a contempt of a criminal nature, & an attachment granted to enforce compliance with the order of ct. is process of a punitive & disciplinary character, & no privilege from arrest exists or can be claimed against the execution of the attachment.

F. was a solr., & an order was made at chambers that he should deliver up certain documents & should pay £10 & certain costs. The order was made against F. as an officer of the ct. F. delivered up the documents, but he did not pay the £10 or the costs. An order for the attachment of F.

8416. —— Lack of means no defence.]—A solr. was ordered, as an officer of the ct., to pay to a client a sum of money, which the solr. had dealt with as his own. The order not having been complied with, an order for attachment was made, although it was proved that the solr. had no means of paying:—Held: the attachment was rightly ordered, as the order for payment was punitive, & not a mere civil process, so as to bring the solr. within the protection of 1869 Act, s. 4.—Re DUDLEY, Ex p. MONET (1883), 12 Q. 8417. Jurisdiction of court—Effect of 1883 Act, s. 9—Solicitor becoming bankrupt.]—An attachment against a solr. for his default in the payment of a sum of money, which he has been ordered to pay in his character of an officer of the ct., is not a merely civil process, but is in its nature punitive, & the fact that a receiving order in bkpcy. has been made against the solr., is not of itself a sufficient reason for refusing to issue an attachment against him; but when such an order for the payment of money has been made against a solr. before the making of a receiving order against him, & he has not obeyed it, the ct. has a discretion whether it will order an attachment to issue by way of punishment to the solr., & it will decline to do so, if it is satisfied that the person who asks for the order can derive no benefit from it, & that the making of it will embarrass the bkpcy. proceedings.

1883 Act, s. 9 (1), has no application to proceedings pending against debtor at the date of the receiving order.—Re WRAY (1887), 36 Ch. D. 138; 56 L. J. Ch. 1106; 57 L. T. 605; 36 W. R. 67; 3 T. L. R. 708, C. A.

SUB-SECT. 5.—DEFAULT IN PAYMENT OF PORTION OF SALARY.

8435. Whether personal service of order necessary—Indorsement of effect of non-compliance.]—An order was made against bkpt. for the payment by him by monthly instalments of a portion of his salary to the trustee for the benefit of his creditors. A sealed copy of the order was served on bkpt. by being sent by post by registered letter to his address. Bkpt. having made default in payment of the instalments under the order, the trustee applied in the county ct. to commit him for contempt of ct. The county ct. judge held, as the sealed copy of the order had not been indorsed with a notice stating that, unless bkpt. obeyed the order, he would be guilty of a contempt of ct. & liable to be committed to prison, & had not been personally served upon him, as required by C. C. R. Ord. 25, r. 58, the ct. had no jurisdiction to commit:—Held: the above rule did not apply in bkpcy., & the county ct. judge sitting in bkpcy. had power to make an order of committal.—Re PICKARD, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER, [1912] 1 K. 8436. Power of High Court to issue—Against party outside jurisdiction—Not limited by 1883 Act, s. 103 (4).]—The High Ct. has power to issue a judgment summons upon a judgment of the High Ct., although the judgment debtor does not reside within the bkpcy. jurisdiction.

The judge in bkpcy. is a judge of the High Ct., & the jurisdiction is the jurisdiction of the High Ct., & extends over the whole of England. The jurisdiction given by 1883 Act, s. 103 (4), is not an exclusive but a concurrent jurisdiction (CAVE, J.).—Re STONE, Ex p. NICHOLSON, Re PHILBY, Ex p. NICHOLSON (1884), 1 Morr. 177.

8437. —— Amount sought less than £50.]—No judgment summons is to be issued out of the High Ct. on any judgment where the amount sought to be recovered is less than £50 at the time of application for issue, except in divorce cases, or in very exceptional circumstances.—PRACTICE NOTE, [1918–19] B. & C. R. 126.

8438. Power of county court to issue—Against alleged partner—Of firm against which judgment recovered in High Court.]—Where judgment has been recovered in the High Ct. against a firm, the county ct. has jurisdiction to issue a judgment summons thereon against a person alleged to be a partner in the firm, as C. C. R. Ord. 25, rr. 14 (b), 17, so far as they provide for the issuing of such a summons, are not ultra vires.—LUMLEY v. OSBORNE, [1901] 1 K. B. 532; 70 L. J. K. B. 416; 84 L. T. 461; 49 W. 8439. —— Against one joint debtor—Committal order in existence against co-debtor.]—In a county ct. action against three defts. upon a joint & several promissory note, judgment was given against all defts. jointly. Upon default in payment of the judgment debt a judgment summons was issued against all three defts., but service could only be effected on one, against whom a committal order was made, but suspended on payment of certain monthly instalments. Application was subsequently made for leave to issue a judgment summons against one of the other defts., but was refused by the county ct. judge, on the ground that he had no jurisdiction to give leave to issue a judgment summons against one joint debtor while a committal order was still in existence against his co-deft., to which no return had been made:—Held: the county ct. judge had jurisdiction to allow the summons to issue.—R. v. BIRMINGHAM COUNTY COURT JUDGE, [1902] 2 K. 8444. —— —— County Courts Act, 1856 (c. 108), s. 2.]—An order for discharge granted by the Insolvent Ct., comprising a judgment debt in the county ct., takes away from the latter ct. the power of committing to prison deft. by a warrant upon a judgment summons issued for non-payment of a debt.

A. sued B. in the county ct. for a debt & recovered judgment payable by instalments. B. then petitioned the Insolvent Debtor's Ct. & filed his petition, wherein he included the debt of A. He was afterwards duly discharged by that ct. Subsequently A. took out a judgment summons against him for non-payment of the instalments, & at the hearing B. gave due proof of his discharge by the Insolvent Ct. Notwithstanding that, the judge committed him to prison. B. applied for a prohibition :—Held : as soon as the order for discharge by the Insolvent Ct. was proved to the satisfaction of the county ct. judge, his jurisdiction to commit was at an end.—COPEMAN v. ROSE (1857), 7 E. & B. 679 ; 26 L. 8448. Summons against alleged partner—Of firm against which judgment recovered in High Court.]—It is essential that the affidavit in support of an application for a judgment summons against a person alleged to be a partner in a firm, against which judgment has been recovered in the High Ct., should state the sources of information & grounds of belief of the document in accordance with C. C. R. Ord. 25, Form 52C.—LUMLEY v. OSBORNE, [1901] 1 K. B. 532 ; 70 L. J. K. B. 416 ; 84 L. T. 461 ; 49 W. R. 374 ; 45 Sol. Jo. 277, D. C.

8449. Form of summons—In whose name—In name of creditor's solicitor.]—Debtor had been co-resp. in a divorce suit, in which petitioner obtained a decree for divorce with costs to be paid by co-resp. The costs were taxed, & by an Order of the Divorce Ct., debtor was ordered to pay the amount of the taxed costs to the solr. for petitioner. The order was in common form & in accordance with the usual practice. Default being made in payment of the costs, the solr. took out a judgment summons in his own name against debtor for the amount of the costs :—Held : the summons was irregular, as it should have been taken out in the name of petitioner.—Re COX-SINCLAIR, Ex p. JONES, [1913] W. 8451. Hearing of summons—No jurisdiction unless C. C. R. Ord. 25, r. 9, complied with.]—An assignee of a judgment debt took out a judgment summons under 1869 Act, s. 5, in the name of the judgment creditor, without having previously obtained leave under the above rule. The county ct. judge refused to make any order, on the ground that an assignee of a judgment debt was not entitled to apply on a judgment summons :—Held : having failed to comply with the above rule, the county ct. judge had no jurisdiction to hear the summons.—EAST END BENEFIT BUILDING SOCIETY v. SLACK (1891), 60 L. J. Q. B. 359, D. C.

8452. Attendance of Debtor—Residing outside jurisdiction—Tender of expenses.]—When the High Ct. issues a judgment summons upon a judgment of the High Ct., & the judgment debtor does not reside within its bkpcy. jurisdiction, debtor need not appear personally, unless his expenses have been tendered by the creditor.—

8462 i. —— Judgment limited to separate property not subject to restraint.]—Where an order was made that a married woman should pay by instalments the amount of a judgment against her, out of her separate estate not subject to restraint against anticipation, or which, being no subject, was liable to execution under Married Woman's Property Act, 1882, s. 19, the ct., upon default in payment of the instalments, made an order for a married woman, execution being, by the terms of the judgment, limited to her separate property not subject to any restraint upon anticipation, unless by reason of Married Women's Property Act, 1882, (c. 75) such property should be liable to execution notwithstanding such restraint. Upon an application for an order of committal against her under 1869 Act, s. 5, the only evidence of her ability to pay was that since the date of the judgment she had received sufficient income of separate property subject to a restraint upon anticipation: —Held: no order could be made against her upon that evidence, because s. 5 did not apply to the judgment.—DRAYCOTT v. HARRISON (1886), 17 Q. 8494. —— On default of payment of composition—Composition agreed after order to pay by instalments.]—A judgment having been recovered against deft. for a sum of money & remaining unsatisfied, pltf. applied to a judge at chambers to commit deft. to prison under 1869 Act, s. 5. The judge made an order for payment of the debt by monthly instalments. After three of such instalments had been paid, proceedings were taken by deft. for the purpose of making a composition with his creditors under 1869 Bkpcy. Act, & a resolution of the creditors was duly passed accepting a composition upon deft.'s debts, payable by two instalments. Default was made in the payment of the first instalment of the composition to pltf., & instalments under the judge's order having by that time become due & not having been paid, pltf. applied again at chambers for the committal of deft. to prison for non-compliance with the judge's order :—Held : the effect of the default in payment of the composition was to remit pltf. to the position he occupied before the proceedings in respect of the composition took place, & the order might be made for deft.'s committal to prison for non-compliance with the judge's order.—NEWELL v. VAN PRAAGH (1874), L. Deft. having made default in payment thereof a judgment summons was taken out, & the judge having heard evidence & being satisfied as to deft.'s means, made an order to commit him to prison for ten days, but directed that the warrant should be suspended, if debtor paid instalments of £4 a month, the first payment to be made in fourteen days:—Held: the order was in reality an order for commitment in respect of the past default in payment of the £20, & not an anticipatory order for commitment in respect of any future default, & the order was valid under 1869 Act, s. 5.—STONOR v. FOWLE (1887), 13 App. Cas 20; 57 L. On debtor's failure to pay the first instalment a summons was taken out under 1869 Act, s. 5, for his committal, & the judge made an order for committal for fourteen days, "warrant to remain in the office for fourteen days," the order did not mention the sum to be paid to avoid arrest, nor the amount of the future instalments, but there was a verbal direction to the registrar that, on payment of £1 within the fourteen days, the warrant was not to be issued, & so as to instalments of £1 for every twenty-eight days. On Aug. 7, 1903, on the application of A., an order of commitment was issued by the registrar of the county ct. That order, after reciting the judgment of Oct. 14, 1901, against B., & that B. had made default in paying part of the amount of the judgment, & that a judgment summons was issued, & that at the hearing of the summons on Dec. 16, 1902, it was proved to the satisfaction of the ct. that B. had means to pay the amount remaining unpaid & refused to pay it, directed that for such default B. should be committed to prison for fourteen days, unless he should sooner pay the sum stated below. The order was stated as "Given under the seal of the ct., Dec. 16, 1902," & as "Issued, Aug. 7, 1903":—Held: (1) as the word "month" in the memorandum of the order of Dec. 16, 1902, entered by the registrar in Book H, meant a lunar month of twenty-eight days, & not a calendar month, there had been default on Aug. 7, 1903, in payment of the instalments within the successive periods of twenty-eight days, & the order of commitment was free from objection (2) the words "present ability" were the governing factor in the whole order; (3) the memorandum in Book H was only a step towards the formal order, which was afterwards to be drawn up.—SAUNDERS v. SWANSEA FINANCE CO., LTD., & HOME (1905), 21 T. 8516. —— Discretion of court—Arrest of army officer under orders for service abroad.]—Pltf. in an action having applied, under the above sect., for an order for the arrest of deft., an officer in the army about to leave England with his regiment:—Held: as there was no affidavit on the part of pltf. to show anything which would satisfy the ct. that pltf. would be prejudiced by the absence of deft., & the ct. had a discretion to exercise as to issuing such an order against an officer, under which he would be arrested & perhaps deprived of his commission, & as the application had been delayed until deft. was just about to leave the ct. would not order the arrest, & thereby allow one of the parties to put an unfair pressure upon the other.—HASLUCK v. LEHMAN (1890), 6 T. L. R. 435, C. A.

8517. —— —— Manager of operatic company leaving England with another company.]—Debtor, manager of pltfs., an operatic co., being about to set off to America in charge of another operatic co., pltfs. applied, under 1869 Act, s. 6, for an order for his arrest upon an affidavit by pltfs.' chairman stating that deft. had admitted owing them £150, but declined to pay over such sum, that he was about to leave England for America, that he was of small means, that between £30,000 & £40,000 of pltfs.' money had passed through his hands, & that on an account being taken further sums beyond the £150 would be found due, that the account could not be investigated nor discovery obtained in the absence of deft., that he would be a material witness in support of the pltfs.' claim in the action, as the only means they had of proving the £150 was due was from admissions to be extracted from him, that he had furnished incomplete accounts, & that his absence would prejudice pltfs. in prosecuting the action & in obtaining judgment & payment. The order for arrest was made on Oct. 30, & early next morning deft. was arrested in Liverpool. His solrs. in London paid £250 into ct., & obtained an order at chambers discharging deft. from custody. On a summons for the discharge of the order of Oct. 30, it was ordered that the summons should be amended, & so much as asked for the rescinding of the order of Oct. 30 should be discharged:—Held: the ct. would not interfere with the exercise of the judge's discretion as to the order of arrest, having regard to all the allegations in the affidavit. —COMEDY OPERA CO. v. CARTE, [1879] W. N. 210.

8520. —— When debtor entitled to discharge.] —Deft. who has been arrested & imprisoned before final judgment, under 1869 Act, s. 6, is entitled to be discharged under s. 4, after final judgment has been obtained, notwithstanding that the judgment is still unsatisfied, & that the absence of deft. from England may, as by hindering his oral examination under C. L. P. Act, 1854, s. 60, with regard to debts owing to him, prejudice pltf. in obtaining the fruits of the judgment.—HUME v. DRUYFF (1873), L. R. 8 Exch. 214; 42 L. J. Ex. 145; 29 L. T. 64.

8521. 1883 Act, s. 25 (1) (a)—Application to debtor absconding before bankruptcy notice or petition.]—The power given by 1883 Act, s. 25 (1) (a), as amended by 1890 Act, s. 7, to grant a warrant, in certain circumstances, for the arrest of debtor, "who has absconded or is about to abscond," is not limited as to time, & applies to the case of debtor absconding before a bkpcy.

PART XXII. SECT. 2.

e. 1872 Act, s. 7—Object of Act.]—The object of the Act is to secure the presence of deft. within the jurisdiction, so that the proceedings of pltf. in prosecuting his action may be rendered of avail up to the marking of final judgment, when the order for the arrest will be annulled.—HESTER v. BYRNE (1874), 8 I. 8532. Fraudulent removal—1869 Act, s. 11 (1) (3) (4) (6)—Conspiracy to remove—No averment of adjudication.]—An indictment charged deft. & others with conspiring contrary to the above Act, & within four months next before the presentation of a bkpcy. petition against deft., fraudulently to remove part of the property of deft. To that there was a plea of not guilty, & a verdict of guilty & judgment. Error was brought, on the ground that there was no allegation that deft. was ever adjudged bkpt. :—Held : (1) the fact of deft. having been adjudged a bkpt. was not necessary to complete the offence of conspiracy ; (2) it was complete, if the persons charged had agreed to remove the goods in contemplation of an adjudication being obtained ; (3) though not expressly alleged, must be taken, after verdict, to have been proved before the jury, & the defect was cured by verdict.—HEYMANN v. R. 8533. —— 1869 Act, s. 11 (5)—Bill of sale void for want of registration—Property transferred to trustees.]—On Dec. 21, 1872, prisoner executed an assignment of the property upon his farm to trustees for the benefit of certain creditors. The assignment was not registered as a bill of sale, & prisoner continued in occupation of the farm, & in possession of the property assigned, under an agreement with the trustees, by which he was to hold possession as their bailiff. On Oct. 14–16, & 17, 1873, prisoner fraudulently removed stock from the farm of more than £10 in value, forming part of the property assigned. Prisoner was indicted under the above sub-sect. for having within four months next before the commencement of the liquidation fraudulently removed part of his property of the value of £10 & upwards :—Held : though the assignment not having been registered as a bill of sale, was void as against the trustee in liquidation, still, inasmuch as, at the time of the fraudulent removal the assignment was in force & the property in the stock removed in the trustees under the assignment, he could not properly be convicted.—R. v. CREESE (1874), L. R. & the other two prisoners were indicted & convicted for removing the goods, with intent to defraud R.'s creditors. The chairman left the question of intention to defeat the creditors to the jury, ruling that there was evidence of an intention to defraud the creditors generally :—Held : (1) the ruling of the chairman was wrong, & the conviction could not be sustained ; (2) the words "any person" in s. 13 meant any person, & was not confined to bkpts. or persons who had liquidated their affairs in bkpcy.—R. v. ROWLANDS (1882), 8 Q. 8535. Embezzlement—1849 Act, s. 251—What amounts to embezzlement—Personal estate to value of £10.]—Bkpts. were indicted under the above sect. for embezzling part of their personal estate to the value of £10 with intent to defraud their creditors. The adjudication of bkpcy. was on June 21, & on June 17 bkpts. had received several bank notes & on same day crossed over to Belgium, where they remained some time. The notes were afterwards received in London from places in Belgium. Bkpts. returned to England, & when before the Bkpcy. Ct. gave no account of the disposal of the notes:—Held: (1) no offence had been committed in England; (2) non-accounting, though evidence of fraudulent appropriation was not part of the crime of embezzlement; (3) on the trial of such indictment no inference unfavourable to bkpts. ought to be drawn from the fact that when before the comr. they refused to be examined, on the ground that they might by their answers criminate themselves. Semble: the meaning of the words "personal estate to the value of £10" was £10 in one sum, & the disposal of several smaller sums at different times, amounting in the aggregate to a larger sum than £10, would not be embezzlement within the Act (ALDERSON, B.).—R. v. DAVISON & GORDON (1855), 7 Cox, C. 8537. —— —— "Transfer"—Acts not amounting to.]—Debtor, after making default in the instalments payable under an arrangement with his creditors & in being sued by some of his creditors for the balance, sold his connection as a travelling draper, alleged to be worth £800, for £150, & used the proceeds partly in the defence of the creditors' actions, & partly in his family's support. He was afterwards adjudicated bkpt.:—Held: (1) the sale of the connection was not a transfer of the whole of his property, & the purchaser was not a party to any fraud; (2) bkpt. was not guilty of a misdemeanour under the above sub-sect.—Re CRANSTON, Ex p. CRANSTON (1892), 8 T. 8538. —— —— —— Fictitious transfer.]—In the above sub-sect. the word "transfer" includes a fictitious transfer.

Deft. at the beginning of 1908, was solvent, & had a considerable surplus of assets, but by July or Aug. he was hopelessly insolvent, there being a large excess of liabilities. About that time he disposed of retail premises in C. Road, which was transferred to A., an impecunious person. Some of the money, which was paid in respect of the transfer or handed over, had been obtained from B., a tobacconist & money-lender, & also a relation of deft., a short time before, & about that time deft. had been paying money to B., which he said was in repayment of loans, which were entirely denied to the accountant by deft. The lease was disposed of to C., also a relation, & deft. remained in the house for some considerable time, & about a year after he was again in possession, the place being carried on by his wife. Deft. having been convicted on counts, which alleged a fraudulent or collusive or bogus transfer or delivery of the stock & business in C. Road to A.:—Held: the above facts were evidence that there was a delivery & a bogus delivery or transfer, & the business was not genuinely transferred to A.—R. v. RICHMAN (1910), 4 Cr. t. —— —— Evidence—1 & 2 Edw. VII., No. 14, s. 523.]—D. was indicted for transferring his property to J. & delivering money to B., with intent to defraud his creditors. D. bought the property, paying a deposit therefor & obtaining a mtge. thereon. His other assets were current bills lodged with a bank as security in connection with his account. He was also indebted to other creditors. Being pressed by them he sold it to J. for cash & a bill, J. undertaking the liability to the bank. Afterwards the property was sold by J. at a profit. The purchaser paid off the mtge., & D. received the balance of the purchase-money over the mtge. & in addition the proceeds of the current bills in the bank. This balance he disposed of by a refund to J. of the cash paid for the property & in paying off alleged loans made by B. & members of his family:—Held: there was evidence that the transfer was made with intent to defraud.—R. v. DAWSON (1903), 6 W. 8541. —— —— "His property"—Deed of assignment.]—On Apr. 24, 1903, prisoner, a hay & coal merchant, executed a deed of assignment of all his property for the benefit of his creditors, which deed was on Apr. 27 registered under Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1887 (c. 57). The deed was also executed by a person as trustee, but not by any of the creditors, none of whom ever knew of its existence. On Apr. 25 the trustee took possession of prisoner's premises & stock & carried on his business, but otherwise did nothing to carry out the trusts of the deed. At the time prisoner signed the deed he had in his possession £120 in cash which he had collected from various debtors. He did not pay this sum to the trustee, & on Apr. 28 quitted England taking the £120 with him. On Apr. 30 a bkpcy. petition was presented against prisoner, on which he was subsequently adjudicated bkpt. Prisoner was indicted under the above sect. for having within four months next before the presentation of the bkpcy. petition quitted England & taken with him £120, being part of his property which ought by law to be divided amongst his creditors. Prisoner was convicted :—Held : (1) no irrevocable trust had been created as to the £120; (2) at the date when prisoner quitted England the £120 was his property, & not the trustees under the deed; (3) prisoner was properly convicted.—R. v. HUMPHRIS, [1904] 2 K. SUB-SECT. 2.—PAWNING, PLEDGING, OR DISPOSING OF PROPERTY OTHERWISE THAN IN ORDINARY WAY OF TRADE.

8544. 1861 Act, s. 221—Constitutes offence—What must be proved—Evidence.]—A bkpt. trader, being indicted under the above sect. for conspiring with B., & also with pawning & disposing of goods with intent to cheat & defraud his creditors, etc., & it appearing that B. had a place of business in Paris, & that goods were obtained there on credit & disposed of in London by pawning :—Held : (1) the questions for the jury were, whether the premises in Paris were really used as an independent place of business for buying & selling, or only as ancillary to the place of business in London, & merely for the purpose of getting hold of goods to be disposed of in London, & whether B. & prisoner acted together for the purpose of obtaining & disposing of such goods, with intent to cheat & defraud the creditors; (2) the jury finding on those questions against prisoner, he was guilty on the counts grounded on the pawning & disposing of goods, but not on the counts for conspiracy to obtain the goods; (3) the trading, etc., must be proved, & the adjudication was not sufficient evidence of the bkpcy.

Prisoner was indicted for obtaining goods within three months of the filing of his petition for adjudication under the false colour & pretence of carrying on business in the ordinary course of trade, & under the same sect. with pawning & disposing of such goods with intent to defraud. Prisoner carried on business at No. 6, Bread Street, in the City of London, in partnership with B., & the firm had a house in Paris, where B. principally was. B. was in the habit of buying large quantities of goods in Paris & transmitting them to London, where they were received in Bread Street, & immediately afterwards pawned or disposed of considerably below the wholesale invoice price. Amongst other creditors was N., a Frenchman, domiciled in Paris, & who afterwards, upon a declaration of insolvency filed by prisoner, became petitioning creditor. Upon his petition exceeding the value of £20, within four months of his bkpcy. The judge did not ask the jury to find whether the accused was responsible for his bkpcy. : Held : it was not necessary.—R. v. CAMERON (1905), 7 W. A. L. R. 274. —AUS.

8540 i. —— Quitting Ireland before petition presented—1872 Act, s. 12.]—An arrest for felony under the above sect. is not warranted upon an information that prisoner was leaving Ireland, & taking with him part of his property to the amount of £20 or upwards, unless it appear that, at the time of the arrest, debtor had been adjudged bkpt. or presented a petition for arrangement, even though within four months afterwards he be adjudged bkpt., or presents such petition for arran ement, as until that takes place debtor does not become guilty of the felony.—SCOTT v. COATES (1876), 10 I. L. T. 165.—IR.

PART XXII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 2.

8544 i. What constitutes the offence—1874 Act, s. 206.]—A person disposes of goods other than in the ordinary way of his trade within the above sect. if he puts them away in such prisoner & B. were jointly adjudicated bkpts.:—Held: (1) as the adjudication of bkpcy. was not upon prisoner's own petition, it was necessary to prove the trading, petitioning creditor's debt, & act of bkpcy.; (2) as the adjudication was joint, it was necessary to prove a joint trading, a joint petitioning creditor's debt, & an act of bkpcy. against each.

The act of bkpcy. suggested against B. was that, having come over to England two days before the adjudication of bkpcy., & having taken away the books, he had absconded, with intent to defeat his creditors:—Held: (1) it was a question for the jury whether he had left London bonâ fide, or for the purpose of defeating his creditors; (2) as the goods had all been obtained in Paris, they were obtained out of the jurisdiction, & prisoner, although acting in concert with B. in Paris, was not answerable in England.

On an objection being taken that a creditor domiciled in France could not be a petitioning creditor for a debt contracted in France with a partner, having a house in London, the question left to the jury was, whether the house in Paris was merely used as a depot for warehousing goods, with intent to transmit them to London to be pawned, & whether it was dependent upon & ancillary to the house in London, or whether it was a bonâ fide house, carrying on an independent, though branch business. The jury having found that the house in Paris was a sham, & used for the purpose suggested, the trial judge refused to reserve the point.

The Act does not make it an offence merely that a trader should pawn, pledge, or otherwise dispose of goods, unless with the intent to defraud the creditors. The selling of goods under prime cost does not per se constitute an offence without such intent. But, if there are many such transactions, if goods are bought at a certain price, & sold shortly afterwards at a lesser one, then, looking at all the circumstances, the intent may be inferred, & the offence constituted.—R. v. RAUDNITZ (1863), 4 F. & F. 165.

8545. Debtors Act, 1869, s. 11 (15)—"Being a trader"—Descriptive of offence—Not of person.]—In 1869 Act, s. 11 (15), the word "trader" & the following words do not come in merely by way of a definition of a "person" but they describe the offence. A person, who is not a trader, cannot be guilty of an offence under the sub-sect.—R. v. BOUGHTON (1911), 76 J. P. 51; 22 Cox, C. C. 599.

8546. —— "Ordinary way of trade"—Bill of sale of all stock-in-trade & effects.]—A grocer obtained goods of his trade upon credit. Soon after receiving them & before they were paid for, he executed a bill of sale in favour of his sister, who lived with him. The bill of sale, which was given in consideration of a debt owing from his sister, passed away all his stock-in-trade & effects whatsoever, including the above-mentioned unpaid-for goods. Having been made bkpt., he was indicted for misdemeanour under the above sub-sect.:—Held: (1) disposing of the goods by bill of sale was not disposing of them in the "ordinary way of trade"; (2) as property which prisoner had obtained on credit, & had not paid for, had passed by the bill of sale he came within s. 11 (15), unless he had no intent to defraud; (3) assigning the whole of his property to one creditor, reserving nothing for the others, showed an intent to defraud.—R. v. THOMAS (1870), 22 L. 8547. —— —— Selling below proper price—After refusing to unload.]—On May 15, prisoner, a tool-maker, gave an order for six tons of steel. On arrival at his wharf, he did not allow it to be unloaded, & on June 13 sold it at 14*s.* per cwt. for cash. Its estimated value was 18*s.* per cwt. On June 28 a petition in bkpcy. was filed against prisoner, he was adjudicated bkpt. on the 29th, & on July 4 a receiver was appointed, who was subsequently made trustee, but bkpt. did not discover the above-mentioned transaction until it was forced out of him on July 26 before the registrar:—Held: there was a case to go to the jury under the above sect.—R. v. BOLUS (1870), 23 L. T. 339; 11 Cox, C. C. 610.

8548. —— —— Giving acceptances for goods bought—Obtaining advances on bills of lading.]—A., within four months of the presentation of a bkpcy. petition against him, being utterly insolvent, bought goods, for which he gave his acceptances, exported the goods, & obtained advances on the bills of lading. No assets were forthcoming upon his bkpcy., & no explanation was given, nor accounts furnished, to show how the sums advanced had been disposed of:—Held: the property had not been disposed of "otherwise than in the ordinary way of his trade," & the ct. would not direct a prosecution under the above sub-sect.—Re HODGSON, Ex p. BRETT (1875), 1 Ch. 8549 i. Ordinary way of trade—Disposing of goods obtained on credit & not paid for—1871 Act, s. 154.]—If a trader in difficulties buys goods on credit for the purpose of immediately selling below the cost price, or for the purpose of raising money upon them wherewith to meet his difficulties, & sells them accordingly, he is guilty of the offence of unlawfully disposing of goods otherwise than in the ordinary way of his trade or business within the above sect.—R. v. MORRIS (1875), 1 V. L. R. 99.—AUS.

8549 ii. —— —— 1869 Act, s. 147.]—Prisoners were indicted for having within three months preceding the execution of an assignment in insolvency pawned, pledged, & disposed of, otherwise than in the way of trade, goods which had remained unpaid for during the three months. The goods, which had been purchased on credit, the period of which had not expired when prisoners were indicted, were given on the day of assignment, but before its execution, to a clerk on account of salary due to him, & to indemnify him against accommodation indorsements, to a carter in their employment, in satisfaction of a sum of money previously deposited with them, & to a person who had given them accommodation notes:—Held: the disposal of the goods as above was an offence within the above sect.—R. v. KERR (1876), 26 C. SUB-SECT. 3.—FAILURE TO DISCLOSE FICTITIOUS PROOFS, AND FAILURE TO KEEP AND FALSIFICATION OF BOOKS.

8554. Failure to disclose proof of false debt—1869 Act, s. 11 (9)—Proof before appointment of trustee—Subsequent liquidation by arrangement under same trustee.]—B., a trader, filed a petition for liquidation of his affairs by composition, & at the first meeting three false debts were proved with his connivance. At the first meeting of creditors, A. was appointed & duly certified trustee. At the next meeting it was resolved that debtor's affairs should be liquidated by arrangement, & not in bkpcy., & A. was still trustee. All those steps were within a month :—Held : A. was a trustee, & entitled to notice of false debts from B., though nothing was then resolved as to arrangement.—R. v. BEAUMONT (1872), 26 L. 8555. Falsification of books—1849 Act, s. 152—Intent to defraud must be proved.]—Upon an indictment of a bkpt. under the above sect. for making false entries with intent to defraud his creditors, the jury found that the act complained of was done by him with intent to deceive his creditors as to the state of his accounts, & to prevent an examination of them in the due course of bkpcy., but that it was not done to defraud the creditors of any property, or to conceal any property, or to prevent them from recovering any part of his estate :—Held : the sect. applied only where the false entry had been made with "intent to defraud creditors," & as such intent was negatived by the finding of the jury, the conviction must be quashed.—R. v. INGHAM (1859), Bell, C. C. 181 ; 29 L. J. M. C. 18 ; 23 J. P. 740 ; 6 Jur. N. S. 55 ; 8 W. R. 28 ; 8 Cox, C. C. 240, C. C. R.

Applt. was indicted under the sub-sect. for destroying & concealing books & documents relating to his property & affairs after a petition in bkpcy. had been filed against him. He was found guilty. The document upon which reliance was mainly based by the prosecution, was a ledger. It was suggested that the ledger had been burnt ; two witnesses said that it had not, & a ledger was produced in ct. The ledger produced was new, 8563. —— Obtaining property or credit essential element—False pretences necessary.]—Bkpt. who, within four months next before the presentation of a bkpcy. petition against him, has obtained goods by any false representation, & has not paid for same, is guilty of a misdemeanour under 1869 Act, s. 11 (13), & any person, who in incurring any debt or liability has obtained credit under false pretences, is guilty of a misdemeanour under s. 13 (1). The essential element of these offences is the obtaining in the one case property & in the other credit, though the making of the false pretence is a necessary element.—R. v. ELLIS, [1899] 1 Q. PART XXII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 4.

s. Contracting debts with knowledge of insolvency—1892 Act, s. 137.]—Bkpt. was indicted under the above sect., which came into operation on Jan. 1, 1893, that he was on Mar. 9, 1893, duly adjudged bkpt. under that Act, & that he, prior to his being so adjudged bkpt., did from Jan. to Oct., 1892, contract various debts, & that he could not have had, when the debts were so contracted, any reasonable or probable grounds of expectation of being able to pay the same as well as all his other debts :—Held : all the offences charged were committed prior to the coming into operation of the above Act, which made those offences penal, & as that Act was not in express terms retrospective, the indictment disclosed no offence.—R. v. HARPER (1893), 12 N. Z. L. R. 413.—N.Z.

t. —— 1908 Act, s. 138 (b).]—A trader, in addition to having considerable liabilities & an increasing bank overdraft, financed his business by means of accommodation bills, & also during the same period obtained goods on credit :—Held : there was evidence to go to the jury that when the bills were negotiated & the goods obtained he could not have had any reasonable or probable expectation of being able to pay the debts so contracted as well as his other debts.—R. v. DARBY (1911), 30 N. a. —— False pretences — Obtaining money by—1867 Act, ss. 305–310.]—Bkpt. had upon his marriage insured who let apartments under false pretences & by means of fraud other than false pretences. Evidence was admitted of other cases in which deft. had shortly before obtained apartments at other houses & had left owing money:—Held: the evidence was admissible as tending to establish a system & negativing accident or mistake.—R. v. WYATT, [1904] 1 K. B. 188; 73 L. J. K. B. 15; 68 J. P. 31; 52 W. R. 285; 20 T. L. R. 68; 48 Sol. Jo. 85; 20 Cox, C. C. 462, C. C. R.

8569. —— —— —— ——.]—Deft. was charged that he, in incurring a debt & liability to a person who let apartments, unlawfully did obtain credit for the amount of the debt & liability by means of fraud other than false pretences. Evidence was admitted of other cases, in which deft. had shortly before obtained credit from persons letting houses or apartments, & also from a tradesman for goods supplied:—Held: the evidence was admissible as tending to establish a system & to negative accident or mistake.—R. v. WALFORD (1907), 71 J. P. 215, C. C. R.

8570. —— —— —— —— Must be transactions of similar nature.]—Applt. was charged with obtaining credit by fraud under s. 13. Evidence was given of two previous occasions, upon which he had obtained credit & had not paid:—Held: as those transactions could not properly have been the subject of a criminal charge, they were not transactions of a similar nature with the transaction in question, & could not be given in evidence to show fraud on the latter occasion.—R. v. BAIRD (1915), 84 L. J. K. B. 1785; 113 L. T. 608; 25 Cox, C. C. 86; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 186, C. C. A.

8571. —— False pretences—Whether misrepresentation necessary element.]—Evidence that a person obtained goods from an intending vendor, being without the means of paying for such goods & with the intention of defrauding the owner, but without making any representation either as to his ability to pay or his intentions, is sufficient to support a conviction for obtaining credit by fraud on an indictment under s. 13.—R. v. JONES, [1898] 1 Q. B. 119; 67 L. J. Q. B. 41; 77 L. T. 503; 46 W. R. 191; 14 T. L. R. 79; 42 Sol. Jo. 82; 19 Cox, C. C. 87, C. C. R.

8572. —— —— —— Incurring hotel bill with statements as to payment by firm, etc.]—Deft., who was indicted under s. 13 for having obtained credit for a sum of £7 7*s.* 11*d.* for food & drink & sleeping accommodation supplied, & service rendered to him by a hotel proprietor, went to the hotel & engaged a bedroom which he occupied for about a fortnight, being during that time supplied with food & drink & other articles. When ordering some of the articles he said: "I will have that booked; the firm will pay for it, & it does not come out of my pocket"; & when bills were presented to him for payment he asked for time, & said that he was expecting remittances from his mother. Subsequently, when pressed for payment he said: "I am going to throw myself on your mercy; I had no money when I came, & I have no money now; I have no firm, & I cannot pay your bill unless the money is given me by some one." He was then apprehended. The trial judge directed the jury that before they could convict, they should be satisfied that deft. was a person without sufficient means to pay the debt he had incurred to the prosecutrix, & that with the intention of cheating her he had obtained credit from her by means of fraud, not intending to pay the debt. The jury found deft. guilty:—Held: there was no doubt that there was evidence of prisoner's guilt to go to the jury.—R. v. EDWARDS (1898), 42 Sol. Jo. 472, C. C. R.

8573. —— —— Must have induced transaction—Direction for jury.]—On the trial of an indictment for obtaining credit by false pretences, the jury should be specifically directed that the obtaining must have been induced by the false pretences.—R. v. SMITH (1915), 11 Cr. App. Rep. 81, C. C. A.

8574. —— —— Admissibility of evidence—State of banking account.]—On a charge of obtaining credit by false pretences, one of the pretences averred being that deft. was a man of means, evidence as to the state of his banking account for some time past may be admissible.—R. v. FRYER (1912), 7 Cr. App. Rep. 183, C. C. A.

8575. —— "Debt or liability"—Renewal of bill.]—Where a new bill is given in renewal of an old one, a new debt is incurred, which is a "debt or liability" within s. 13 (1).—R. v. PIERCE (1887), 56 L. J. M. C. 85; 56 L. T. 532; 51 J. P. 790; 3 T. L. R. 586; 16 Cox, C. C. 213, C. C. R.

8576. —— "Credit."]—A vendor, who delivers goods on the terms that they are to be paid for immediately after they have been received, gives credit to the purchaser.—R. v. JONES, [1898] 1 Q. B. 119; 67 L. J. Q. B. 41; 77 L. T. 503; 46 W. R. 191; 14 T. L. R. 79; 42 Sol. Jo. 82; 19 Cox, C. C. 87, C. C. R.

8577. —— —— To whom it must be given—At what time deemed to be given.]—Before a person can be convicted of an offence within s. 13 (1), it must be shown that he obtained credit to be given to himself. It is not sufficient to show that he has obtained credit to be given to some one else. If a person induces another to enter into an executory contract of sale for the delivery of goods at a future day at a specified price to be paid on delivery of the goods, a debt is incurred & credit given on the making of the contract.—R. v. BRYANT (1899), 63 J. P. 376.

8578. —— Form of indictment—Means by which credit procured must be set forth.]—A count under s. 13 (1), alleging simply that deft. did obtain

Afterwards he deposited the policy as security for advances made to him, but on becoming insolvent & filing in ct. verified statements of his assets, & liabilities, he made no mention of the policy as an asset in which he had any interest:—Held: a fit case for prosecution for obtaining money by false pretences with intent to defraud.—Re HENNINGHAM, Mac. 729.—N.Z.

b. Fraudulent misappropriation of assets.]—Insolvent expended the balance of money obtained by him, upon the purchase of provisions for himself & family, without any regard to his pledge to pay for goods obtained by him:—Held: such expenditure was a fraudulent misappropriation of his assets, rendering insolvent liable to imprisonment under Insolvency Act.—Re WALL'S INSOLVENCY (1864), 5 Nfld. L. R. 78.—NFLD.

c. Renewal of notes—1864 Act, s. 8 (7).]—Insolvent indorsed renewal notes, but his conduct in respect of the original notes, which had been given for the purchase of goods some years before the renewal, was not blamable:—Held: there was no procurement of an advance in money nor was there a purchase of goods on credit, within the above subsect.—Re JONES (1868), 4 P. R. 317.—CAN.

d. Fraud in purchase of goods—Form of indictment—Averment of insolvency—1875 Act, s. 36.]—An averment under the above sect. charging defts. with fraud in the purchase of goods need not allege that defts. have gone into insolvency.—BARRY v. HEGAN (1879), 18 N. B. R. 465.—CAN.

8581. —— —— Amendment by changing false pretences to "by means of fraud."]—Deft. was indicted under s. 13 (1), for obtaining credit by means of false pretences, which were set out. The prosecution failed to prove the false pretences, & the ct. amended the indictment by striking out all the false pretences & substituting therefor the words "by means of fraud" :—Held : (1) s. 13 (1) contained two different offences, namely, the obtaining credit (i) under false pretences, or (ii) by means of other fraud ; (2) the amendment amounted to the substitution of one offence for another, & there was no power to make such an amendment.—R. v. BENSON, [1908] 2 K. B. 270 ; 17 L. J. K. B. 644 ; 98 L. T. 933 ; 72 J. P. 286 ; 24 T. L. R. 557 ; 52 Sol. Jo. 516 ; 21 Cox, C. C. 631, C. C. R.

8582. —— Where offence committed.]—Prisoner made false representations in Glasgow as to his credit & financial position. On the faith of those representations goods were supplied to him on credit in the county of Durham. He was shortly afterwards made bkpt. :—Held : the offences were committed in the county of Durham, & the Assize Ct. for that county had jurisdiction to try prisoner.—R. v. ELLIS, [1899] 1 Q. 8583. —— Trial—Joinder of counts for obtaining goods by false pretences & credit by false pretences.]—Where an indictment contains counts for obtaining goods by false pretences & also counts under 1869 Act for obtaining credit under false pretences prisoner ought not to be tried on them all at the same time ; the prosecution should be called upon to proceed on one count at a time.

If he is tried upon them all at once very serious difficulties may arise, inasmuch as evidence which is admissible on the charge of obtaining credit by false pretences may not be admissible on the charge of obtaining chattels by false pretences, & when all the evidence on both charges is before the jury it is very difficult, if not impossible, for them to separate the evidence when they come to consider their verdict (LUSH, J.).—R. v. NORMAN, [1915] 1 K. B. 341 ; 84 L. J. K. B. 440 ; 112 L. T. 784 ; 79 J. P. 221 ; 31 T. L. R. 173 ; 24 Cox, C. C. 681 ; 11 Cr. App. Rep. 58, C. C. A.

SUB-SECT. 5.—UNDISCHARGED BANKRUPT PROCURING CREDIT WITHOUT DISCLOSURE OF BANKRUPTCY.

8585. "Obtain credit"—Credit in fact obtained—No time of payment stipulated for.]—In order to convict an undischarged bkpt. under 1883 Act, s. 31, it is not necessary that there should be a stipulation to grant credit in the contract between the parties ; it is sufficient if a credit in fact is obtained.

Prisoner, an undischarged bkpt., bought a horse from prosecutor, a farmer in Ireland, for £22, free of expenses to the vendor, who by prisoner's direction delivered the horse on board a steamer at Larne ; no stipulation was made as to the time or mode of payment, & prisoner did not disclose the fact that he was an undischarged bkpt. Prisoner paid for the carriage of the horse on its delivery to him at Newcastle, & immediately sold it, & refused to pay the price to the prosecutor :—Held : there was evidence to go to the jury of an obtaining of credit by prisoner within s. 31.—R. v. PETERS (1886), 16 Q. 8586. —— —— Request for credit need not be proved.]—In order to convict an undischarged bkpt. of the statutory offence of "obtaining credit to the amount of £20 or upwards from any person without informing such person that he is an undischarged bkpt." it is not necessary to prove a request for credit by bkpt., but it is enough if credit be, in fact, obtained.—R. v. JUBY (1886), 55 L. 8587. —— —— Intent to defraud need not be proved—Evidence for purpose of contraverting intention inadmissible.]—An intent to defraud is not an ingredient of the offence created by 1883 Act, s. 3, & evidence to show that deft. had no intention to defraud is inadmissible.—R. v. DYSON, [1894] 2 Q. 8589. —— "More than £20"—Acceptance of goods of more than that value sent on order for less.]—The offence of obtaining credit to the extent of £20 or upwards by an undischarged bkpt. is committed where bkpt. receives & keeps goods of the value of £20 or upwards without paying for them, or informing the creditor of the fact of his being an undischarged bkpt. or repudiating the contract, although the goods were sent in execution of an order for goods of a less value than £20.—R. v. JUBY (1886), 55 L. SUB-SECT. 6.—THE ORDER FOR PROSECUTION.

8594. 1849 Act—Bankrupt not entitled to protection—Till after last examination.]—The ct. will order bkpt. to be prosecuted by the assignees for fraudulently altering his books & making false entries therein, & such bkpt. is not entitled to protection until he has passed his last examination.—Re ASHLIN (1852), 18 L. T. O. S. 348.

See, now, 1914 Act, ss. 154 (9), (10), 161.

8595. 1861 Act, s. 221—Jurisdiction of commissioners.]—Bkpt. had been guilty of acts, which amounted to a misdemeanour within the above sect., & one of the comrs. under s. 159 granted him an order of discharge with a suspension of twelve months:—Held: (1) the comr. had jurisdiction to direct a prosecution before a ct. of criminal justice, & it was not incumbent on him, with or without a jury, to try the case himself; (2) the order should be discharged, & a prosecution directed by the assignees at the next assizes.—Re WILSON, Ex p. DOBSON (1862), 1 New Rep. 75; 32 L. J. Bcy. 1; 7 L. T. 444; 11 W. R. 100, L. JJ.; subsequent proceedings (1863), 1 New Rep. 379, L. JJ.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Evans, Ex p. Berry (1872), 27 L. T. 53, L. JJ.

8596. —— Discretion of court—As to previous examination of bankrupt.]—An order for the prosecution of bkpt. may be made before the appointment of a creditors' assignee, & notwithstanding bkpt. has not been examined or had any opportunity of explanation afforded him, & it is a matter for the discretion of the comr. whether a previous inquiry or an examination of bkpt. shall be directed.—Re LEVI, Ex p. LEVI (1864), 5 New Rep. 203; 34 L. J. Bcy. 23; 11 L. T. 527; 11 Jur. N. S. 97; 13 W. R. 209, L. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Marsden, Ex p. Marsden (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786.

8597. —— —— Interference by appellate court.]—The Ct. of Appeal in bkpcy. will not interfere with the discretion of a comr., who has directed the prosecution of bkpt. immediately after adjudication, & before bkpt. has been examined, or had an opportunity of explanation.—Re LEVI, Ex p. LEVI (1864), 5 New Rep. 203; 34 L. J. Bcy. 23; 11 L. T. 527; 11 Jur. N. S. 97; 13 W. R. 209, L. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Marsden, Ex p. Marsden (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786.

8598. —— —— Court need not order prosecution—Effect on costs.]—It is not necessary for the Ct. of Bkpcy. to order the prosecution, & the only effect of its not being so ordered is one of costs.—R. v. GRAHAM (1868), 18 L. T. 184.

8599. —— Application should be made ex parte.]—All applications for the criminal prosecution of bkpts. should be ex p., & counsel for bkpt. should not be heard.—Re NEWBERRY, Ex p. HYAMS (1864), 11 L. T. 390.

8600. —— Must be reasonable evidence of guilt—Suspicion insufficient.]—Reasonable evidence of the guilt of parties is necessary before a prosecution by indictment, under the above sect., can be directed; mere suspicion is not enough.—Re STILL, Ex p. STRICKLAND (1862), 32 L. J. Bcy. 12, L. C.

Annotation:—Apprvd. Re Howard, Ex p. Stallard (1868), 16 W. R. 469, L. J.

8601. —— —— Conviction not only reasonable but probable.]—After bkpt. has been taken before a magistrate & committed for trial upon a charge of having concealed his property with intent to defraud his creditors, & the grand jury upon an indictment for a misdemeanour under the above sect. have found a true bill against him, the ct. will not sanction the prosecution under s. 223, if there appears no reasonable prospect of a conviction:—Qu.: whether, if the chance of a conviction be not only reasonable but probable, the ct. will sanction the prosecution, when no application is made for the purpose before the indictment is preferred.—Re NEWBERRY, Ex p. HYAMS (1864), 11 L. T. 390.

8602. —— When court will direct prosecution.]—Where bkpt. is accused of a misdemeanour within the above sect., upon evidence capable of supporting an indictment, & affording reasonable probability of obtaining a conviction, the ct. will direct a prosecution.—Re NICHOLSON (1865), 12 L. T. 829.

8603. —— —— Irresistible evidence not required—Duty of court.]—It is the duty of the Ct. of Bkpcy. to

PART XXII. SECT. 3, SUB-SECT. 6.

e. Discretion of court.]—When the ct. cannot believe the account given by bkpt. & his friend, the alleged custodian of a large sum belonging to creditors, & when the account leads to the inference of deliberate falsehood, the ct. will not direct a prosecution, although it adjourns the final examination sine die.—Re M'CARTHY & Co. (1863), 15 Ir. Jur. 178.—IR.

f. —— What evidence sufficient—Admissions under examination.]—The ct. will not order a prosecution against bkpt., the only criminatory evidence against whom has been obtained from his own admissions when under direct a prosecution under the above sect., wherever there is reasonable evidence of guilt to lay before a jury, & irresistible evidence is not required.—Re HOWARD, Ex p. STALLARD (1868), 3 Ch. App. 408; 37 L. J. Bcy. 7; 16 W. R. 469, L. J.

Annotations:—Consd. Re Hodgson, Ex p. Brett (1875), 1 Ch. D. 151, C. A.; Re Northern Counties Bank (1883), 31 W. R. 546.

8604. —— At what time granted—Before appointment of trustee.]—By an order of a comr., after reciting that there were reasonable grounds for supposing that bkpt. had been guilty of some one or more of the offences set forth in the above sect., & that petitioning creditors were desirous that he should be prosecuted criminally, it was ordered that criminal proceedings or a prosecution might be forthwith commenced & prosecuted against bkpt. No creditors' assignee had been appointed:—Held: it was no objection to the validity of the order that creditors' assignees had not been appointed.—Re LEVI, Ex p. LEVI (1864), 5 New Rep. 203; 34 L. J. Bcy. 23; 11 L. T. 527; 11 Jur. N. S. 97; 13 W. R. 209, L. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Marsden, Ex p. Marsden (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786.

8605. —— Before close of examination.]—G., a bkpt., was indicted for a misdemeanour under the above sect. Bkpt. had come up for examination before the Ct. of Bkpcy., & a day had been fixed for him to pass his final examination & obtain his discharge, but before the arrival of the day appointed, the proceedings were taken by the creditors' assignees which formed the subject of the indictment. It did not appear from the proceedings in the Ct. of Bkpcy., that bkpt. had ever passed his final examination. It was objected that the criminal proceedings were premature, & that it was intended by the Act that no such proceedings should be taken till bkpt. had passed his final examination:—Held: as criminal proceedings were no part of the proceedings in the bkpcy., an indictment might be preferred at any time when the offence charged was complete, whenever that might be.—R. v. GRAHAM (1868), 18 L. T. 184.

8606. —— Form of order—Offences not particularised.]—Form of order for prosecution, referring to "one or more of the offences set forth in the above sect.," approved of.—Re LEVI, Ex p. LEVI (1864), 5 New Rep. 203; 34 L. J. Bcy. 23; 11 L. T. 527; 11 Jur. N. S. 97; 13 W. R. 209, L. C.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Marsden, Ex p. Marsden (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786.

8607. 1861 Act, s. 223—Power to take debtor before magistrate.]—The ct. has no power under the above sect. to sanction the taking of bkpt., accused of a misdemeanour under the Act, before a magistrate.—Re NEWBERRY, Ex p. HYAMS (1864), 11 L. T. 390.

8608. 1869 Act, s. 16—Jurisdiction of court—Extends to liquidation by arrangement.]—A county ct. judge refused, on the application of the trustees of a fraudulent debtor, to make an order under the above sect. for the prosecution of debtor, on the ground that he had no jurisdiction:—Held: for the purposes of the sect. bkpcy. & liquidation by arrangement were the same thing, & a prosecution of the debtor should be directed.—Re DEMPSEY, Ex p. DEMPSEY (1873), 8 Ch. App. 676; 42 L. J. Bcy. 93; 28 L. T. 860; 37 J. P. 660; 21 W. R. 800, L. JJ.

8609. —— —— Debtor presenting his own petition.]—The ct. has no jurisdiction to order the trustee to prosecute debtor, who has presented his own petition, for acts made misdemeanours by 1869 Act, s. 11 (13) (14) (15).—Re BURDEN, Ex p. WOOD (1888), 21 Q. B. D. 24; 57 L. J. Q. B. 570; 59 L. T. 149; 36 W. R. 896; 5 Morr. 166, D. C.

Annotation:—Expld. R. v. Beck (1889), 61 L. T. 596, C. C. R.

8610. —— Application ex parte—Locus standi of bankrupt.]—Applications to the ct. under the above sect. for leave to prosecute bkpt. are properly made ex p., & bkpt. cannot be heard in opposition.—Re MARSDEN, Ex p. MARSDEN (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786; 45 L. J. Bcy. 141; 34 L. T. 700; 24 W. R. 714, C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Appleby, Ex p. Brown (1876), 2 Ch. D. 799, C. A.

8611. —— "Representation of any creditor"—Must be in writing— & supported by evidence.]—The representation by a creditor to the ct., mentioned in the above sect., as a foundation for an order directing the prosecution of bkpt. for alleged offences under the Act, must be made in writing, supported by proper evidence, & filed with the proceedings in bkpcy.—Re LEONARD, Ex p. LEONARD (1875), L. R. 19 Eq. 269; 44 L. J. Bcy. 80; 31 L. T. 853; 23 W. R. 253.

Annotation:—Consd. Re Marsden, Ex p. Marsden (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786.

8612. —— What evidence sufficient—Report of trustee showing reasonable probability of conviction.]—An order to prosecute bkpt. under the above sect. may be made without any further evidence than the report of the trustee, if the ct. is satisfied from that alone that there is a reasonable probability of a conviction.—Re MARSDEN, Ex p. MARSDEN (1876), 2 Ch. D. 786; 45 L. J. Bcy. 141; 34 L. T. 700; 24 W. R. 714, C. A.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Appleby, Ex p. Brown (1876), 2 Ch. D. 799, C. A.

8613. —— Grounds for refusing—Not that property removed has been recovered.]—The application of the trustee in a liquidation under the above sect. for an order to prosecute the liquidating debtor for fraudulently removing his property ought not to be refused, merely on the ground that the trustee has recovered the property so removed.—Re WARD, Ex p. MONKHOUSE (1879), 40 L. T. 296.

8614. —— Effect of order.]—An order for prosecution does not prejudice debtor, but its only effect is to throw upon the country the expense of the prosecution, just as if it were a case of felony instead of a case of misdemeanour.—Re MARSDEN, Ex p. MARSDEN (1876), 2 Ch. SUB-SECT. 7.—COSTS OF PROSECUTION.

8621. Jurisdiction of court—1849 Act, s. 12.]—The ct. in the exercise of its primary jurisdiction may, in exceptional & special circumstances, order payment of the costs of a prosecution of bkpt., instituted under the direction of the ct., out of the estate in the hands of the trade assignee.—Re BALLARD (1863), 9 L. T. 399.

8622. —— 1869 Act, s. 17—Prosecution not ordered.]—Where the prosecution of bkpt. under 1869 Act is not ordered by any ct., the judge at the trial has no power to allow the costs of the prosecution.—R. v. THOMAS (1870), 22 L. T. 138 ; 11 Cox, C. C. 535.

8623. When costs allowed—Prosecution on instructions of creditors—4 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 106—"Just allowances."]—Creditors, at a special meeting for the purpose, directed a prosecution for perjury & conspiracy in the proof of debts, to be commenced & carried on by the assignees :—Held : the expenses came fairly under the description of "just allowances" authorised by 6 Geo. 4, c 16, s. 106, to be made to the assignees out of the estate. —Re ALLMOND, Ex p. STRANGE (1828), Mont. & M. 31, L. C.

8624. —— —— Prosecution without order—Only in exceptional cases.]—A trustee, who prosecutes debtor for offences committed against the bkpcy. laws without first obtaining an order of the ct. for that purpose under 1869 Act, s. 16, will not, as a general rule, be allowed the costs of the prosecution out of the estate, even although the prosecution was expressly sanctioned by the committee of inspection.—Re HOWES, Ex p. WHITE, [1902] 2 K. B. 290 ; 71 L. J. K. B. 705 ; 46 Sol. Jo. 588 ; 9 Mans. 252.

8625. —— Compromise without sanction of court.]—Where the assignees of bkpt., having commenced a criminal prosecution against him for offences under 1861 Act, compromise the prosecution without the sanction of the ct., the ct. will not, save in exceptional cases, order the costs of the prosecution to be paid out of the chief registrar's fund or out of the bkpt.'s estate.—Re EVANS, Ex p. BERRY (1872), 27 L. T. 53 ; 20 W. R. 849, L. JJ.

8626. —— Failure to arrest debtor.]—Where the ct., being clearly of opinion that bkpt. had committed offences under 1861 Act, s. 221, directed a prosecution, & active steps were taken to apprehend bkpt. & bring him before a magistrate, but he, having heard of the proceedings, left the country : —Held : there being no estate, the costs should be taxed & paid out of the chief registrar's fund.—Re BAROCH (1869), 17 W. R. 689.

8627. What costs allowed—Costs of taking bankrupt before magistrate—1861 Act, s. 223.]—The ct. will not allow the costs of going before a magistrate to be paid out of the estate.—Re NEWBERRY, Ex p. HYAMS (1864), 11 L. T. 390.

8628. —— Costs of prosecuting accomplices—1861 Act, s. 221.]—Where a prosecution is directed against bkpt. for a misdemeanour under the above sect., the costs, not only of the prosecution of bkpt., but also of the prosecution of his accomplices, will be allowed out of the chief registrar's account.—Re LEVI (1867), 2 Ch. 8633. Indictment for offence against 1849 Act, s. 251—Whether proceeding pending at date of repeal of Act—1881 Act, s. 230.]—Prisoner, a bkpt., was tried on indictment for an offence against 1849 Act, s. 251, in feloniously not surrendering himself to the Ct. of Bkpcy. on the day limited for his surrender with intent to defraud his creditors. The warrant of the comr. for his apprehension on that charge, & the confirmation on which it was founded, were signed & dated before the coming into operation of 1861 Act, which by s. 230 repealed the before-mentioned statutory provision subject to certain exceptions therein contained. It was contended that in the circumstances the indictment was not a proceeding pending at the date of the repeal. Prisoner was convicted:—Held: (1) there was a proceeding pending within s. 230; (2) the word "penalty" in that sect. extended to any penal consequences whatsoever, & was not restricted to a pecuniary penalty only; (3) the conviction should be affirmed.—R. v. SMITH (1862), Le. & Ca. 131; 31 L. Part XXIII.—Compositions and Schemes and Deeds of Arrangement.

NOTE.—The provisions now in force in England are, as to Compositions & Schemes of Arrangement under the Bankruptcy Acts, Bankruptcy Act, 1914 (c. 59), ss. 16, 17 & 21, which reproduce in substance the 1883 Act, ss. 19, 23 & 105 (6), & 1890 Act, s. 3 (replacing 1883 Act, s. 18), as amended by 1913 Act, s. 7, &, as to Deeds of Arrangement apart from the Bankruptcy Acts, Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1914 (c. 47), herein referred to as 1914 (Deeds) Act. This latter Act repealed Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1887 (c. 57), & Bankruptcy & Deeds of Arrangement Act, 1913 (c. 34) (so far as it dealt with deeds of arrangement), herein referred to as 1887 Act & 1913 Act respectively. In considering the cases set out in this Part, many of which were decided under the 1869 & earlier Bankruptcy Acts, regard must be had to their date, the Act under which they were decided, & the effect of the subsequent Acts.

SECT. 1.—JURISDICTION OF COURT.

8634. Under 1861 Act, s. 136—Extends to deed of inspectorship.]—Held : a deed of inspectorship was included in the words " deed of composition or arrangement " in the above sect.—Re DEED OF INSPECTORSHIP, Ex p. JOHNSON (1869), 20 L. T. 177.

8635. —— Resolution under s. 110.]—Where creditors have by the requisite statutory majority resolved under 1861 Act, s. 110, to suspend proceedings in bkpcy., & to have the estate wound up by trustees, the Ct. of Bkpcy. has still power under s. 136 to determine any questions that may arise in the winding up of the estate by the trustees, & will restrain a Ch. suit for the administration of the estate.—Re PARTRIDGE, Ex p. PENYSTON (1874), 31 L. The general enactments in ss. 49 & 50 apply to all discharges under the stat., & an order of discharge in each of the three cases operates only to release debtor in whose favour it is given, leaving his solvent co-debtor still liable to be sued separately by a joint creditor who has been a party to the release of the insolvent debtor.—MEGRATH v. GRAY, GRAY v. MEGRATH (1874), L. 8643. Under 1883 Act—As regards costs.]—A second meeting of creditors under a bkpcy. petition, held to consider the confirmation of a scheme of arrangement of debtor's affairs accepted at the first meeting, is not a "proceeding in ct." within 1883 Act, s. 105 (1), & the ct. has no power to order the costs of petitioner incidental to that meeting to be paid out of debtor's estate. —Re STRAND, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1884), 13 Q. 8644. —— To proceed after death of debtor.]—In 1889 A. mortgaged property to secure £2,000 & interest. Shortly afterwards a receiving order was made against A. on his own petition. In July, 1890, he made a composition with his creditors under 1883 Act, s. 18, which was approved of by the ct., under which the creditors were to be paid by three instalments extending over a year. The mtgees. neither attended the creditor's meeting nor assented to the scheme of composition. Default was made in payment of the instalments. A. died two months after the expiration of the year, & an action in Ch. was commenced by a creditor for the administration of his estate which proved to be insolvent. The mtgees. valued their security at £1,500, & claimed to be admitted as creditors in the action for £500, the balance of their debt. Their proof had been admitted by the trustee under the composition deed :—Held : the Ct. of Bkpcy. had jurisdiction to proceed in the bkpcy. of A. under 1883 Act, ss. 108, 18 (11), notwithstanding his death, & the strict course would be to allow appcts. to take proceedings in that ct., but pltf. having submitted, in order to save delay & expense, to abide by the judgment of the Ct. of Ch., on what would be the result of those proceedings, the claim was admitted.—Re HARDY, HARDY v. FARMER, [1896] 1 Ch. 904 ; 65 L. b. Under 1857 Irish Act—Amount of composition—Annulment of bankruptcy.]—The Cts. of Bkpcy. & Insolvency in Ireland have no jurisdiction over compositions between bkpts. & their creditors save to see that the amount of composition offered corresponds with that advertised & to annul (with or without costs) the adjudication of bkpcy.—Re FAHY (1861), 14 Ir. Jur. 46.—IR.

c. Equitable jurisdiction — 1857 Irish Act.]—Although the Bkpt. Ct. is a Ct. of Law & Equity, it cannot exercise its equitable jurisdiction, even in favour of creditors, in any way not warranted by the above statute.—Re CRAIG (1869), I. R. 4 Eq. 158.—IR.

d. —— To order particular debt to be paid in full.]—The ct. has an equitable jurisdiction to direct that a particular creditor shall be paid a portion of his debt in full, if the trader's proposal would not be reasonable or proper as regards that creditor. Such time may be given for payment as the ct. directs.—Re AN ARRANGING TRADER (1877), 18 Ir. Jur. 323.—IR.

e. Under Irish 1872 Act — To stay proceedings in arrangement matter.] —When a debtor's summons has been duly issued & served previously to an order for protection against process, obtained by debtor under proceedings in arrangement instituted after service of the debtor's summons, & an act of bkpcy. has been committed by debtor, a petition for adjudication in bkpcy. may be presented, & the ct. will stay further proceedings in the arrangement matter.—Re KER (1877), 12 I. L. T. 9.—IR.

f. —— To see that composition is fair.]—A bkpcy. judge has no power to compel a purchaser of property from an arranging debtor to lodge his purchase-money in ct. before completion of the purchase, unless it is so contracted.

The only duty or power of a bkpcy. judge, in an arrangement case, is to see that the composition is fair, & that the value of the assets is properly assessed (O'BRIEN, C.J.).—Re CROCHET (1895), 29 I. L. T. 117.—IR.

8649. —— Description of debtor insufficient & misleading.]—Debtor presented his petition for liquidation upon Aug. 31, 1881. He therein described himself as an engineer, giving a private address. Previously thereto & down to Feb., 1881, he had carried on business at first in partnership, but afterwards by himself, as an iron-founder at another address. In Feb. he made over that business to his father, but until May in that year it was continued to be carried on in debtor's name:—Held: the description in the petition was insufficient & misleading.—Re WOODHOUSE, Ex p. KERSHAW (1881), 45 L. 8652. —— After former liquidation ceased to be pending.]—Debtor having commenced proceedings for liquidation, his creditors passed a resolution that his discharge should be granted to him on his paying £4,000 in a month, & giving a bond for payment of £5,000 more to the trustee by five yearly instalments. In default of payment of any instalment the whole £5,000 was to become payable at once. The £4,000 was paid, the bond given, & two yearly instalments paid under it, but default was made in payment of the third. Debtor then commenced fresh proceedings for liquidation & presented a statement of accounts showing a large amount of debts & hardly any assets. He was in receipt of half-pay as a retired officer in the army. The creditors passed a resolution that the affairs of debtor should be liquidated by arrangement, that, until full payment of the debts, debtor should pay to the trustee the excess of his income above £600 a year, & that as soon as a deed had been executed to carry the above resolutions into effect debtor should, without any further resolution, be 8656. Who must attend—Debtor—Must be personally present in room.]—The meaning of 1869 Act, s. 126, is that debtor must as a rule be personally present at the meetings of his creditors to consider a proposed composition, & personally produce his statement of affairs. It is not sufficient that he should be in a room immediately adjoining that in which the meeting is held, ready to be called in if the creditors wish to examine him, even though the creditors are informed of this.

If there be a custom in the City of London, that as a rule debtor need not be in the room unless the creditors send for him, such custom is contrary to the Act (COTTON, L.J.).—Re BEST, Ex p. BEST (1881), 18 Ch. D. 488 ; 51 L. J. Ch. 293 ; 45 L. T. 95, C. A.

8657. Who may attend—Parties other than creditors & proxies—Debtor's solicitor & accountant.]—There is nothing in 1869 Act prohibiting other persons, besides creditors & proxies, from being present at the meetings of creditors under a liquidation, & it is a rational practice to allow debtor's solr., his accountant, if the affairs are complicated, & the solrs. of the creditors to be present.—Re TILLEY, Ex p. SOLOMON (1882), 20 Ch. He himself was not present in the room in which the meeting was held, but he was in an adjoining room. A., who was present as proxy for creditors, said that he wished to examine debtor. His solr. then sent for him, but most of the creditors said that he was an old man & they did not want to annoy him. Debtor, however, came to the door of the room, but most of the creditors present called out to him to go back, whereupon he retired. A. did not press for his examination. The resolutions for liquidation were then passed, A. dissenting from them. A., on behalf of his clients, opposed the registration of the resolutions, on the ground (inter alia) that debtor was not present at the meeting, & that he had not been validly excused by the meeting. SECT. 4.—RESOLUTIONS.

NOTE.—In considering the cases set out in this Section, regard must be had to the Notes at the beginning of the Part & of Sect. 2, ante.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

8695. Who may sign resolution—Creditor who has opposed same.]—It is not competent for a creditor, who has opposed a resolution for liquidation by arrangement, to change his mind & sign the resolution after the filing thereof, & by so doing to make up the statutory majority & thereby perfect the resolution, which otherwise would have been void.—Re BUTLIN, Ex p. THORNE (1873), 21 W. R. 763, C. A.

8696. "Extraordinary" resolution.]—A resolution does not become an "extraordinary" one, until it has been confirmed at the second meeting of creditors.—Re MCCOLLA, Ex p. MCLAREN (1881), 16 Ch. D. 534 ; 50 L. J. Ch. 203 ; 44 L. T. 36 ; 29 W. R. 389, C. A.

Sect. 4.—Resolutions: Sub-sects. 1 & 2, A. & B.]

8697. Confirmation of resolution—When necessary.]—A special resolution of creditors under 1883 Act, s. 23, entertaining a proposal for a composition after an adjudication of bkpcy., requires confirmation at a second meeting of the creditors, in the same way as a special resolution under s. 18 entertaining a similar proposal before adjudication.—Re GENESE, Ex p. KEARSLEY (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 168; 56 L. J. Q. B. 220; 56 L. T. 79; 3 T. L. R. 74; 3 Morr. 274, C. A.

SUB-SECT. 2.—REGISTRATION OF RESOLUTIONS.

A. In General.

8700. Necessity for registration.]—A direction to transfer the proceedings to another ct., under 1870 Rules, r. 288, is part of the resolution in which it is inserted, & has no validity till such resolution has been registered.—Re DAVIS, Ex p. DAVIS (1872), 7 Ch. 8702. Jurisdiction of registrar—To direct examination of debtor or witnesses.]—The proper time for investigation into the affairs of debtor, who has filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement with his creditors, is at the meetings of creditors; & the registrar has no power, upon the presentation to him for registration of a resolution for composition, to direct an examination before him of debtor or other witnesses.—Re VARBETIAN & Co., Ex p. LEVY & Co. (1871), L. R. 11 Eq. 619; 40 L. J. Bcy. 40; 24 L. T. 332; 19 W. R. 586.

8708. ——— To direct issue to be tried by jury as to existence of debt—On application to register creditors' resolutions.]—Upon an application under 1870 Rules, r. 295, to register the resolutions passed by the creditors, the registrar has no power to direct an issue to be tried by a jury as to the existence of a debt, but must decide the matter himself or refer it to the judge.—Re BEETENSON, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1882), 46 L. T. 241; 30 W. R. 491.

8709. Who may oppose registration—Creditor who has withdrawn proof.]—Semble: a creditor, who has withdrawn his proof at the first general meeting, has not, under 1870 Rules, rr. 273, 295, any locus standi before the registrar on the registration of the resolutions.—Re MASON, Ex p. KIRKWOOD (1879), 11 Ch. 8710. ——— Only creditor who has previously proved debt.]—A person who claims to be a creditor, & in that character to oppose the registration, cannot prove his debt when he comes before the registrar to oppose. If he has not previously proved a debt, he cannot be heard.—Re BAGSTER, Ex p. BAGSTER (1883), 24 Ch. D. 477; 53 L. J. Ch. 124; 49 L. T. 272; 32 W. R. 215, C. A.

8711. Where registration refused—Costs of abortive proceedings.]—Solicitors' costs incurred in abortive proceedings to reduce the amount of a composition, the resolution for which the registrar refused to register, were not allowed.—Re ELLIOTT, Ex p. HOPPER (1878), 8 Ch. D. 53; 47 L. J. Bcy. 41; 38 L. T. 366; 26 W. R. 488, C. A.

8712. —— Recovery of stamp duty.]—Where registration is refused, the ct. has no power to order a return of the ad valorem stamp duty paid on the filing of the resolutions. The proper course is to memorialise the Comrs. of Inland Revenue.—Re MOIR, Ex p. IZARD (1882), 20 Ch. D. 703; 51 L. J. Ch. 939; 47 L. T. 212; 30 W. R. 861, C. A.

8713. —— Affidavit by registrar as to proceedings.]—A registrar, who had refused to register resolutions, made an affidavit in support of his certificate as to what took place at a meeting of creditors:—Held: his doing so must not be made a precedent, for it was not desirable that a judicial officer should make an affidavit of what took place before him.

His doing so lowers the dignity of his office; it is as if the ct. would not credit his simple statement (JAMES, L.J.).—Re RATCLIFFE, Ex p. TILL (1875), 10 Ch. App. 631; 44 L. J. Bcy. 103; 32 L. T. 521; 23 W. R. 670, L. JJ.

8714. Debtor's statement not showing joint & separate debts separately.]—Debtor filed a liquidation petition describing himself as carrying on business alone. He had formerly been in partnership, but the partnership had come to an end more than a year before the petition was filed. There were debts of the firm remaining unpaid. Debtor's statement did not show which were his joint & which were his separate assets or debts, & on that ground the registrar refused to register the resolutions which the creditors passed for liquidation by arrangement, though all the creditors had had notice of the meetings, & no one objected to the registration:—Held: the registrar's decision was right.—Re COCKAYNE, Ex p. COCKAYNE (1873), L. 8718. —— But to secure debtor's discharge.]—A debtor having commenced proceedings for liquidation, his creditors passed a resolution that his discharge should be granted to him on his paying £4,000 in a month, & giving a bond for payment of £5,000 more to the trustee by five yearly instalments. In default of payment of any instalment the whole £5,000 was to become payable at once. The £4,000 was paid, the bond given, & two yearly instalments paid under it, but default was made in payment of the third. Debtor then commenced fresh proceedings for liquidation, & presented a statement of accounts showing a large amount of debts, & hardly any assets. He was in receipt of half-pay as a retired officer in the army. The creditors passed resolutions that the affairs of debtor should be liquidated by arrangement, that until full payment of the debts debtor should pay to the trustee the excess of his income above £600 a year, & that as soon as a deed had been executed to carry the above resolutions into effect debtor should, without any further resolution, be discharged from the debts:—Held: the resolutions under the second proceedings were manifestly not passed for the benefit of the creditors, but for the sake of discharging debtor, & ought not to be registered.—Re RUSSELL, Ex p. RUSSELL (1875), 10 Ch. The dissentient creditor applied to the county ct. to have the order of discharge rescinded on the grounds that it had been granted without proper care & from motives of benevolence. From the evidence it appeared that the creditors did not wish to see debtor ruined, but also that the main part of debtor's property consisted of an equity of redemption, which might have taken time to realise. 8721. —— Inadequate composition—Criterion as to amount required.]—Held: resolutions accepting a composition of 1*s.* in the pound ought to be registered, debtor having no assets, but the payment of the composition being secured by a third person.

The question in all such cases is whether the creditors, in accepting the composition offered, have acted bonâ fide, i.e., in the interest of the creditors, & not merely with a view to benefit debtor. There is no hard & fast line as to the amount of composition which may be accepted, except that the sum must not be so small that no reasonable man would accept it; for in such a case the amount would in itself be evidence of want of bona fides.—Re WALTON, Ex p. HUDSON (1883), 22 Ch. The creditors resolved by the proper statutory majority to accept a composition of 6*d.* in the pound, to be paid within a month after the registration of the resolutions, & to be secured to the satisfaction of the chairman of the meeting. 8732. —— ——.]—The statement of affairs of debtor, who had filed a liquidation petition, showed that his debts were £1,759 & his assets £85, the latter sum being subject to a deduction in respect of preferential debts. The creditors resolved upon a liquidation by arrangement, & gave debtor an immediate discharge. They also voted £10 for the remuneration of the trustee. The registration of the resolutions was opposed by a creditor, who had brought an action against debtor for £182, but who had been restrained from proceeding with the action. He was in a position to sign judgment & issue execution so soon as the injunction should be dissolved :—Held : notwithstanding the small amount of the assets, the resolutions ought to be registered, the contest being really whether the assets, such as they were, should be distributed among the creditors generally, or be swept away by the judgment creditor, although the judgment creditor offered to undertake to present a bkpcy. petition against debtor.—Re SHARPE, Ex p. MATHEWES (1881), 16 Ch. Trustee given power to grant discharge.]—At a first meeting of creditors held under a petition for liquidation, debtor's statement of affairs showed liabilities exceeding £43,000, & assets £120, & it was also stated that debtor was prosecuting two pending actions, in one of which he expected to recover a very large sum, & in the other a considerable sum. The solr. for certain creditors, who were defts. in one of the actions, made inquiries of debtor which he refused to answer, on the ground that they were made with a view to obtain information which would prejudice him in the trials of his actions, & were not made in the interests of the creditors, & the majority of the creditors being of that opinion, passed resolutions for liquidating debtor's affairs by arrangement, appointing a trustee without a committee of inspection, & giving the trustee power to grant debtor his discharge when he should think fit to do so, & declaring that debtor was justified in declining to answer the questions:—Held: (COTTON, L.J., dub.), with the exception of the resolution giving the trustee power to grant debtor his discharge, which was ultra vires, the resolutions were proper, & ought to be registered.—Re HOPE, Ex p. HOPE (1878), 9 Ch. 8741. —— Purchase of debt by creditor favouring composition — Adjudication.] — Where the passing of a resolution in favour of a composition has been obtained by the vote of a creditor, who has purchased the debt, in respect of which he votes, in order to vote in favour of the composition, such a fraud taints the whole of the proceedings for a composition, & the ct. will make an order of adjudication of bkpcy. against debtor on the petition of a duly qualified creditor, in spite of the pendency of the proceedings for a composition.—Re BURRS & Co., Ex p. FORE STREET WAREHOUSE CO., LTD. (1874), 30 L. T. 624, L. J.

8742. Conduct of debtor—Refusal to answer questions—Refusal justified.]—Semble: a refusal to answer proper questions would be a ground of objection to the registration of the resolutions.

A paper was put into debtor's hand, & he was asked the question whether it was written by his authority, but the paper was not read to the meeting, nor was his solr. allowed to see it, &, by his solr.'s advice, he refused to answer the question:—Held: there had been no such refusal by debtor to give information as would render the resolutions invalid & prevent their registration.—Re HELLIWELL, Ex p. MACKENZIE (1874), 10 Ch. 8743. —— Non-attendance at meeting—Present in adjoining room.]—Dissentient creditors objected to the registration of resolutions for a composition passed by the creditors of debtor on the ground (inter alia) that at one of the meetings of the creditors debtor was not present. The meeting was held at the office of an accountant, & debtor, though not actually in the room in which the meeting was held, was in an adjoining room, & was ready, if required, to come into the meeting & answer any inquiries. That fact was known to the creditors present, & no objection was then made by any one:—Held: in the circumstances, debtor must be taken either to have been present at the meeting, or at any rate to have been absent from a cause satisfactory to the meeting, & the registration of the resolutions was right.—Re STRECKEISEN, Ex p. GRUNELINS, [1876] W. 8744. —— —— Unless excused.]—If debtor is not actually present in the room, he is bound to show that he was prevented by sickness, or that the creditors, for some other cause satisfactory to them, excused his presence. If he does not do this, any resolutions passed accepting a composition will be invalid & cannot be registered.—Re BEST, Ex p. BEST (1881), 18 Ch. D. 488; 51 L. J. Ch. 293; 45 L. T. 95, C. A.

8745. —— Improper description of himself in petition.] — Debtor presented his petition for liquidation, the description of himself in the petition being insufficient & misleading:—Held: resolutions for liquidation by arrangement & giving to debtor his immediate discharge could not be registered.—Re WOODHOUSE, Ex p. KERSHAW (1881), 45 L. 8746. Resolutions under second petition—Enforceable resolutions passed under former petition.]—When a resolution for composition has been passed which is capable of being enforced against debtor, any resolution passed under a second petition for liquidation or composition is void, & ought not to be registered.—Re SYDNEY, Ex p. SYDNEY (1875), 10 Ch. App. 208; 44 L. J. Bcy. 21; 31 L. T. 714; 23 W. R. 205, L. JJ.

8747. —— Failure to pay composition under former arrangement.]—Where nothing further remains to be done under composition resolutions, & the rights of the creditors thereunder are in no way interfered with, the ct. will not refuse to register resolutions for a composition under a second petition by same debtor, notwithstanding that all the creditors have not been paid their composition under the first petition.—Re DAVIES, Ex p. LOMAS, HORNER & Co. 8748. Jurisdiction of court—To order examination of debtor—Primâ facie case of fraud established.]—Even after a resolution for a composition has been registered, the Ct. of Bkpcy. has jurisdiction, on a proper case being shown, to reopen the question, &, with that object, to order the examination of debtor.

A creditor invoking the exercise of such jurisdiction must show a primâ facie case of fraud against debtor in procuring the composition. It is not sufficient to allege that the assenting creditors were friendly to debtor.—Re DAVIS, CORNFORTH v. DAVIS (1871), 19 W. R. 524.

8749. —— —— ——.]—After the creditors of debtor have resolved to accept a composition, & the resolutions have been registered, the ct. has jurisdiction, if a dissentient creditor makes out a primâ facie case of fraud on the part of debtor, to order him to be examined as to his affairs.—Re JONES, Ex p. JONES (1873), L. R. 16 Eq. 386; 28 L. T. 679; 21 W. R. 769.

Annotation:—Refd. Re Wright, Ex p. Willey (1883), 23 Ch. D. 118.

8750. —— To inquire whether fraud committed.]—The High Ct. of Justice has jurisdiction to inquire & decide whether fraud has been committed in the registration of resolutions for liquidation by arrangement under 1869 Act.—EYRE v. SMITH (1877), 2 C. P. D. 435; 37 L. T. 417; 25 W. R. 871, C. A.

8751. In what circumstances—Debtor's statement fraudulent.]—If debtor's statement is a fraudulent one, the proper course for a dissentient creditor to take is to move, after the resolution has been registered, to have the registration vacated.—Re WEBB, Ex p. WALTER (1876), 2 Ch. 8752. —— Malpractice in obtaining vote.]—Malpractice in obtaining any one vote is sufficient to vitiate a resolution, however large may be the majority by which it has been passed.—Re BAUM, Ex p. BAUM (1878), 7 Ch. D. 719; 47 L. J. Bcy. 48; 38 L. T. 367; 26 W. R. 568, C. A.

8753. —— Misstatement of assets—Amounting to misdemeanour under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 11 (6).]—The ct. will not rescind the registration of resolutions for composition on the ground of misstatement of assets by debtor, except upon evidence sufficient to convict him of a misdemeanour under the above sub-sect.

A compounding debtor, whose statement of affairs showed debts amounting to £5,146, with assets £3,485, was proved to have estimated six specified debts at £63 15*s.* 7*d.* only in his statement of affairs, while in the course of the next two years he recovered £249 3*s.* 8*d.* in respect of them. On an application by a creditor to rescind the registration of the resolutions, on the ground that debtor had fraudulently misstated his assets:—Held: the evidence being insufficient to establish an intent to defraud, the application must be dismissed, but without costs.—Re LAW, Ex p. HART (1878), 47 L. J. Bcy. 88.

8754. —— Payment of composition delayed—Non-payment of fees delaying registration.]—Debtor will not be allowed, by delaying registration of the resolutions, to postpone payment of a composition which has been accepted by his creditors; & a delay of more than three weeks, owing to non-payment by inadvertence of the fees for stamps, in obtaining the registration of resolutions for a composition, is ground for vacating, on the application of a creditor, the registration.—Re WHITNALL, Ex p. WHITNALL (1882), 20 Ch. D. 438; 46 L. T. 775.

8755. —— Debtor absent from meeting.]—At the first meeting of creditors debtor's statement of his affairs was read by his solr. He himself was not present in the room in which the meeting was held, but he was in an adjoining room. A., who was present as proxy for creditors, said that he wished to examine debtor. His solr. then sent for him, but most of the creditors said that he was an old man & they did not want to annoy him. Debtor, however, came to the door of the room, but most of the creditors present called out to him to go back, whereupon he retired. A. did not press for his examination. The resolutions for liquidation were then passed, A. dissenting from them. A., on behalf of his clients, opposed the registration of the resolutions, on the ground (inter alia) that debtor was not present at the meeting, & that he had not been validly excused by the meeting. The registrar having overruled the objection & registered the resolutions:—Held: the registration should be disallowed.—Re COX, Ex p. HOLLENDER, [1883] W. N. 186, C. A.

8761. Discharge by operation of law—Of debtor as acceptor of bill of exchange—Not of drawer.]—Where the acceptor of a bill of exchange presents a petition for liquidation or composition under 1869 Act & the creditors pass a resolution for composition, the acceptor must be considered as discharged by operation of law, & the drawer is not thereby discharged from his liability. It makes no difference whether the billholder is present at the meeting or not, or whether he votes in favour of the resolution or against it.—Re JACOBS, Ex p. JACOBS (1875), 10 Ch. 8763. Mere preliminary step—Creditors not bound.]—H. was a creditor of F. & Co., who, being in difficulties, summoned a private meeting of their creditors. The meeting was attended by nineteen out of twenty-seven creditors, whose debts amounted to £2,400, out of a total of £2,628. A resolution was passed by the meeting, & signed by the chairman, that debtors' estate & effects should be assigned to trustees for the benefit of the creditors. In pursuance of such resolution, debtors gave up possession of their property to the trustees nominated by the meeting, but the deed of assignment, although prepared, was never executed. H. was present at the meeting, & assented to the resolution:—Held: the resolution did not constitute a binding agreement, but it was only a preliminary step, intended to be binding if the deed was executed by all the creditors, which had not been done.—Re FOSTER, Ex p. FOSTER (1883), 22 Ch. SECT. 5.—THE COMPOSITION DEED, SCHEME OR DEED OF ARRANGEMENT.

NOTE.—In considering the cases set out in this Section, regard must be had to the Note at the beginning of this Part.

SUB-SECT. 1.—IN GENERAL.

8765. When deed takes effect—Date of registration—Under 1861 Act.]—A composition deed under 1861 Act, so far as its operation depends on the Act, takes effect, for all purposes, from the date of registration, not of execution.—STANGER v. MILLER (1865), L. R. 1 Exch. 58; 4 H. & C. 1; 35 L. J. Ex. 49; 11 Jur. N. S. 1005.

PART XXIII. SECT. 4, SUB-SECT. 3.

s. Failure to comply with resolutions—Act of insolvency.]—Where resolutions, requesting debtor to surrender his estate under 1871 Act, are passed in debtor's presence at a duly constituted meeting of creditors, & no objection is then made by debtor, failure to comply with such resolutions is an act of insolvency.—Re INGLIS (1877), 3 V. L. R. 100.—AUS.

8763 i. Mere preliminary step—Creditors not bound.]—At a meeting of creditors it was resolved that debtor should assign his estate to trustees. A deed of assignment was prepared by the solr. to the trustees & executed by debtor. The book debts were not assigned by the deed, & at a further meeting of creditors it was resolved that the estate should forthwith be wound up in bkpcy., unless debtor executed an amended deed. Debtor declined so to do, & a petition for adjudication was filed:—Held: the first resolution meant that debtor should execute a deed of arrangement & assignment under Debtors & Creditors Act, 1896, & as the deed executed was imperfect & did not carry out the creditors' resolution, there must be an adjudication.—Re BECK & TONKS, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1879), O. B. & F. 100.—N.Z.

8763 ii. ——.——.]—At a meeting of creditors of G., the creditors present agreed to sign a deed of assignment of G.'s assets for the payment of his debts. Subsequently a creditor H., a party to the resolution, refused to sign the deed:—Held: until signed the assignment had not become effective, & creditors could claim sequestration of the estate.—GOURLAY, CAVANAGH & Co. v. GROMER (1903), 20 S. C. 612; 13 C. T. R. 1090.—S. AF.

t. —— Not enforceable by third party.]—A third person, who is no party thereto, cannot rely on a resolution of creditors as binding them to a certain course of action in respect to a claim, & as barring them from subsequently agreeing to depart therefrom.—NORDEN (TRUSTEE OF SMITH) v. NORDEN (1843), 2 Men. 128.—S. AF.

8766. Distinction between composition & scheme of arrangement.]—Where debtor makes over his assets to be administered by a trustee, that is a scheme. Where debtor keeps his assets & undertakes to pay over to the creditors a certain sum, that is a composition (CAVE, J.).—Re GRIFFITH (1886), 3 Morr. 111.

8767. —— Assignment for inventory & sale—Not a composition.]—Testator gave certain shares in his property to his nephews & nieces, & he revoked all legacies & bequests which any of his legatees should endeavour to sell, mortgage, or in any way anticipate, & in case any of his nephews or nieces should at any time before their respective legacies became due & payable, become bkpt. or compound with his or their creditors, then he revoked the legacy to such person. One of the nephews, before his share became payable, executed a deed assigning all his stock-in-trade, etc., & all his property & estate, both real & personal, of which he was possessed, or to which he was entitled, to trustees, to make an inventory thereof, & to proceed to sell same for the benefit of his creditors :—Held : the deed was not a composition with creditors.—Re WALEY'S TRUSTS (1855), 3 Drew. 165 ; 3 Eq. Rep. 380 ; 24 L. J. Ch. 499 ; 25 L. T. O. S. 77 ; 1 Jur. N. S. 338 ; 3 W. R. 286 ; 161 E. R. 866.

8768. Who may execute—Attorney of debtor.]—The execution of a deed of arrangement by debtor personally is not necessary, & it can be executed by the donee of a power of attorney given by debtor for that purpose.—Re WILSON, [1916] 1 K. B. 382 ; 85 L. J. K. B. 329 ; 32 T. L. R. 75 ; 60 Sol. Jo. 90 ; [1916] H. B. R. 17, D. C. ; revsd. on another point [1916] 1 K. B. 398, C. A.

8769. Schedule added to deed after registration—Whether deed valid.]—A deed was registered under 1861 Act, s. 192, which was expressed to be made between debtor, a surety, & scheduled creditors. At the time of registration no schedule was annexed, but a schedule was afterwards added by debtor :—Held : the addition of the schedule vitiated the deed.—SELLIN v. PRICE (1869), L. R. 2 Exch. 189 ; 36 L. J. Ex. 93 ; 16 L. T. 21 ; 15 W. R. 749.

8770. Deed signed after registration—Whether deed valid.]—A deed of arrangement, whereby debtor assigned all his property to a trustee for his creditors' benefit, made parties thereto of the fourth part "the several persons, cos., & firms whose names & seals are hereunto signed & affixed respectively, being creditors of debtor, & all other creditors of debtor acceding hereto." The trust declared by the deed was to divide the balance of the proceeds of the estate after payment of expenses, etc., "ratably among the creditors parties hereto, including as such creditors, if the trustee & committee of inspection shall determine, but not otherwise, such persons being creditors of debtor as may have refused or neglected to execute these presents." The deed was executed on same day by debtor, the trustee, & one creditor, who signed & sealed in a schedule thereto, & within seven days, was registered under 1887 Act. Subsequently to such registration six other creditors signed & affixed their seals in the schedule :—Held : the execution of the deed by the creditors after registration did not amount to an alteration of the deed so as to avoid it or vitiate the registration of it.—Re BATTEN, Ex p. MILNE (1889), 22 Q. B. D. 685 ; 58 L. J. Q. B. 333 ; 37 W. R. 499 ; 5 T. L. R. 423 ; 6 Morr. 110, C. A.

8771. Stamp duty.]—The proposal put forward by debtor provided that all the property of such debtor divisible among his creditors should vest in a trustee, &, subject to the provisions of the scheme, be administered according to the law of bkpcy., that, in addition, the sum of £100 a year out of a pension of £297 belonging to debtor should be paid to the trustee under the scheme until, with the rest of debtor's property, all the costs relating to the bkpcy. should have been paid, & the creditors should have received 15*s.* in the pound upon the amount of their debts, that after payment of 15*s.* in the pound to the creditors upon their debts & of all the costs, charges, & expenses, the trustee should hand over to debtor the surplus of the estate, & that, as from the date of the confirmation of the scheme by the ct., debtor should be released & discharged from all debts provable under the bkpcy. :—Held : the above arrangement had more of the elements of a scheme than of a composition, & the fee must be paid on the estimated value of the £100 a year as an asset.—Re GRIFFITH (1886), 3 Morr. 111.

PART XXIII. SECT. 5, SUB-SECT. 1.

u. Distinction between composition & absolute assignment.]—An instrument in writing, whereby debtor transfers all his assets to an assignee for the purpose of paying a fixed sum to the creditors, & of securing to debtor the residue, is an arrangement by way of composition, & not an absolute assignment under 1887 Act, although stated in the instrument to be under that Act.—GUNDRY v. JOHNSTON (1896), 28 O. SUB-SECT. 2.—REGISTRATION OF DEED.

A. What Deeds must be registered.

Under Bills of Sale Acts.]—See BILLS OF SALE.

8773. Under 1861 Act, s. 194—Deed for benefit of creditors generally.]—1861 Act, s. 194, applies not only to deeds which comply with & are framed under s. 192, but to every deed whatever which is or professes to be, or is obviously on the face of it, intended to be a deed of arrangement between debtor & the whole body of his creditors; every such deed which is not registered in the Ct. of Bkpcy., under s. 194, is inadmissible in evidence.

A deed of composition purported to be entered into between a debtor & the creditors who executed the deed, & the creditors, stated therein to be or represent, at the least, three-fourths in value of the creditors, in consideration of the payment of a composition, which debtor covenanted to pay to them by two instalments on specified days, released their debts. It did not appear whether all the creditors, or what proportion of them in number & value executed the deed. In an action by one of the executing creditors against debtor, the deed of composition being offered in evidence by deft. in support of a plea of release:—Held: this was a deed intended to be executed by or binding on the whole body of creditors, & being unregistered it could not be given in evidence.—HODGSON v. WIGHTMAN (1863), 1 H. & C. 810; 1 New Rep. 445; 32 L. 8774. Under 1887 Act, s. 5—Deed for benefit of particular creditors only.]—A family arrangement was arrived at between the tenant for life & the reversioners under the will of T., by which certain debts, which had been incurred by his extrix., the tenant for life, in carrying on his business, were to be paid off, other creditors of his estate satisfied, & various breaches of trust confirmed, & the residue was then to be divided between the beneficiaries. In order to effect the arrangement the tenant for life & the reversioners concurred in executing a conveyance of testator's freehold estates to the vendors upon trust to sell same within a certain time, & to hold the proceeds of sale upon the trusts of a deed of even date therewith:—Held: as the arrangement was for the benefit of particular creditors, & not for "the benefit of creditors generally" within s. 4 of the Act, neither of the above deeds came within the letter or spirit of the Act.—Re SAMSON AND SCHREIBER'S CONTRACT (1895), 39 Sol. Jo. 504.

8776. —— Deed primarily for benefit of debtor & his daughter.]—Debtor, in consideration of an immediate advance of £100 by one of two trustees, assigned all his personal estate by deed to the trustees upon trust to sell, & out of the proceeds, (1) to repay the £100 to the advancing trustee, (2) to discharge debtor's debts & liabilities, & (3) to hold the residue in trust for debtor's daughter. The creditors were not parties to the deed:—Held: the primary object of the deed was to benefit debtor & his daughter, & not debtor's creditors generally, & the deed did not fall within the Act, & was not void for want of registration.—Re HOBBINS, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1899), 6 Mans. 212.

8777. —— Deed for benefit of creditors generally.]—Debtor, who was unable to pay his debts, called a meeting of his creditors, at which he stated that his liabilities were about £5,500, of which about £3,800 was for money lent by relatives, & his assets about £900. It was arranged that the relatives should withdraw their claims, that the creditors should accept a composition of 5*s.* in the pound, & that P., who was present, should be the trustee for the creditors. Three days later a deed was executed between debtor & P., by which debtor, in consideration of £50 paid to him by P., conveyed all his property to P. absolutely "& not as trustee" for debtor or his creditors, & P. covenanted to pay in full all claims against debtor which would have a preferential right in bkpcy. & to pay a composition of 5*s.* in the pound to the creditors on their debts not exceeding £1,800. The deed was not registered:—Held: the deed was a deed made for the benefit of creditors generally within s. 4, & was void to all intents & purposes because it was not registered as required by the Act.—HEDGES v. PRESTON (1899), 80 L. The deed was not registered under the Act, but an affidavit made at the time under the Act by debtor stated that his liabilities were £9,388 16*s.* 8*d.*, & were due to eighteen creditors, whose names & addresses were set out in a schedule to the affidavit. There were four other creditors, not mentioned in the affidavit, whose debts exceeded £5,000 & who were no parties to the transaction. D. Certificate of Registration.

8799. Sufficiency of—Signed by person "acting for" registrar.]—Semble: a certificate of registration under 1861 Act, s. 198, by a person professing to be "acting for" the chief registrar in bkpcy. is a sufficient certificate.—LEIGH v. PENDLEBURY (1864), 15 C. B. N. S 815; 3 New Rep. 475; 33 L. J. C. P. 172; 10 L. T. 30; 10 Jur. N. S. 296; 12 W. R. 468; 143 E. R. 1005.

8800. Effect of—Primâ facie evidence—Of compliance with statutory requirements.]—The certificate of registration is sufficient primâ facie evidence that the terms of 1861 Act, ss. 192, 199, have been complied with.—ANON. (1863), 1 New Rep. 309.

8801. —— —— Of validity of deed.]—Held: though a certificate of registration was primâ facie evidence of the validity of a deed of trust, yet it was competent to a creditor to tender evidence in opposition, & the ct. would, before deciding the question of validity, hear further evidence on either side.—Re NEAL, Ex p. PAGE (1863), 1 De G. 8804. —— Inadequate composition—Concealment.]—The ct. has jurisdiction to cancel the registration of a deed of composition, where there appears evidence that same was obtained by the concealment from an assenting creditor of the greater part of the amount really due, & if the composition is unreasonable, having regard to debtor's assets.—Re WILDE (1869), 19 L. T. 752; 17 W. R. 368.

Annotation:—Apprvd. Re Greaves, Ex p. Greaves (1870), 5 Ch. App. 326, L. J.

8805. —— —— Importing fraud.]—A creditor's deed, under 1861 Act, s. 192, when registered, is in the nature of a record, & the ct. has power to order the registration to be vacated for inadequacy of composition importing fraud.—Re PULLEN, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1870), L. R. 10 Eq. 57; 39 L. J. Bcy. 1; 18 W. R. 406.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Harper, Ex p. Linsley (1873), 42 L. J. Bcy. 109.

8806. —— Fraud—Insufficient assent.]—Where a creditors' deed has been registered under 1861 Act, s. 192, without having been assented to as required by the Act, the ct. will not necessarily order the registration to be cancelled: but it will do so where the deed is fraudulent, & one to which the assenting creditors must be supposed to have assented on the assumption that it would not be registered unless the requisite amount of assents were obtained.

I do not say that in every case where a deed is bad as against dissentient creditors, the registration of that deed ought to be cancelled, but I do say that where a deed is fraudulent the registration unquestionably ought to be cancelled, if there is jurisdiction to cancel it, especially where no act has been done under the deed, & where every creditor must be taken to have assented on the supposition that a valid assent to the deed must be obtained, or that it could not be registered (GIFFARD, L.J.).—Re GREAVES, Ex p. GREAVES (1870), 5 Ch. App. 326; 22 L. T. 184; 18 W. R. 363, L. J.

Annotation:—Mentd. Re Pullen, Ex p. Williams (1870), L. R. 10 Eq. 57.

8807. Grounds for refusing application—Delay.]—A creditor's deed was registered on Mar. 16 under 1861 Act, s. 192. On Apr. 16, a non-assenting creditor became aware that a number of addresses of creditors in the account which had been filed with it, according to the General Order of May 22, 1862, were imperfect, so that letters sent to them had been returned through the Dead-Letter Office. On May 31, he gave notice to annul the registration:—Held: the time which had been allowed to elapse before the application was fatal to it.—Re SAVIN, Ex p. SAVIN (1866), 1 Ch. App. 616; 35 L. J. Bcy. 37; 15 L. T. 150, L. JJ.

App. 326, L. J.

8808. —— ——.]—Mere delay in applying to set aside a creditors' deed for fraud is itself no ground for refusing an application to cancel the registration, if the position of the parties be not altered.—Re PULLEN, Ex p. WILLIAMS (1870), L. R. 10 Eq. 57; 39 L. J. Bcy. 1; 18 W. R. 406.

SECT. 6.—APPROVAL BY COURT.

NOTE.—In considering the cases set out in this Section, regard must be had to the Note at the beginning of this Part.

SUB-SECT. 1.—DISCRETION OF COURT.

A. Extent of Discretion.

8809. Whether bound to approve—Better terms unobtainable—Application under 1869 Act, s. 28.]—Under the above sect. the ct. is not bound to approve of resolutions passed by the creditors of bkpt. authorising the trustee to accept a composition, or assent to a general scheme of settlement of bkpt's. affairs, even if it sees that the majority have been acting bonâ fide in the interest of the creditors, & that better terms cannot be obtained for the creditors.—Re HICKMAN, Ex p. STRAWBRIDGE (1883), 25 Ch. D. 266; 53 L. J. Ch. 323; 49 L. T. 638; 32 W. R. 173, C. A.; revsg. S. C. sub nom. Re TAMLYN, Ex p. HICKMAN, 48 L. T. 913.

8810. —— Reasonable security provided.]—The ct. is not bound to approve a proposal for a scheme of arrangement, if it provides reasonable security for payment of not less than the statutory minimum on debtor's unsecured debts. If it provides such security it lies in the discretion of the ct., upon consideration of all the circumstances, to approve, or refuse to approve, the scheme.—Re BURR, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1892] 2 Q. B. 467; 61 L. J. Q. B. 591; 66 L. T. 553; 8 T. L. R. 515; 9 Morr. 133, C. A.

Annotations :—Folld. Re Webb, Ex p. Board of Trade, [1914] 3 K. B. 387, C. A. Refd. Re E. A. B. (1901), 85 L. T. 773; Re Utley (1901), 17 T. L. R. 349. Mentd. Re Baines, Ex p. Board of Trade (1902), 86 L. T. 691; Re Beer, Ex p. Beer, [1903] 1 K. B. 628.

8811. Whether bound to refuse to approve—Debtor guilty of offences—Barring immediate unconditional discharge.]—If it is manifest that the composition or scheme is the best thing for the creditors, the registrar is not bound to refuse to approve it because debtor has been guilty of offences, which would under 1883 Act have prevented an immediate & unconditional discharge.—Re GENESE, Ex p. KEARSLEY (1886), 18 Q. B. D. 168; 56 L. J. Q. B. 220; 56 L. T. 79; 3 T. L. R. 74; 3 Morr. 274, C. A.

R. 264; Re Reed, Bowen (1887), 3 T. L. R. 433; Re Wood (1888), 4 T. L. R. 277; Re Beer, Ex p. Beer, [1903] 1 K. B. 628, C. A.

8812. —— —— Under 1890 Act, s. 8 (3).]—Although debtor, by whom application is made to the ct. to approve a scheme of arrangement previously accepted by the creditors, may be proved to have committed an offence under the above sub-sect., the ct. is not for that reason absolutely bound to refuse to approve the scheme.

If the offences are proved, & the circumstances in which they are proved to have been committed are such that debtor, although he may have done wrong, yet need not in the interests of the State be treated as a person with whom the creditors ought not to be allowed to negotiate, the ct. is at liberty to approve the scheme, notwithstanding the commission of those offences.—Re BOTTOMLEY, Ex p. BOTTOMLEY (1893), 10 Morr. 262.

Annotation :—Consd. Re Webb, Ex p. Board of Trade, [1914] 3 K. B. 387, C. A.

8813. —— Reasonable security not provided.]—If a proposal for a scheme of arrangement does not provide security for the statutory minimum, the ct. is bound to refuse the proposal.—Re BURR, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1892] 2 Q. B. 467; 61 L. J. Q. B. 591; 66 L. T. 553; 8 T. L. R. 515; 9 Morr. 133, C. A.

Annotation :—Consd. Re Baines, Ex p. Board of Trade (1902), 86 L. T. 691, D. C. Folld. Re Webb, Ex p. Board of Trade, [1914] 3 K. B. 387, C. A. Mentd. Re E. A. B. (1901), 85 L. T. 773; Re Utley (1901), 17 T. L. R. 349; Re Beer, Ex p. Beer, [1903] 1 K. B. 628, C. A.

8814. —— —— Acceptance by creditors.]—The ct. has no discretion to approve a proposal for a scheme of arrangement, unless it is satisfied that the scheme provides reasonable security for the payment of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound within a reasonable time. In such a case the fact that the creditors have by the statutory majority accepted the scheme is immaterial.—Re WEBB, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1914] 3 K. B. 387; 83 L. J. K. B. 1386; 111 L. T. 175; 58 Sol. Jo. 581; 21 Mans. 169, C. A.

See, now, 1914 Act, s. 16 (10).

8815. May approve—Some creditors withdrawing—To allow statutory dividend to be paid.]—The ct. may sanction a composition or scheme under 1890 Act, s. 3 (9), though some of the unsecured creditors release or withdraw their claims, so as to allow for the payment of not less than 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound to the rest of the unsecured creditors.—Re UTLEY (1901), 17 T. L. R. 349.

filing a deed of arrangement was extended, on an affidavit being made by the town agent of the solr. that search had been made, & no other petition or deed of arrangement had been filed by debtor.—Re A. (1892), 26 I. L. T. Jo. 403.—IR.

c. —— ——.]—Where, through a fatality, the time prescribed by Deeds of Arrangement Act, s. 5, for registering an assignment for the benefit of creditor had elapsed, the ct. extended the time upon an affidavit of search in the Registry of Bills of Sale Office that no bill of sale had been registered since the date of the deed.—Re BLACK (1893), 28 I. L. T. 73.—IR.

d. —— ——.]—Where an arranging debtor became mentally incapable of swearing the affidavit leading to registration, & the statutory period for registering the deed was also exceeded the time for registration was extended.—Re X. (AN ARRANGING DEBTOR) (1910), 44 I. L. T. 167.—IR.

e. Place for deposit of registered deeds.]—The place prescribed by law for the deposit of deeds for registration & no other can be resorted to, & no other will be valid.—Re SAINT (1883), 6 Nfld. L. R. 477.—NFLD.

PART XXIII. SECT. 6, SUB-SECT. 1. —A.

f. Whether bound to approve—No specific ground for rejection.]—Where the proposal of an arranging debtor is accepted by the statutory majority of his creditors it ought to be acted on by the ct., unless there be some specific ground for rejecting it.—Re FRY, [1913] 2 I. R. 273; 46 I. L. T. 289.—IR.

g. Whether bound to refuse to approve—Majority of creditors opposed to composition.]—The ct. has not power to turn an arrangement into bkpcy., at the second meeting, on the ground that there is a majority of creditors against the trader's offer of a composition.—Re A. B. (1869), 3 I. L. T. Jo. 695.—IR.

8811 i. —— Fraudulent conduct.]—If a trader's conduct be fraudulent it may disentitle him to come in under the arrangement clauses at all. But negligent & improper trading, & loose statements made to creditors, without any fraudulent intent, will not prevent him doing so.—Re KELLY (1861), 13 Ir. Jur. 258.—IR.

8814 i. —— Majority of creditors assenting to composition—Commercial dishonesty—Fraud.]—The ct. should decline to sanction an arrangement even when assented to by a majority of creditors, where the scheme is unreasonable & debtor's conduct has been commercially immoral or reckless, or his debts were incurred fraudulently.—Re FRY, [1913] 2 I. R. 273; 46 I. L. T. 289.—IR.

k. —— Debtor abandoning business—Repayment of apprenticeship fee.]—Where a person, to whom an apprentice has been bound, petitions the cc.

8816. —— —— Withdrawal conditional.]—Semble: there may be cases, in which the ct. might approve a scheme which provided for the conditional withdrawal by some creditors of their claims.—Re FLEW, Ex p. FLEW, [1905] 1 K. B. 278; 74 L. J. K. B. 280; 92 L. T. 333; 53 W. R. 438; 12 Mans. 1, C. A.

8817. May inquire into debtor's statement of affairs—Not bound thereby—Although agreed by creditors.]—In determining whether it shall give sanction to resolutions for the liquidation of the affairs of debtor by arrangement, the ct. or registrar is not bound by the statement of affairs of debtor put forward & agreed to by the creditors, but such ct. or registrar is entitled to inquire into the statement for the purpose of seeing whether the composition or liquidation is reasonable & calculated to benefit the general body of creditors.—Re MCALPINE, Ex p. MCALPINE (1884), 1 Morr. 126.

8818. May act on own opinion—Not bound by opinion of creditors—Or of official receiver.]—The ct. is not bound by the opinion of the creditors themselves or by the opinion of the official receiver, but will act on its own opinion.—Re BROWNE & WINGROVE, Ex p. THE DEBTORS, [1890] W. N. 131, C. A.

8819. May reopen examination of bankrupt—Not bound to do so.]—Where the creditors of debtor, who has been adjudged bkpt. & whose public examination has been concluded, accept a proposal for a composition or scheme of arrangement, the ct. is not bound to reopen the public examination of bkpt. before approving the proposal. The ct. has power to reopen the examination under 1883 Act, s. 104 (1), but will only do so in cases where there appears to be good reason for making further investigation into bkpt.'s affairs.—Re HENCKE (1906), 22 T. L. R. 338.

B. Exercise of Discretion.

8820. Should be judicial—Decision should be given judicially—1869 Act, ss. 28, 126.]—In giving or withholding the approval of the ct. to a composition with creditors, accepted by the proper majority, the judge is exercising a judicial discretion, & is bound to give his decision judicially upon sufficient reasons.—Re DURHAM, Ex p. MERCHANT BANKING CO. OF LONDON (1881), 16 Ch. D. 623; 50 L. J. Ch. 606; 44 L. T. 358; 29 W. R. 363, C. A.

8821. —— Independent of creditors' wishes—1883 Act, ss. 18, 28.]—The registrar, in deciding whether he will or will not approve a composition or scheme of arrangement accepted by the creditors of bkpt., is exercising a judicial discretion, & it is his duty to form his own judgment, & not to be influenced by the wishes of the creditors.—Re WALLACE, Ex p. CAMPBELL (1885), 15 Q. B. D. 213; 54 L. J. Q. B. 382; 53 L. T. 208; 2 Morr. 167, C. A.

8822. —— —— 1883 Act, s. 18.]—In determining whether to approve a scheme accepted by creditors, the ct. must form its own judgment whether the scheme is reasonable & calculated to benefit the general body of creditors, & must not be influenced by the wishes of the majority of the creditors. If the registrar has refused to approve of such a scheme, the Ct. of Appeal will not reverse his decision unless it is satisfied that he has exercised his discretion wrongly.—Re REED, Ex p. REED (1886), 17 Q. B. D. 244; 55 L. J. Q. B. 244; 34 W. R. 493; 2 T. L. R. 458; 3 Morr. 90, C. A.; subsequent proceedings, sub nom. Re REED, BOWEN & CO., Ex p. RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION CO., LTD. (1887), 3 T. L. 8823. What must be considered—Facts as appearing when application made & not when resolution passed—Objections of dissenting creditors—1869 Act, ss. 28, 126.]—The ct. is bound to consider the objections brought before it by a dissentient creditor.

The propriety of the resolutions is to be judged of by the ct. upon the facts as they appear at the time when its approval is sought, not as they appeared at the time when the resolutions were passed.—Re DURHAM, Ex p. MERCHANT BANKING CO. OF LONDON (1881), 16 Ch. D. 623; 50 L. J. Ch. 606; 44 L. T. 358; 29 W. R. 363, C. A.

8824. —— Moral aspect of case—1869 Act, s. 28.]—It is the duty of the ct. to look at all the circumstances & to have regard to the moral aspect of the case.—Re HICKMAN, Ex p. STRAWBRIDGE (1883), 25 Ch. D. 266; 53 L. J. Ch. 323; 49 L. T. 638; 32 W. R. 173, C. A.; revsg S. C. sub nom. Re TAMLYN, Ex p. HICKMAN, 48 L. T. 913.

8826. —— —— Public interest—1883 Act, s. 28.]—On the question of granting or refusing the approval of the ct. to a composition or scheme of arrangement, the registrar must not take a one-sided view, but look at all the circumstances. He must consider on the one side the conduct of debtor, & on the other the interests of the creditors, & he must exercise his discretion both with regard to his duty to the public on the one hand, & his duty to the creditors on the other. The registrar must consider all the circumstances, & exercise his discretion thereon.—Re BARLOW, Ex p. THORNBER (1886), 3 T. L. R. 218; 3 Morr. 304, C. A.

8837. —— Whether unreasonable—Doubtful but recommended by committee & accountant.]—Debtors were merchants in England & South America. Assets of large amount, forming the principal part of the estate, were in South America without the jurisdiction. A scheme was proposed for the sale of those assets to one of the partners who resided in South America for about their estimated value, the purchase-money to be paid by quarterly instalments extending over four years. The trustee was to insure the purchaser's life for about one-sixth of the amount payable, but there was no other provision as to security. The scheme was recommended by the committee of inspection, who were creditors for a large amount, & by an accountant, who, at their instance, had gone to South America & examined the affairs of the house there. The official receiver also made a report in its favour:—Held: the scheme ought to be approved by the ct. as being reasonable & for the benefit of the general body of the creditors.—Re STANIAR, ROBERTS & CO., Ex p. SMITH (1888), 20 Q. After two years he started in business again in a partnership, into which he brought no capital, & failed, a dividend of 3*s.* 3*d.* in the pound being paid, but his discharge was absolutely refused for offences under Bkpcy. Acts. Debtor subsequently offered, & the majority of the creditors accepted, a composition of 1*s.* in the pound, on payment of which the bkpcy. was to be annulled:—Held: the ct. was right in refusing to approve such composition.—Re MCTEAR, Ex p. MCTEAR (1888), 59 L. 8840. —— —— Arrangement to enable debtor to prosecute disputed claim.]—A firm of contractors failed with a nominal surplus of assets, which consisted almost entirely of a claim against the Govt., who disputed liability. To enable the claim to be prosecuted it was arranged that debtors should take over the outstanding estate & prosecute the claim, 50 per cent. of any amount recovered to be applied for the benefit of the estate & the remainder to belong to debtors:—Held: the scheme was reasonable, & calculated to benefit the creditors, & the ct. should grant the application for approval.—Re BULL & SONS (1886), 3 T. L. R. 113.

8841. —— —— Provision for discharge when committee should resolve.]—A scheme of arrangement, assented to by the creditors, contained a provision that "debtors shall be discharged when the committee of inspection shall so resolve":—Held: such provision was not in accordance with the intention of 1883 Act, & was unreasonable, & though debtors asked that the scheme might be approved by the ct., the approval ought not to be given.—Re CLARK, Ex p. CLARK (1884), 13 Q. 8842. —— —— Conditions imposed ultra vires—Scheme illusory.]—The provisions of 1883 Act, s. 28 (6), cannot, by agreement between debtor & his creditors, be incorporated into a scheme of arrangement of debtor's affairs under s. 18, nor can a jurisdiction, similar to that which is conferred on the ct. by s. 28 (6) in the case of a bkpcy., be given to the ct. by agreement between debtor & his creditors in the case of a scheme of arrangement.

A scheme of arrangement of debtor's affairs, accepted by his creditors under s. 18, provided that debtor should, before the approval of the scheme, consent to judgment being entered against him by the trustee under the scheme for the full amount of the debts provable thereunder, such judgment to have the same effect, & to be enforceable in the like manner & to the like extent as though debtor had been adjudged bkpt. under the proceedings, & the ct. had granted him an order of discharge conditional upon his consenting to judgment being entered against him by the trustee, & such judgment had been entered accordingly:—Held: as the judgment could not be enforced either at common law, or under the Act, or by agreement, the scheme, so far as it purported to give the judgment, was illusory, & of no effect, & ought not to be approved by the ct.—Re AYLMER, Ex p. BISCHOFFSHEIM (1887), 20 Q. Debtor's proposal was to vest by deed in a trustee his interest in the policies, by way of security for the ultimate payment of the debts & interest out of the policies, the deed was 8844. —— No security beyond property vested in trustee.]—Though the ct. will generally be reluctant to refuse to approve of a proposed scheme of arrangement by debtor with his creditors which has been approved by the creditors, yet it is the duty of the ct. to consider whether the scheme is for the benefit of the creditors, & in particular whether it provides reasonable security for the payment of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on all the unsecured debts provable against debtor's estate, & to refuse to give the approval of the ct. if it is not satisfied on these points.

A proposed scheme of arrangement with creditors which had been approved by the creditors by the proper majority, provided (inter alia) that the property of debtors, which would have been divisible among their creditors if they were bkpt., should vest in a trustee & should be administered by him as in bkpcy. The trustee was, on the approval of the scheme by the ct., to pay in full all fees, costs, & expenses, including the remuneration of the trustee, & all preferential debts, & was then to pay to all the unsecured creditors, in respect of all debts provable under the receiving order, & in satisfaction of same, a composition of 20*s.* in the pound, payable in instalments of not less than 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, as & when the realisation of debtors' assets would allow. The payment of the preferential debts, fees, etc., & of the composition was to be secured by the vesting of debtors' property in the trustee :—Held : the scheme did not provide "reasonable security" for the payment of a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, & ought not to be approved by the ct.—Re FLEW, Ex p. FLEW, [1905] 1 K. 8845. —— What is reasonable security—Security for payment now or within short time.]—"Reasonable security for the payment of not less than 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound" does not mean for payment at a distant time, such as a year hence, but means reasonable security for payment now or within a short time.—Re PAINE, Ex p. PAINE, [1891] W. 8846. —— —— Security providing reasonable commercial probability of payment.]—The "reasonable security" for payment of not less than 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound required to be provided by a scheme put forward by debtor, who would not be entitled to an unconditional order of discharge if he were adjudged bkpt., does not mean such security as it would be reasonable that a prudent man would invest money upon. The reasonableness must in each case be judged of according to the standard of the state of affairs presented to the creditors, & where the ct. is fully satisfied that the scheme is the best thing for the creditors, who would otherwise get nothing, & that there is a reasonable commercial probability that a sum exceeding 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound will be realised under it, the ct. will not feel inclined to construe the words in question with the greatest strictness.—Re BOTTOMLEY, Ex p. BOTTOMLEY (1893), 10 Morr. 262.

Security rendered sufficient by withdrawal of some creditors—Withdrawal secured by third party without debtor's knowledge.]—Where a scheme of arrangement is submitted by debtor under 1890 Act, s. 3, & part of the arrangement is that certain creditors withdraw their debts, the ct. will not refuse its sanction to the scheme merely on the ground that the withdrawals are on terms giving those creditors an advantage over the other creditors, provided the withdrawals have not been obtained by debtor himself, or by any person with the knowledge & on behalf of debtor.

A scheme of arrangement submitted by debtor, against whom a receiving order had been made, secured payment to the unsecured creditors, except two who had withdrawn their debts, of a sum of not less than 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. The withdrawals had been obtained by debtor's brother, who had, without any knowledge on the part of debtor, given them a security placing them, it was alleged, in a better position than the other creditors under the scheme :—Held : as the security given to the two withdrawing creditors was, neither in form nor in substance, the result of any bargain made by or with the knowledge of debtor himself, it was not a ground for the ct. refusing to sanction the scheme.—Re E. 8853. Large proportion of proofs not tendered.]—If for a large proportion of the debts proofs have not been tendered, or if the ct. considers those that have been tendered require to be investigated by a trustee, it ought to decline to approve the composition.—Re ROGERS, Ex p. ROGERS (1884), 13 Q. B. D. 438; 33 W. R. 354; 1 Morr. 159, D. C.

8854. Money paid under scheme to hush up discreditable transaction.]—It is the duty of the ct. not to give its approval to the proposed arrangement, although it may be for the benefit of the creditors, if the ct. can see that the money which the creditors are to receive under it is to be paid in order to hush up & prevent investigation into some discreditable transaction.—Re HICKMAN, Ex p. STRAWBRIDGE (1883), 25 Ch. 8855. Failure to comply with terms as to deposit of instalment—Debts released to ensure payment of first instalment.]—Debtor lodged a proposal for paying his creditors 20*s.* in the pound by two instalments of 15*s.* & 5*s.* each, the first instalment to be secured by a deposit with the official receiver of a sum sufficient for the purpose before the application to the ct. to approve the composition. The proposal was accepted by all the creditors. In consequence of the assets realising less than was expected, debtor was unable to lodge with the official receiver sufficient to pay the first instalment to all the creditors, & thereupon three of the creditors withdrew their proofs & released their debts for the purpose of allowing the proposal to be carried through. The sum deposited with the official receiver was sufficient to pay the first instalment on the remaining debts. The ct. refused to approve the proposal, upon the ground that its terms as to the deposit of the first instalment had not been complied with, there being no reference to the releases of debts in the proposal as accepted by the creditors.—Re ARON (1905), 21 T. s. Misrepresentations of debtor.]—An arranging trader made, with regard to his circumstances, untrue representations, whereby he obtained from his creditors an extension of time. A majority of his creditors agreed to accept the composition he offered:—Held: the case should be turned into bkpcy.—Re M'CLELAND (1868), 2 I. L. T. Jo. 688.—IR.

t. Trading after knowledge of insolvency.]—Where a firm continued to trade after a date when they knew they were insolvent, an arrangement, by which they offered to pay 5*s.* in the pound, which was accepted by more than the requisite number & value of the creditors who had proved, was turned into bkpcy.—Re A. & B. a Obtaining credit by false representations.]—The discretionary power of the ct. to turn an arrangement case into bkpcy. was exercised, when debtor had obtained credit by false representations as to his solvency.—Re AN ARRANGING TRADER (1867), 1 I. L. T. Jo. 263.—IR.

See, further, Part XVIII., ante.

b. Schedule unsatisfactory — Wishes of dissentient creditors.]—When an arranging trader's sched. is untrue & contradictory, & does not present an accurate statement of his affairs, the ct. will, at the suggestion of dissatisfied creditors, turn the case into bkpcy., though the statutable majority vote for the trader's proposal.—Re MOOREHEAD (1866), 2 I. L. T. Jo. 121.—IR.

c. Partnership debts not provided for.]—Petitioner was a member of a subsisting copartnership, & a large proportion of the debts for which petitioner proposed to arrange were partnership debts. No agreement had been made between petitioner & the remaining partners whereby the latter were to take on themselves the payment of the partnership debts. The ct. left petitioner to proceed in bkpcy.—Re PARROTT (1859), 8 I. Ch. R. 391.—IR.

8865. —— Debtor's concealment of assets—Burden of proof.]—H. O. & E., having for some time previous to 1879 carried on business in partnership, & the firm being at that time largely indebted, H. O., at that date, retired in favour of F. O., his son, leaving to him his share of the debts & liabilities. H. O. retained a lien upon the partnership property. On July 12, 1879, H. O. died, having executed a codicil to his will authorising his exors. to sell his share in the business. The exors. allowed E. & F. O. to carry on the business subject to a lien upon the property, machinery, etc., retained by the exors. In May, 1880, F. O. & E. filed their petition, & a receiver was appointed, who carried on the business as tenant to the exors., & to whom E. & F. O. rendered a statement of affairs, from which it was alleged that a certain claim which the firm had against J. was omitted, & in which a patent, which was afterwards sold for £800, was said to have been mentioned as being of no value. On May 20 a composition of 1*s.* 8*d.* was accepted, & the bkpcy. was closed. The trustee applied to reopen the bkpcy. :—Held : if it had been proved that bkpts. were aware of their claims against J., & of the value of the patent at the time when the statement of affairs was made, the bkpcy. ought to be reopened, but the trustee had failed to make out an affirmative case, & the burden of proof lay upon him.—Re OWTRAM, MARSHALL v. EDELSTON (1884), 50 L. 8878. —— " Whose names & seals are hereunto set & affixed.]—By a deed made between debtors of the first part, trustees of the second part, & " the several persons joint & separate creditors of debtors whose names & seals are hereunto set & affixed," of the third part, after reciting that the parties of the first part stood indebted on their joint account to the several persons & in the several sums set opposite their respective names in the schedules thereunder, & were also severally indebted to certain other persons, & that, being unable to pay their joint & separate creditors the whole of their demands, they had agreed to convey all their joint & separate estate to the parties of the second part in trust for themselves & the rest of the creditors rateably & in such manner as the same joint & separate estate would be distributable under a fiat of bkpcy., & that the parties of the second & third parts had agreed to release the debtors, the parties of the first part " by & with the consent of the creditors parties hereto " conveyed all their estate, etc., to the parties of the second part, upon trust to convert same, & " to pay & apply so much of the trust money as should arise from the conversion of the partnership property of debtors in & towards payment & discharge of the several debts due & owing to the several joint creditors of debtors, parties hereto of the second & third parts, or so much of the same debts as the same trust moneys will extend to pay rateably & in proportion, but so as the same shall be paid & applied in the same way as would be done in bkpcy.," & to pay & apply so much of the trust money as arose from the conversion of the separate property of debtors respectively in payment of their separate debts. The deed contained also a covenant by the trustees to make a faithful distribution of the money " unto & amongst the several joint & separate creditors of debtors, according to their respective rights & interests & the true intent & meaning of these presents," a release of debtors by the parties of the second & third parts, & a declaration that the trustees should take all possible steps for making the deed " binding upon all the creditors of the joint & separate estates of debtors, whether parties to the deed or not." The deed, which was duly registered, was executed by all the joint creditors, but no sums or amounts were set opposite their names, & there was no creditor who had not taken his benefit under it :—Held : the evident intention on the face of the deed being that it should be a good deed under 1861 Act, & one by which all the creditors would be entitled to benefit, the words appended to the description of the parties of the third part, apparently limiting its operation to the creditors " whose names & seals are hereunder set & affixed," might be rejected as a falsa demonstratio, & they did not control or overrule the general intention of the deed that all the creditors, & not a portion of them only, were to be benefited. —DURANT v ROBINSON (1876), 34 L. 8889. —— Subject to avoidance on default.]—To a declaration on a bill of exchange deft. pleaded a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, containing a release by the creditors respectively, with a proviso that in case default should be made in payment of the composition to the creditors respectively, the release should be thenceforth at an end. The plea did not aver payment or tender of the composition, but contained a general averment that all things necessary in that behalf having happened & been done, pltfs. became & were bound by the deed, as if they had been parties thereto & had executed same. Pltfs. replied that default was made by deft. in payment of the composition to divers of the creditors other than pltfs.:—Held: the release was an absolute release by each of the creditors of his own debt, subject to be avoided as against him, if the instalments due to him were not paid.—HART v. SMITH (1868), L. To what date—Approval of scheme.]—On May 21, 1855, S. filed a petition in a bkpcy. ct. for a private arrangement with his creditors, & by an order of the district comr., made on the same day, protection was granted until June 18 then next. The registrar of the ct., on June 2, made another order, purporting to grant protection from process to the person & property of S. until June 9 then next. That order for protection purported to be under a petition by S., presented on June 1. No petition had been presented by S. on June 1, but the petition of May 21 appeared to have been on that day allowed to be refiled, & was so indorsed. Pltf. on June 5 recovered & entered up judgment against S. for a debt & costs. By indenture, dated Aug. 27, S. assigned certain specified lands & other property to trustees for the benefit of certain creditors therein mentioned, among whom pltf. was included by name, but he never executed or assented to the deed. Pltf. filed his bill for the purpose of having a declaration that his judgment was binding on the lands comprised in the indenture of Aug. :—Held : the execution of a deed of arrangement did not relate back to the date of filing the petition, or of the order for protection, but took effect from the approval of the whole transaction by the comr.—SOUTHERN v. SIDNEY (1857), 30 L. 8924. Partnership property—Joint deed assigning all real & personal estate of debtors—Only passes joint estate.]—A husband, who was entitled to a sum of money under his marriage-settlement, executed conjointly with his partner in business a deed of assignment, whereby "all the real & execution, & delivered possession thereof, without making any claim to exemption under Homestead Act. The assignee then lent the assignor certain of the goods, implements for carrying on work, for which he obtained a receipt. Subsequently the assignor refused to return the goods, claiming them as an exemption:—Held: exemption under the Act was a special privilege, which might be waived by debtor, & the failure to make a claim within a reasonable time operated as an abandonment of the privilege.—ROY v. FORTIN (1915), 22 B. C. R. 282; 9 W. W. R. 407; 32 W. L. R. 790.—CAN.

a. Fund set apart by debtor.]—On Sept. 18, 1878, M. sent a sum of money, which he had received in payment of certain debts, to his solr. to hold for him. On Dec. 9, 1879, M. executed a deed of assignment conveying to trustees all real & personal estate belonging to him in Mar., 1878, for the benefit of his creditors. On Oct. 6, 1880, M. filed a declaration of insolvency, & the money which M. had remitted to his solr. was transferred to the Public Trustee:—Held: M. had divested himself from all claim to the money on executing the deed of Dec. 9, & it passed to the trustees of that deed, to be distributed by them in accordance with the trusts declared in it.—MACKAY v. MORRIN (1889), 8 N. Z. L. R. 272.—N.Z.

b. Gift to wife during marriage.]—A deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors recited that debtor assigned "all his estate movable & immovable without exception nothing excepted":—Held: the assignment covered property given by debtor to his wife during marriage.—VAN DER BYL'S ASSIGNEES v. VAN DER BYL (1886), 5 S. 8933. Seizure after deed of assignment for creditors—Deed communicated to some creditors—Executed by none—Execution creditor with no knowledge of deed.]—A deed of assignment of debtor's personal property to a trustee, for the benefit of his creditors who should execute or accede to the deed, was bonâ fide made & executed by both debtor & the trustee, & the property taken possession of under it. Afterwards the trustee, by his agent, communicated the contents of the deed & all that had been done to three of the creditors, each of whom expressed himself satisfied with the arrangement, but neither they nor any others of the creditors signed the deed, or did any act under it. In an interpleader issue between the trustee & a creditor, at whose suit the property had subsequently been taken in execution :—Held : the deed passed the property to the trustee as against such execution creditor, although not one of those to whom the contents of the deed had been made known.—HARLAND v. BINKS (1850), 15 Q. 8934. —— Act of bankruptcy on which fiat issued.]—In Oct., 1852, E. a trader, assigned to pltf. all his household furniture & effects then on his premises, as a security for money lent, with a power, in default of payment, to seize & take possession of the property thereby assigned, & all other goods, chattels, & effects which might be found on the premises. In Jan., 1855, E. assigned all his estates & effects to trustees for the benefit of the creditors. In the following Feb., pltf. seized the goods, etc., then on the premises of E., & in Mar. a fiat in bkpcy, issued against E., the act of bkpcy. being the above assignment of his estate & effects to trustees. In an action by pltf. against the assignees for selling the goods so seized by him :—Held : though the assignment by E., of his estate & effects to trustees was void as against creditors, yet it operated to transfer to the assignees the property not included in the assignment to pltf., & so defeated his title, which would otherwise have been valid by the seizure.—CARR v. ACRAMAN (1856), 11 Exch. 566 ; 25 L. 8937. Seizure after composition perfected.]—P. having filed a petition for liquidation by arrangement or composition under 1869 Act, his creditors except G., resolved to accept a composition of 5*s.* in the pound payable by instalments. W. became surety for the composition, & P. assigned his property to W., by a duly registered bill of sale. W., bought the debt due to G., & was thereby enabled to vote in his name at the second meeting of creditors. The resolutions for composition had not been set aside. Pltfs. having obtained judgment against P., seized a stack of hay comprised in the bill of sale:—Held: the resolutions not having been set aside, the bill of sale could not be impeached, & pltf. could not enforce his execution against the property assigned to W.—SEYMOUR v. COULSON (1880), 5 Q. 8938. —— Trustees of deed with notice of writ before composition perfected.]—On July 11 defts. closed their place of business in order to prevent executions being levied, & kept them closed until July 16, when they filed a petition for the liquidation of their affairs by arrangement or composition under 1869 Act, & at a meeting of creditors on Aug. 27, it was resolved that a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound should be accepted & secured by an assignment of the whole of the assets of defts. to trustees, & that a proper deed of assignment should be executed by defts. Pltfs. signed judgment against defts. on July 12, & on the same day delivered a writ of elegit to the sheriff, & on Sept. 11 the trustees received a written notice from pltfs. that the writ of elegit had been lodged with the sheriff. On Sept. 17, defts. executed the deed of assignment to the trustees in pursuance of the resolution of the creditors. The sheriff did not seize the goods until Sept. 20 when they were in the possession of the trustees:—Held: pltfs. were entitled to the goods.—EHLERS, SEEL & CO. v. KAUFFMAN & GATES, WENDT & CHARLES, CLAIMANTS (1883), 49 L. 8945. Seizure after suspension of bankruptcy by resolution of creditors—Title of non-assenting creditor to goods—Bankruptcy not annulled.]—Bkpt. proposed at a meeting of his creditors that the bkpcy. should be suspended under 1861 Act, s. 110, & that he should receive back his estate & pay a composition of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. The creditors, by a resolution duly confirmed, accepted the proposal. The resolution did not purport to revest the estate in bkpt. until after the payment of the composition. The messenger of the Ct. of Bkpcy. then went out of possession, but the creditors' assignee who had guaranteed the messenger his fees, retained the keys of the premises. Subsequently & before payment of the composition, a judgment creditor, who was not present at the meeting & had not assented to the resolution, issued execution & seized goods belonging to bkpt.'s estate. On an interpleader summons between the assignee & the execution creditor:—Held: the fact of the bkpcy. being suspended under s. 110 did not revest the estate in bkpt., & the assignee was entitled to the goods.—MACDONALD v. THOMPSON (1869), L. 8946. —— —— Bankruptcy annulled.] — T. recovered judgment against C., whose goods were seized by the sheriff under a writ of execution. C. thereupon filed a petition for liquidation, & an order was granted restraining the sheriff from selling. The order was afterwards discharged, & C. was adjudged bkpt., but a fresh restraining order was granted under the bkpcy. The sheriff then withdrew voluntarily. Afterwards the creditors of C. resolved under 1869 Act, s. 28, to accept a composition of 5*s.* in the pound upon "the debts proved & admitted in the bkpcy.," & they further resolved that the order of adjudication should be annulled forthwith, & that the property of C. should be handed back to him. T. did not assent to the resolution. The Ct. of Bkpcy. affirmed the resolutions, & ordered the adjudication to be annulled. Afterwards, under the same writ of execution, the sheriff again seized the goods of C. under the direction of T.:—Held: under 1869 Act, s. 81, the property in C.'s goods reverted to him upon the annulment of his bkpcy., & the resolutions were not binding upon T. who had neither assented to the composition nor proved under the bkpcy., & the seizure by the sheriff of C.'s goods after the annulment of his bkpcy. was lawful. Qu.: whether the seizure after the annulment would have been lawful, if the composition had not been confined to "the debts proved & admitted in the bkpcy." & had extended to any debts "provable under the bkpcy."—CREW v. TERRY (1877), 2 C. 8947. Seizure before bankruptcy—On petition of execution creditor—Bankruptcy annulled by resolution of creditors.]—A trader was adjudicated bkpt. on the petition of a creditor, who was, under an execution, in possession of chattels belonging to the trader. Under orders of the ct., the bkpcy. was afterwards annulled, & the property of debtor was assigned by him to the same person who was trustee in the bkpcy., on trust to secure payment of a composition which the majority of the creditors had agreed to accept. The execution creditor then threatened to proceed with his execution:—Held: the chattels were vested in the trustee discharged from the execution, & the creditor ought to be restrained from proceeding with the execution.—Re CHIDLEY, Re LENNARD (1875), 1 Ch. Garnishee order—Whether garnishee liable to trustee—After money paid to execution creditor—Without notice.]—Declaration, for a debt due from deft. to S., by pltfs. as trustees under a deed for the benefit of the creditors of S. under 1861 Act, all the requirements of which had been complied with so as to vest the debt in pltfs. Plea, that a judgment creditor of S. had obtained an order, attaching deft.'s debt & calling on him to show cause why he should not pay it to judgment creditor, that deft. having no notice of the trust deed had no cause to show, & an order was made upon him to pay the debt to the judgment creditor, that such order was, before deft. had any notice of the trust deed, served upon him, & deft., in compliance with the order, & to avoid & because he could not otherwise have avoided execution, paid the debt to the judgment creditor. Replication, that the trust deed was registered under 1861 Act, before payment by deft. to the judgment creditor:—Held: though the payment by deft. to the judgment creditor was made after the registration of the deed, the plea must be taken to mean, either that deft. paid without notice of the deed, or, if with notice, that it was in such circumstances that he was unable to get the order set aside before he was compelled to pay to save execution being actually levied, &, in either case, the payment was a protection to deft., the garnishee, as made under an order of a ct. of competent authority. Semble: if the garnishee has notice of a trust deed or bkpcy. before the time for showing cause, against the ex p. order had elapsed he would be bound to show cause, & if he were to pay to the judgment creditor, instead of showing cause, the assignees could recover the debt from him:—Qu.: whether, if the garnishee had notice of a trust deed or bkpcy., after the order for payment had been made & served, but before payment, he would be safe in paying without taking any other step, or whether he would be bound, if there were opportunity, to apply to get the order set aside, or 8953. Property acquired by debtor after resolution closing liquidation—No resolution granting discharge.]—Where in a liquidation a resolution has been passed closing the liquidation, but no resolution has been passed discharging debtor, the after-acquired property of debtor can be made available under 1869 Act, s. 54, for the payment of a debt owing before the liquidation.—Re POWELL, POWELL v. POWELL (1904), 20 T. L. R. 374; 11 Mans. 22.

8954. Property acquired by debtor after approval of scheme—Does not pass to trustee—In absence of express stipulation.]—A scheme of arrangement operates only to convey to the trustee property to which debtor is entitled up to the date of the approval of the scheme by the ct. It does not, unless there be an express stipulation to that effect, include property coming to debtor after that date.—Re CROOM, ENGLAND v. PROVINCIAL ASSETS CO., [1891] 1 Ch. 695; 60 L. J. Ch. 373; 64 L. T. 53; 39 W. R. 286; 7 T. L. R. 216.

8955. Property acquired by debtor before but not realised until after close of liquidation.]—Debtor was entitled under a will of testator, who died three years before the bkpcy., to property which was not realised, until several years after the close of the liquidation & the release of the trustee:—Held: the trustee was entitled to receive & give a discharge for such property, & it was his duty to distribute it under the order of the ct.—Re ARMSTRONG, Ex p. WITT (1879), 40 L. T. 836; 27 W. R. 888.

D. Property in Reputed Ownership of Debtor.

8956. Rule in bankruptcy not applicable to deeds of inspectorship.]—Held: the doctrine of "order & disposition" under 1849 Act did not apply to deeds of inspectorship under 1861 Act, s. 192.—Re SYMONS (1869), 17 W. R. 1040.

SUB-SECT. 4.—REALISATION OF PROPERTY.

8957. Recovery of advances—Proceeds of sale.]—S. deposited barilla with deft., as broker for sale, agreeing that it should go in liquidation of a claim of deft. against S. S. then assigned his property to trustees for his creditors, who paid deft. at his request the amount of the duties on the barilla, on his stating he had agreed to sell it for a sum which would more than pay the money advanced by them for the duties. The purchase garnishee, & judgment has been obtained thereon against debtor, does not take precedence of the attachment of the debt, & the creditor may enforce payment by the garnishee.—WOOD v. JOSELIN (1890), 18 A. R. 59.—CAN.

PART XXIII. SECT. 8, SUB-SECT. 3.—D.

a. Rule in bankruptcy does not apply to deed of arrangement.]—Held: goods in the order & disposition of an arranging debtor, with the consent of the true owner, did not pass by a deed made under 1867 Act.—GREER v. CASSIUS, Mac. 1015.—N.Z.

PART XXIII. SECT. 8, SUB-SECT. 4.

b. Power of court—To punish debtor hindering realisation.]—Semble: if a debtor who has made a deed of assignment were doing anything unfair to prevent the realisation of his assigned property, the Ct. of Insolvency could check or punish him.—HOWDEN v. COCK (1915), 20 C. L. R. 201.—AUS.

c. Sale of property—Time for sale.]—The ct. will consider that a year is the proper time within which the sale of the property assigned is to be made, where the assignment leaves the time & manner of such sale in the discretion of the assignee. If the sale be not made within a year the onus will be cast on the assignee of satisfying the ct. of his bona fides in seeking of the barilla was never completed on account of it having deteriorated, & it was subsequently sold for less than the amount paid for duties. The trustees claimed to recover the amount advanced by them & also the proceeds of the sale of the barilla :—Held : though, if S. had advanced the money for duties, he could not have recovered it, the trustees for the creditors in general were in a different situation, & they were bound to facilitate the sale of the barilla if, as they were informed, it would be beneficial for the estate, & the trustees were entitled to recover.—LIVESEY v. WILLIS (1814), 5 Taunt. 446 ; 1 Marsh. 130 ; 128 E. R. 762.

8958. Power of sale with consent in writing of grantors—Sufficiency of consent.]—A. & B., father & son, executed deeds for the settlement of some of their family estates, & for payment of the debts of A. Certain estates were conveyed to trustees, with a power to sell, on the consent in writing of A. & B. or the survivor, & to apply the produce of the sale in payment of debts therein specified. A. was indebted to D., as trustee for an infirmary, & A. & B. had given joint & separate warrants of attorney to secure the debt. Separate judgments had been entered up against A. & against B. The amount of the sums thus due was stated in the deed. D. had some legal interest in the estates themselves. He was a party to the deed, & executed it. In the deed executed by A. & B., there was a conveyance to certain persons, with a power of sale, to be exercised with the consent, in writing, of A. & B., or the survivor of them. A. died without having concurred in any consent to a sale. B. afterwards borrowed money from an insurance co., the repayment of which was secured by mtge. of his estates, of which those which were the subject of the first deed formed part. In the mtge., to which the creditor under the first deed was a party, & which fully recited the deed, there was a power of sale given to the mtgee. :—Held : this was a consent, in writing, sufficient to satisfy the words of the first deed.—MONTEFIORE v. BROWNE (1858), 7 H. L. Cas. 241 ; 4 Jur. N. S. 1201 ; 11 E. R. 96, H. L.

8959. Book-debts & goodwill—Power of court to order sale by private contract.]—The ct. has jurisdiction, under 1861 Act, ss. 137, 197, upon the application of the trustees under a deed executed & registered in conformity with ss. 192 et seq., to order the book-debts & goodwill of the business of debtor to be sold by private contract.—Re BALLAD & BOWMAN, Ex p. MANNOOCH (1863), 9 L. T. 521.

8960. Bank stock—Power of court to order entry in names of trustees—After death of debtor without transferring stock—Without necessity of taking out administration.]—Debtor assigned all his property to trustees for the benefit of his creditors, to be administered as in bkpcy. He was possessed of bank stock standing in his own name, but before he could transfer the stock to the trustees he died :—Held : the ct. had power to order the Bank of England to enter the stock in their books in the names of the trustees of the deed, without the necessity of taking out administration or the execution of a formal transfer by any one.—Re PRICE, Ex p. BANK OF ENGLAND (1867), 2 Ch. e. Life interest—Power to sell—Received.]—A person, entitled to a life estate in lands, conveyed his life estate to a trustee for creditors, upon trust, to pay to the creditors the amount due to them, with interest :—Held : the creditors were not entitled to a sale of debtor's life interest, but only to have a receiver appointed.—TAYLOR v. EMERSON (1843), 6 I. Eq. R. 224.—IR.

f. Mortgaged property—Sale discharged from incumbrance.]—An arranging debtor proposed to pay a composition on unsecured debts, & on secured debts not fully secured, which proposal was confirmed by the ct. He had previously mortgaged premises, which, subsequently, he demised. If the premises were sold, under order of ct., subject to the lease, they would not realise sufficient, after payment of prior incumbrances, to pay the amount due on foot of the mtge., which amount had not been realised, & no composition had been paid in respect of such deficiency :—Held : the ct. had jurisdiction to declare the lease invalid as against the mtgee., & to sell the premises discharged therefrom.—Re R., RUTTLE v. O'FLAHERTY (1877), 11 I. L. T. 133.—IR.

g. Shares—Power to call on company for account.]—An assignee for creditors under an assignment, which excepted shares in cos. not fully paid up, & which declared the assignor a trustee of such shares for the assignee, sought to have it declared that he was the owner of the shares & for an account :—Held : he was not entitled to call on the co. to account to him for the shares or any dealings therewith.—ARMSTRONG v. MERCHANTS' MANUFACTURING CO. h. Rights of action by trustee—Ejectment.]—A trustee under 1860 Act cannot be registered as a proprietor under Real Property Act, 1861, & cannot maintain ejectment against his insolvent, who is so registered.—KELLY v. DOODY (1871), 5 S. A. L. R. 132.—AUS.

k. —— Money paid to creditor by debtor.]—Debtor assigned for the benefit of his creditors, the trustee carrying on his business, under the deed, for the purpose of winding it up & employing debtor as his agent. Debtor paid money from the business so carried on to a creditor, who sought to appropriate it to an account due before the assignment ; the creditor knew that the money was paid out of the trust estate :—Held : the trustee could recover it in an action for money paid.—DICKIE v. NORTHRUP (1892), 24 N. S. R. 121.—CAN.

l. —— Debt due to assignor.]—M. had a contract to supply wood to a co., for which he was to be paid when accepted. While one hundred & fifty-two cords were lying in the co.'s yard for acceptance he assigned all his wood to pltf. for the benefit of his creditors. M. at the same time made over his interest in the contract to deft., who completed it, & the co. paid deft. for the one hundred & fifty-two cords as well as for what he had himself supplied :—Held : pltf. might recover such sum as money had & received.—SCOTT v. KELLY (1859), 17 U. SUB-SECT. 1.—WHERE BANKRUPTCY DOES NOT SUPERVENE.

A. Appointment and Position generally.

8965. Jurisdiction of Court of Chancery—To appoint new trustees.]—New trustees of a creditors' deed may be appointed by the Ct. of Ch., notwithstanding 1861 Act, s. 197.—Re BACHE'S TRUST DEED (1868), 16 W. R. 1078.

8966. Appointment of two trustees—Death of one—Position of survivor.]—Where two persons are appointed joint trustees in a liquidation by arrangement under 1869 Act, s. 125, & one of them dies, the survivor continues to be trustee in the liquidation.—Re BARTON, TOMLINS v. LATIMER, [1909] 2 K. B. 841; 79 L. J. K. B. 29; 101 L. T. 407; 16 Mans. 269, C. A.

8967. Disqualification—Cannot sue out commission.]—A commission of bkpcy. cannot be taken out by a person who is appointed, & acts as a trustee under a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors, although he does not actually execute the deed.—Re WHALLEY, Ex p. WHALLEY (1803), 1 Smith, K. B. 118, L. C.

8968. —— ——.]—By a composition deed, the insolvent assigned to four trustees all his goods, chattels, etc., upon trust to sell & to apply the proceeds rateably in discharge of his debts amongst his creditors, who should execute the deed, provided that the trustees & the creditors should, on or before a given day, make proof of the debts, if required, & execute that deed. The creditors, as a release of their respective debts, covenanted that they would not implead the insolvent or his goods. The deed was executed by two only of the trustees:—Held: the debt of a trustee who had executed it was extinguished by the deed, & he could not sue out a commission of bkpcy.—SMALL v. MARWOOD (1829), 9 B. & C. 300; 4 Man. & Ry. 8965 i. Jurisdiction of Courts of Equity —To remove trustees & make fresh appointment.]—There is inherent jurisdiction in Cts. of Equity to remove trustees & appoint new ones in proper cases.—Re DICKINSON (1892), 2 B. C. R. 262.—CAN.

n. Who may be appointed—Person ignorant of business.]—The appointment as an assignee, of a person totally ignorant of business & incapable of properly performing the duties of winding it up, renders the deed void.—CULTON v. HARRIS (1897), 30 N. S. R. 112.—CAN.

o. —— Company.]—An incorporated co. cannot be an assignee for the benefit of creditors under Creditors' Trust Deeds Act.—COLONIAL DEVELOPMENT CO. v. BEACH (1913), 19 B. C. R. 247.—CAN.

p. —— Sheriff—Effect of appointment of.]—An assignment for the benefit of creditors made to a sheriff under R. S. O., 1887, c. 124, is made to him as a public functionary, & on his death the care & administration of the estate assigned devolves upon his deputy, & thereafter upon his successor in office. It is not competent to the sheriff to disclaim or decline to act as such assignee.—BROWN v. GROVE (1889), 18 O. R. 311.—CAN.

q. —— Under Insolvent Act 1865.]—The above Act does not authorise a voluntary assignment to an official assignee in any part of either Upper or Lower Canada, but means only that it may be made to any official assignee entitled to take it under Insolvent Act, 1864, without compliance with the formalities mentioned therein.—WHITE v. CUTHBERTSON (1867), 17 C. P. 377.—CAN.

r. —— Residence of assignee.]—A voluntary assignment to an official assignee must be to one resident in the county, within which insolvent has his place of business. Semble: the creditors may acquiesce in an assignment to a non-resident official assignee, & thus constitute him their assignee.—MCWHIRTER v. LEARMOUTH (1868), 18 C. 8973. To enforce contract of sale made by him.]—A trader made a conveyance of all his real & personal property to trustees to sell for the benefit of his creditors, under which the trustees contracted to sell lands to deft. The contract not being completed, they filed a bill against deft. for a specific performance, but, before answer, the trader became bkpt., & his assignees filed a supplemental bill to enforce the contract:—Held: although the conveyance to the trustees was an act of bkpcy., the assignees might compel the performance of the contract made under it.—GOODWIN v. LIGHTBODY (1818), Dan. 153; 159 E. R. 866.

8974. —— Creditors' assent might qualify purchaser's offer.]—A trustee in bkpcy. entered into a contract with defts. for the sale of the assets of bkpt. for such a sum as would pay the expenses of the bkpcy. & the preferential debts in full within fourteen days after the approval of the scheme by the ct., & a composition to the unsecured creditors, & that on approval of the scheme by the ct. the bkpcy. should be annulled. The creditors passed a resolution agreeing to the scheme, as proposed, but with the addition of a provision that a bond should be given by defts. for repayments of the money. The ct. afterwards approved the agreement, & annulled the bkpcy:—Held: the creditors not having accepted the scheme in the form agreed to by defts. there had been no approval of the scheme by the ct. & the contract could not be enforced.—LUCAS v. MARTIN (1888), 37 Ch. D. 597; 57 L. J. Ch. 261; 58 L. T. 862; 36 W. R. 627, C. A.

h. To have conflicting claims determined summarily.]—An assignee for benefit of creditors under an assignment within R. S. O. 1914, c. 134, is not entitled, upon a summary application to the ct. under R. S. O. 1914, c. 121, to have conflicting claims of right to rank upon the estate determined.—Re FEARNLEY'S ASSIGNMENT (1915), 33 O. L. R. 492.—CAN.

k. To bind creditors.]—The inspectors of an insolvent estate have no power, unless specially authorised by the creditors, to bind the latter by anything they do in disposing of the estate. The disposal of it is in the hands of the creditors, &, in default of directions by them, in the hands of the judge of the county ct.—MORRISON v. WATTS (1892), 19 A. R. 622.—CAN.

l. To add proviso to release of debtor.]—Two partners, H. & F., by deed assigned their estate to trustees for the benefit of their creditors, & in consideration of the assignment the creditors released H. from all debts due from H. & F. It was provided by the deed that the release should not take effect unless & until the trustees should, by instrument in writing under their hands, signify their consent to such release taking effect, such consent to be given or withheld at the discretion of the trustees. By a subsequent deed, which recited the deed of assignment & the release therein contained, the trustees consented to the release taking effect, but provided that the release should in no way whatsoever act as a release of F. as a member of the firm H. & F. or in his individual capacity:—Held: the trustees had no power to add the proviso reserving rights against F., & H. & F. were released from the debts due by them.—Re FISHER, Ex p. PETERSEN (1899), 20 N. d. —— Where fraud or improper conduct not alleged.]—Pltfs. assigned to deft., for the benefit of creditors, a list of whom was handed to him. Subsequently pltfs. furnished another sched., embracing several persons not mentioned in the original list. Deft. had paid several of those first named, had expended a sum greater than he had collected, & had become answerable for more than the estate would realise. He refused to recognise the claims of the additional parties : pltfs. filed a bill for an account of deft.'s dealings with the estate & for execution of the trusts of the deed : fraud or improper conduct were not alleged in the bill ; & if the whole estate were realised, deft. would still be a loser :—Held : the bill must be dismissed with costs.—LIDDELL v. DEACON (1873), 20 Gr. 70.—CAN.

8986. —— To file accounts—Every three months—Duty of inspector to enforce.]—Held: (1) it was the duty of the trustee to file accounts every three months; (2) it was the duty of the inspector to see that accounts were so filed by the trustee, & if the inspector did not call for an account, he could not be heard to complain that one had not been rendered.—Re BRIGHT, Ex p. OLD (1874), L. 8988. —— To pay personally stamp on accounts—Where no assets.]—Where no money on account of debtor's estate has come into the hands of a trustee under a scheme of arrangement, he must, at his own expense, provide the stamp for the affidavit of no receipts or payments, which is required to be forwarded to the Board of Trade.—Re ROWLANDS, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 35 W. R. 457; 4 Morr. 70.

8989. —— —— ——.]—The trustee must stamp an account called for by the Board of Trade under 1890 Act, s. 25, out of his own pocket, if he has no assets for the purpose.—Re HERTAGE (1896), 3 Mans. 297.

8990. —— Power of board of trade to demand account—After removal of trustee.]—Although a trustee under a scheme of arrangement has been removed from office, the Board of Trade has power to demand a statement of his receipts & payments as such trustee, & to apply to the ct. under 1883 Act, s. 102 (5), to enforce that order in case of neglect or refusal to comply with it.—Re ROGERS, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1887), 35 W. R. 457; 4 Morr. 67.

8991. —— —— Committal on failure to comply.]—A trustee under a deed of arrangement failed to comply with an order of the ct. directing him to obey a previous order of the Board of Trade by which such trustee was required, under 1890 Act, s. 25, to furnish accounts. An application having been made by the Board of Trade for his committal:—Held: an order of committal must be made, but such order would not issue for a fortnight & not go out at all, if within that time the trustee complied with the terms of the order previously made against him.—Re GALLANT, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1893), 10 Morr. 128.

8992. —— —— Liability for costs of application.]—When a trustee under a deed of arrangement, by neglecting to comply with an order of the Board of Trade under 1890 Act, s. 25, directing him to transmit accounts, obliges the Board of Trade to give notice of motion to compel compliance, the trustee must pay the costs so occasioned, though before the hearing he has complied with the order.—Re FREEMAN, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE (1894), 1 Mans. 61.

8993. —— 1890 Act not retrospective.]—Held: 1890 Act, s. 25, either did not apply to deeds of arrangement registered before Jan. 1, 1891, or if it did apply to such deeds, applied only to accounts subsequent to Jan. 1, 1891.—Re NORMAN, Ex p. BOARD OF TRADE, [1893] 2 Q. 8994. —— Right of official assignee to demand audit—Liability for costs of application.]—Where debtors made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, & there had been no audit of the assignees' accounts & large sums had been received by them:—Held: (1) the official assignee acted properly in calling for an audit, although twenty-five years had elasped since any step had been taken & no creditor made any complaint; as the official assignee might with little difficulty & at a small expense have satisfied himself that the circumstances did not render it incumbent upon him to continue to prosecute a claim against the creditors' assignee, he was not held entitled to his full costs as against the latter, there being no estate.—Re ROBBINS & MUCHALL, Ex p. SHAW (1846), De G. 242.

8995. To pay money into Bank of England—Payment into bank in which trustee interested—Whether sufficiently prescribed by creditors.]—Creditors at a first meeting resolved on liquidation & appointed O. trustee. At the same meeting O. stated to the creditors that he should open an account in his own name, as trustee of debtor, at the P. Bank, of which he was manager, & should pay into that account all money received by him from debtor's estate. The creditors assented to such arrangement, but no formal resolution was passed confirming it:—Held: the estate being under liquidation, the creditors had sufficiently prescribed the bank into which the money was to be paid, & the trustee could not be charged with interest for not having paid it into the Bank of England.—Re BRIGHT, Ex p. OLD (1874), L. R. 17 Eq. 457; 43 L. J. Bcy. 47; 30 L. T. 72; 22 W. R. 365.

8999. Not to buy estate—Repurchase—After bonâ fide sale to stranger.]—Where a trustee for creditors under a deed of composition bonâ fide sold the property to a stranger, from whom he subsequently repurchased it at the same price, & the sale was confirmed by all the creditors who had executed the deed, & by two out of three of the assignees, a bill by the third assignor to set aside the sale was dismissed without costs.—DOVER v. BUCK (1865), 5 Giff. 57; 5 New Rep. 444; 12 L. T. 136; 11 Jur. N. S. 580; 66 E. R. 921.

9000. Not to buy debts—Purchase inconsistent with interests of trust.]—A trustee is bound not to do anything which can place him in a position inconsistent with the interests of the trust, or which can have a tendency to interfere with his duty in discharging it. Neither the trustee nor his representative can be allowed to retain an advantage acquired in violation of this rule.

A trust was created by debtor for the benefit of creditors, & the trustee had the power to bind debtor personally & heritably for the benefit of the trust. By the terms of the trust deed, the trustee was likewise required to do all in his power to keep the residue of the trust estate as large as possible for debtor. The trustee purchased an annuity granted by debtor, after the date of the trust deed. The trustee died. His representatives sought to enforce the annuity against the grantor: —Held: they could not do so.—HAMILTON v. WRIGHT (1842), 9 Cl. & Fin. 111; 8 E. R. 357, H. L.

9002. How fixed—Invalid resolution of creditors.]—The creditors of bkpt. accepted a composition, & the sum required to pay the composition was provided by his father & distributed by the trustee. The creditors also passed a resolution that the remuneration of the trustee should be a commission of "5 per cent. on all amounts brought to credit & 5 per cent. on all amounts distributed to the creditors." The trustee claimed the commission on the sum provided by the father as being an "amount brought to credit" of the estate:—Held: (1) the resolution, not being in accordance with 1883 Act, s. 72, was ultra vires; (2) the words "the amount realised" in s. 72 meant "the amount realised by the trustee," & the sum provided by the father was not a sum "realised by the trustee," & the commission claimed was not payable. Semble: the words "distributed in dividend" in s. 72 meant "distributed in dividend out of assets realised by the trustee."—Re CHRISTIE, Ex p. CHRISTIE, [1900] 1 Q. After the tender of the purchaser had been approved, A. induced the inspector to join him in the transaction. The estate paid a small dividend, & pltfs. brought an action for an account of any profit deft. might have made out of the sale: —Held: the inspector could not obtain an advantage as inspector for himself from his position, & the creditors were entitled to a reference to ascertain what profit, if any, he had derived from the transaction.—SEGSWORTH v. ANDERSON (1895), 24 S. Owing to the condition of the books, accounts, etc., the labours of trustees were much greater than anticipated:—Held: the trustees were entitled to additional remuneration.—Re TESSIER, Ex p. GOODFELLOW & DONNELLY (1896), 7 Nfld. q. Commission on amount realised—When allowed.]—Where bkpt. compounds with his creditors, & the composition deed provides for the distribution of the estate by the official assignee, the ordinary percentage on the value of the estate realised is payable to that officer, but if debtor pays the amount of the composition directly to his creditors no commission can be charged. —Re JOHNSON, Ex p. OFFICIAL AS-

(b) Contribution and Indemnity.

9005. Contribution—For what amount.]—J., a trader, executed a deed of inspectorship, & directed the inspectors to manage & get in his estate & divide same by instalments for the benefit of his creditors. It recited that J. owed W. & Co. on a bill of exchange £1,218, & that they had taken proceedings in bkpcy., but that same had been abandoned on the guarantee of some of the persons who were appointed inspectors to pay the amount found due on the bill by arbn. Among his creditors were W. & Co. for £3,336 for a trade debt. The deed provided that the inspectors might do all necessary acts for carrying into effect the arrangement respecting the £1,218 bill, & should pay W. & Co. whatever might be found due; there were also provisions for the indemnity of the inspectors & for contributions by the creditors for same. W. & Co. executed the deed for the debt of £3,336 only. Before the estate was wholly realised the first instalment became due, & an award was made in favour of W. & Co. for the amount claimed on the bill of exchange. The inspectors not having money in hand borrowed money on their own responsibility, & paid the whole £1,218 awarded. The estate turned out to be insufficient, & the inspectors filed a bill against the creditors, who had executed the deed, for contribution. A decree was made in pltfs.' favour, & an account was directed against defts. in respect of their several debts in the pleadings mentioned. W. & Co. having appealed:—Held: W. & Co. stood, in respect to the bill of exchange, as mere strangers to the deed, & they were liable to contribute in respect of the debt of £3,336 only. —CHEESEBOROUGH v. WRIGHT (1861), 4 De G. 9006. —— How enforced—Whether liability need be ascertained.]—By their covenant contained in a deed of inspectorship, the creditors executing the deed made themselves separately liable to indemnify the inspectors against any loss they might sustain as such inspectors, the amount of the liability of each creditor to be proportionate to his scheduled debt. An inspector finding that the assets of the business were insufficient to meet the liabilities, filed a bill against all the creditors who executed the inspectorship deed, praying contribution & accounts:—Held: (1) the inspectors were trustees for the creditors, & neither the separate liability, nor the separate nature of the defence of each creditor, some creditors having legal, & others equitable defences, precluded pltf. from commencing one suit against all the covenanting creditors, to obtain accounts & contribution; (2) the amount of pltf.'s liability need not be ascertained before he could file such a bill; (3) the circumstance that pltf. was a party to an existing suit in the same subject-matter instituted & conducted by a creditor, did not necessarily deprive pltf. of his right to institute his suit.—SINGLETON v. SELWYN (1863), 3 New Rep. 27; 9 L. 9008. —— —— Priority over costs of other parties where estate deficient.]—If, in an action by cestuis que trust under a creditors' trust deed against their trustees for accounts, & to have the rights of the parties ascertained, the costs of all parties are ordered to be paid out of the trust fund, & it appears probable that the fund will not be sufficient for payment of all the costs in full, the trustees are entitled to a direction for payment of their costs, charges, & expenses in priority to the costs of all other parties.—DODDS v. TUKE (1884), 25 Ch. R. 233.—CAN.

9007 ii. —— —— Action authorised by creditors.]—An assignee for the benefit of creditors, on instructions of the inspectors, contested pltf.'s claim, who then brought an action, which was dismissed with costs, but, on appeal to the Div. Ct., that decision was reversed, with costs to be paid by the assignee. The creditors, after taking counsel's opinion, resolved to appeal to the Ct. of Appeal, but the appeal to that ct. was dismissed with costs. The assignee charged against the estate the total sum he had to pay in respect of the costs of these proceedings:—Held: that he was entitled so to do. —SMITH v. BEAL (1894), 25 O. 9010. Degree of diligence required.]—The ct. will treat inspectors with reasonable indulgence, but at the same time will require of them reasonable diligence in performing the duties prescribed & undertaken.—COPPARD v. ALLEN (1864), 4 Giff. 497; 3 New Rep. 411; 33 L. 9011. —— By inspector carrying on business—For mortgagee in possession.]—A creditors' deed provided that, after certain mtges. had been paid, debtor should carry on his business under the control of inspectors, & it gave one of the mtgees. the option of either continuing in possession until the mtges. were paid, or "allowing the inspectors to manage the business on behalf of him & them": —Held: the inspectors, while they were allowed by the mtgee. to manage, were only responsible to the same extent as they would have been after the mtges. had been paid.—CHAPLIN v. YOUNG (1864), 33 Beav. 330; 3 New Rep. 449; 11 L. T. 10: 55 E. R. 395.

9012. —— Not liable for bonâ fide but erroneous decision on claim.]—A trustee under an assignment for creditors occupies a quasi-judicial position for the purpose of deciding on claims against the estate, & is not responsible for an error made in the bonâ fide exercise of his judgment.—Re PILLING, Ex p. OGLE, Ex p. SMITH (1873), 8 Ch. App. 711; 42 L. J. Bcy. 99; 21 W. R. 938, L. JJ.

9013. Failure to pay dividends—Defence that amount of debt not entered against creditor's name—Notice of claim sufficient to establish liability.]—In an action under a composition deed, between A., B., as trustee, & A.'s creditors, for the amount of a creditor's dividends, the deed reciting that A. was indebted to the several creditors whose debts were set opposite their names in the schedule annexed to the deed, & A. covenanting by the deed to pay a specific ratio of the debts, it is no defence to say that pltf. did not set the amount of his debt opposite to his name in the schedule. It is sufficient to render B. liable that he had notice of pltf.'s claim before action.—DANIEL v. SAUNDERS (1789), 2 Chit. 564.

9014. Neglect to carry out trusts of deed—Failure to get in estate.]—On a bill by a creditor against an inspector, who had neglected to act on the provisions of the deed as to getting in debtor's estate, an account was decreed against the trustee for wilful default, with annual rests & interest, & for the costs of the suit.—COPPARD v. ALLEN (1864), 4 Giff. 497; 3 New Rep. 411; 33 L. J. Ch. 475; 9 L. T. 797; 10 Jur. N. S. 122; 66 E. R. 802. Varied on another point, 2 De G. J. & Sm. 173.

9015. Failure to account—Liability for costs of action to enforce accounts.]—The assignee of A. under a deed of assignment & trust for the benefit of A.'s creditors was decreed, in the circumstances, to pay the costs of a suit for an account brought against him by the assignee of A. under Insolvent Debtors Act.—COLLINS v. REECE (1845), 1 Coll. 675: 63 E. discontinue same. Pltf. & deft. carried on the business as such trustees, pltf.'s firm acting as their agents. The business eventuated in a heavy loss, & a large sum remained owing to pltf.'s firm as agents for the trustees. Pltf. brought an action against deft. claiming a declaration that deft. was liable to him for a moiety of the losses sustained:—Held: there was no implied liability on the part of the creditors to indemnify the trustees.—CARGILL v. HENDERSON, Mac. 850.—N.Z.

PART XXIII. SECT. 9, SUB-SECT. 1. —F. (a).

b. Neglect to carry out trusts of deed—Refusal to pay dividend—Pleading.]—The statement of claim in an action brought against B. as assignee in trust for creditors, alleged assent to the deed of assignment by pltfs., that B. had full notice of the assignor's indebtedness to pltfs., that B. realised upon the assets of the estate, & distributed the proceeds to certain creditors, but refused to pay pltfs. their proportionate share. It also alleged that B. possessed other money realised since what was stated to have been realised & distributed was realised. B. defended by admitting pltfs.' allegation as to assignment but he denied that pltfs. notified their claim in accordance with a judge's order that creditors should send in their claims verified by a statutory declaration, which order was published as directed in a newspaper. The defence further alleged that after execution of the assignment & while B. was in possession as assignee of the estate & effects of the debtor, pltfs. seized goods out of his possession as assignee & converted the same to their own use, & B. further set up that pltfs. by such seizure & conversion were estopped from making any claim under the assignment:—Held: the statement of defence was embarrassing but deft. might have leave to amend.—COCKSHUTT PLOW CO. v. WILKERSON (1906), 3 W. L. R. 175.—CAN.

c. —— Refusal to register claims made after time.]—The creditor of insolvent, who had assigned all his property for the benefit of his creditors generally, sued him for his debt, joining the trustees as defts. The trustees had refused to register pltf.'s claim on the ground that he had not applied for its registration within the time notified by them. The deed of trust empowered the trustees to distribute the assets of insolvent after a certain time among the creditors who had preferred their claims within that time, & declared that they should not be liable for such distribution to creditors who had not preferred their claims within that time, but it did not empower them to refuse to register claims made after that time, but before distribution of the assets:—Held: the refusal of the trustees to register pltf.'s claim gave him a cause of action against them, & as pltf. had applied for the registration of his claim before the distribution of the assets, the trustees had improperly refused to register it.—AJUDHIA NATH v. ANANT DAS (1881), I. L. R. 3 All. 799.—IND.

d. —— Refusal to pay disputed claim—Payment over of surplus to assignor.]—By trust disposition A. conveyed to B., as trustee, all her interest under a will for the purposes of realising same, & converting it into cash & paying all debts due by her at the date of the deed, & of thereafter paying over the balance to her. B. accepted the trust & by advertisement requested A.'s creditors to lodge their claims with him. C. lodged a claim, which A. had docqueted as correct. Subsequently A. informed B. that the docquet was a mistake & instructed B. not to pay C. B. paid over the balance of the estate to A., without having satisfied C.'s claim. In an action by C. against A. & B., in which it was established that C.'s claim was due by A.:—Held: B. was not entitled to pay over the balance of the trust funds to A. without satisfying C.'s claim, & he was personally liable to C.—CRUICKSHANK v. THOMAS (1893), 21 R. (Ct. of Sess.) 257.—SCOT.

e. Failure to account — Creditor's remedy on assignee's bond.]—Where an official assignee under Insolvent Act, 1875 has taken possession of an insolvent estate in that capacity, & subsequently the creditors have, by resolution continued him as assignee to the estate without exacting any further security, & while acting as such assignee he makes default to account for money of the estate, the creditors have recourse upon the bond given for the due performance of his duties as official assignee.—LETOURNEUX v. DANSEREAU (1886), 12 S. C. R. 307.—CAN.

9016. Overpayment of dividends.]—A creditor signed a creditors' deed for a debt due on bills for which debtor was liable. Before making formal proof of the debt, the creditor received dividends from the estates of other persons who were liable on some of the bills, but the trustee nevertheless paid him dividends on the full amount of the bills. The other creditors sought to surcharge the trustee with the dividend thus overpaid :—Held : the trustee ought not to be surcharged for the overpayment of the dividends.—Re PILLING, Ex p. OGLE, Ex p. SMITH (1873), 8 Ch. App. 711 ; 42 L. J. Bcy. 99 ; 21 W. R. 938, L. JJ.

9017. Allowing property to remain in debtor's possession—Allowing solicitor to retain bill of exchange.]—Among the assets of debtor, who executed a creditors' deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, was a bill of exchange which debtor had deposited with his solr. as a security for his professional charges. The bill was dishonoured at maturity, at which time the solr. had received from other sources sufficient to pay all his charges then due. The trustee, however, allowed the bill to remain in the solr.'s hands, who brought an action on it against the acceptor, but nothing was recovered in consequence of the acceptor's insolvency. The creditors sought to charge the trustee with the loss of the money, on account of his allowing the solr. to keep the bill & treat it as his own, instead of himself dealing with the acceptor & effecting a compromise :—Held : there was no ground for charging the trustee on such account.

The trustee allowed debtor to retain possession of wine & spirits to the amount of £130, which was eventually lost to the estate :—Held : the trustee must personally make good the loss with interest at 5 per cent.—Re PILLING, Ex p. OGLE, Ex p. SMITH (1873), 8 Ch. App. 711 ; 42 L. J. Bcy. 99 ; 21 W. R. 938, L. JJ.

9018. Negligence of employee—Receiver appointed by inspector.]—When a receiver is appointed under an ordinary inspectorship deed, the inspectors, though they appoint & may remove him, are not responsible for his default, as if he were their agent. —HOBSON v. JONES (1870), L. 9019. Fraud of employee—Servant.]—Deft., the paid trustee of a creditors' trust deed, employed L. to manage & deal with part of the trust property. The employment of L. was justifiable, & deft. was not guilty of any negligence in the matter, but certain chattels comprised in the trust estate having been stolen by L., & their value having thus been lost, it was sought to make deft. liable :—Held : no liability attached to deft.—JOBSON v. PALMER, [1893] 1 Ch. 71 ; 62 L. g. Failure to collect debts.]—To make an assignee under Insolvent Debtors' Act liable for not collecting the assigned debts, there must be distinct proof of neglect, or of positive forbearance on his part toward debtors, without the concurrence of the assignor, & of consequent loss, & also, that the debts assigned were of real value.—COLLINS v. REID (1866), 2 Old. 252.—CAN.

h. —— Book debts of small amounts.]—An attorney employed by a trustee failed to collect certain book debts due the estate, for small amounts ; one of the reasons for making the assignment was the difficulty experienced by the assignor in collecting even good debts :—Held : the trustee should not be charged as for debts that he should have got in.—THIBIDEAU v. LE BLANC (1907), 2 E. L. R. 422.—CAN.

k. Loss occasioned by sale of estate.]—Partners made an assignment, & the assignee took possession of the partnership estate. Afterwards, M., a brother of one of insolvents, offered to purchase the partnership estate, & upon sufficient in number & value of the joint creditors signing a deed of composition & discharge, the assignee transferred the estate to him, without any authority from the creditors. At a subsequent meeting of the joint creditors, resolutions were passed approving of the deed, of the sale to M., & of the action of the assignee :—Held : the assignee was liable to account for any loss dissentient joint creditors might sustain in consequence of such sale.—Re MCLAREN & CHALMERS (1876), 1 A. R. 68.—CAN.

l. Payment of invalid claim.]—A trustee for behoof of creditors, who had in good faith, but against the protest of the truster, & so precipitately that the latter had no opportunity of interdicting him, paid a claim, afterwards held to be invalid :—Held : liable to make good the sum so paid away by him.—TAIT (BUTTERCASE & GEDDIE'S TRUSTEE) v. GEDDIE (1897), 24 R. 9022. For goods supplied on credit—For bills of exchange—Trustees continuing to carry on business.] —S. & S., trading in that name, becoming embarrassed, executed a deed, to which they were parties of the first part, certain of the creditors, as trustees, of the second part, & the general scheduled creditors, among whom the trustees were named, of the third part. The deed assigned the property of S. & S. to the trustees, & empowered the trustees to carry on the business under the name of the S. Co., to execute all contract & instruments necessary to carry it on, to divide the net income to be taken among the creditors in ratable proportions, such income to be deemed the property of S. & S., with power to the majority of the creditors, assembled at a meeting, to make rules for conducting the business, or to put an end to it altogether, & after the debts had been discharged, the property was to be retransferred by the trustees to S. & S. Two of the creditors, C. & W., were named among the trustees. C. never acted. W. acted for six weeks, & then resigned. Some time afterwards, the other trustees, who continued to carry on the business, became indebted to H., & gave him bills of exchange, accepted by themselves thus: "Per pro. the S. 9023. ——.]—A trader, carrying on business as M. & Co., ordered goods of pltf., & before their delivery executed an inspectorship deed, of which defts. were inspectors. Pltfs. afterwards wrote a note, addressed to debtor, informing him that the goods were ready for delivery, & defts. replied, requesting him to send the goods, & signing "for M. & Co." Pltf. sent the goods, & default being made in payment, sued defts. for the price. The inspectorship deed gave debtor licence to carry on his business for six months under the control of the inspectors, who had power to put an end to the deed. The inspectors were to receive all the proceeds, pay current expenses (including salaries, rent, & plant & materials for the purposes of the business), & out of the surplus pay dividends to the creditors. They took no share of the profits, & had no power to take the management of the business to the exclusion of debtor:—Held: defts. having expressly signed the order "for M. & Co.," they could only be liable as the real principals for the time being, & as the deed did not constitute them as the masters or real principals of debtor in carrying on the business, there was no evidence to go to the jury of their liability, & pltf. could only look for payment to the firm of "M. & Co.," & to the trust in the deed for the payment of current expenses.—REDPATH v. WIGG (1866), L. 9024. —— Debtor continuing to carry on business.]—By a deed of composition under 1861 Act, debtor assigned all his lands, goods, etc., to trustees, & covenanted that he would carry on or wind up his business under their superintendence & control, & that all money, etc., accruing in respect of the business should be deposited in a bank, & that he would act under the direction of the trustees in relation to the carrying on or winding up of the business. The trustees were empowered to employ any other person to effect the purposes of the deed, & to draw & accept bills, etc., for carrying on the business, & to make advances; & it was provided that all money received by the trustees should be applied in payment of the costs of the deed, next, in payment of debts incurred in carrying on the business & of their advances, & lastly, in payment to debtor of such sums as the trustees should think fit to allow him as a remuneration for his trouble, the surplus to be held in trust for debtor. Then came a proviso that the trustees were to be answerable each for his own acts or defaults only, & a declaration that if the instalments of the composition 9022 ii. —— —— Giving promissory notes when not authorised.]—An assignee of a partnership, conducting the business under a trust deed for the benefit of the creditors, gave promissory notes to pltfs. for goods supplied to him in connection therewith, & signed them in the firm name, followed by his own, with the word "assignee" added. The deed gave him no authority to make notes or accept bills on behalf of the firm, & pltfs. had previously refused to draw on the latter, requiring his own acceptance:—Held: he was personally liable on the notes.—BOYD v. MORTIMER (1899), 30 O. R. 290.—CAN.

9024 i. —— Debtor continuing to carry on business.]—Pltf.'s claim was for goods sold to P., who shortly before the sale had made a transfer of his stock-in-trade & other property to deft. in trust for certain creditors. Deft. had should be duly paid, all the real & personal estate, surplus money, etc., should be retransferred to debtor for his own absolute use & benefit, & a further proviso that, if any instalment should be unpaid, the trustees should hold & realise the estate upon trust to pay all expenses, etc., including the debts incurred in carrying on & winding up the business, & then pay the creditors rateably in full, & the deed concluded with a declaration that it was intended to operate as an inspectorship & composition deed under 1861 Act. After the execution of the deed, debtor continued to manage the business as before, paying all money received by him to a banking account kept by the trustees. The trustees met at the works weekly, inspected the books, & furnished debtor with money to meet all disbursements which would be required during the ensuing week for wages, materials, & petty-cash, but they gave him no authority to pledge their personal credit. In an action for goods supplied to the works upon orders given by debtor in his own name :—Held : the whole scope of the deed being, not to transfer the business to the trustees, but that it should remain the business of debtor, though carried on by him under the inspectorship & control of the trustees, the latter were not liable for goods supplied to debtor upon credit.—EASTERBROOK v. BARKER (1870), L. 9025. —— ——.]—By a deed entered into between G., a trader who had carried on business as G. & Co., & deft., therein described as trustee, G. for a nominal consideration assigned to deft. all his business, goodwill, stock-in-trade, & book debts, & deft. was to carry on & manage the business, &, after payment of the expenses thereby incurred & his own remuneration & paying for goods supplied by creditors, who were willing to supply goods for the business & to look for payment to the assets in the hands of the trustee, he was to pay & divide the residue ratably amongst the trade creditors whose names were scheduled to the deed, & then to pay the surplus, if any, to G. Six of the principal creditors of G. assented to the deed. No change was made in the name of the business, & it was carried on after the execution of the deed in the same way as before, & G. continued to manage it & to give the orders. Subsequently G. ordered goods from pltfs., who were not creditors of G. at the time the deed was executed. The goods were charged in pltfs.' books, & the accounts made out & delivered to G. & Co., & payments made by cheques signed by deft. in the name of G. & Co. In an action to recover the balance of the price of the goods, it was found as a fact that credit was given by pltfs. to G. & Co., & not to deft. :—Held : deft. was not personally liable as principal for the price of the goods.—NICHOLLS (G. 9027. —— After trustee discharged—Jurisdiction of court.]—Debtor filed a liquidation petition on Sept. 14, & on Oct. 3 a trustee was appointed. On Nov. 26 the creditors resolved that the trustee should sell debtor's estate for a sum sufficient to pay the creditors 4*s.* in the pound, that debtor's discharge should be granted on the filing of the trustee's certificate that the provisions of the scheme of settlement had been complied with, & that the close of the liquidation & the release of the trustee should take place on & from Jan. 28. On Jan. 4 the resolutions were approved by the ct. Debtor was tenant of some business premises & some chattels for a term which expired on Dec. 25. The trustee took possession of the premises & the chattels, & remained in possession of them until the expiration of the term, but he did not pay the landlord the quarter's rent which fell due on Dec. 25. On Feb. 26 the landlord applied to the Ct. of Bkpcy. for an order directing the trustee to pay him that quarter's rent. There was evidence that several applications had been made to the trustee for the rent in the course of Jan., & that he had said that he had left money with debtor to pay it :—Held : (1) either the landlord's remedy was a personal one against the trustee, in which case the Ct. of Bkpcy. had no jurisdiction in the matter, or, if there was a remedy in the Ct. of Bkpcy., the trustee had done nothing more than commit a default in the administration of the assets, from liability for which he was protected by the release, there being nothing to show that there had been any fraud in obtaining it ; (2) 1869 Act, s. 53, applied to a release given by the creditors to the trustee under a liquidation by arrangement.—Re WARE, Ex p. CARTER (1878), 8 Ch. H. made & executed a power of attorney to A., authorising him to collect money, prosecute suits, draw, make, & indorse cheques, bills, notes, etc., & generally to do & perform any acts or deeds in relation to the estate. Under the power A. went into possession & continued the business, & bought & sold goods. Certain goods were purchased from F., & were paid for by a note signed by A. as J. & Son & by H. per J. attorney :—Held : (1) A. did not carry on the business after the assignment at the instance of or as the agent of H., nor for the benefit of his estate ; (2) A. was not authorised to sign H.'s name to notes as he did ; (3) H. was not liable either as the person to whom credit was given or as an undisclosed principal ; (4) if H. was guilty of a breach of trust in allowing A. full control over the estate, that would not make him liable to F.—HECHLER v. FORSYTH (1894), 22 S. At a meeting of the creditors held on Jan. 6, 1882, a dividend of 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound was declared payable on the 20th, & at the same meeting a resolution was passed to release the trustee as from that day. The lessor on Mar. 4 sent in a second proof for £309 7*s.* 6*d.* in respect of unliquidated damages, & claimed to be paid the dividend thereon :—Held : in the absence of fraud the remedy of the lessor was by an action at law outside the bkpcy., inasmuch as if any default had been made by the trustee, his liability for such default had been discharged by the release, & no fraud was alleged against him.—Re GILL, Ex p. BARNARD (1882), 46 L. One of the parties liable on the note had, some time previous to the filing of the bill, executed a composition deed containing no cessio bonorum, & the trustee of the deed was made a deft. in the suit :—Held : as the composition deed contained no cessio bonorum, the trustee ought not to have been made a party to the suit, & that debtor himself should have been made a deft.—MOYE v. SPARROW (1870), 22 L. In Jan., 1848, A. filed a declaration of insolvency under 7 & 8 Vict. c. 96, upon which a fiat issued, but the fiat was not prosecuted by A. In Feb., on the application of B., a creditor of A., whose debt would have been sufficient for a petitioning creditor's debt, & was prior in date to the deed of Nov., the comr. made the adjudication in the bkpcy., & assignees were appointed :—Held : the money realised by the trustees under the trust deed ought to be administered in the bkpcy.—Re FERENS, Ex p. JACKSON (1848), De G. 609 ; 17 L. In these circumstances a payment made to the trustee under the deed is a payment made to a wrong person, & the trustee in bkpcy. is entitled to sue debtor to recover the debt. If the person so sued can show that the trustee in bkpcy. has been paid the debt sued for, either in whole or in part, by receipt from the trustee of the deed of the whole or a part of the money that has thus been paid to him, that will be, pro tanto, an answer to the claim. 9043. —— Of work & labour—Deed providing for costs of trust.]—Bkpts. had executed a deed of assignment to F. of the whole of their property for the benefit of creditors. The deed contained a provision for the payment, in the first instance, out of assets of the costs & expenses of F. The petition was founded on the deed as an act of bkpcy., & when the trustee in bkpcy. applied to F. for payment to him of assets in his hands, F. claimed to retain them against a larger sum due to him for expenses of work & labour done by him : —Held : the only right of F. was to prove for his claim, & he must pay to the trustee the assets in his hands.—Re RICHARDS, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1884), 32 W. R. 1001 ; 1 Morr. 242.

9044. —— Of collection of book debts—Of solicitor.]—In Aug., 1885, A. executed a deed of assignment, by which he vested his estate in B. as trustee for creditors, & part of the estate was realised. On Oct. 28, 1885, a petition was presented against A., the act of bkpcy. being the deed of assignment. On Oct. 20 B., the trustee under the deed, paid £20 7*s.* 8*d.* to his solrs., for costs incurred in connection with the deed & in the collection of book debts. On Jan. 20, 1886, a receiving order was made, & B. handed over to the official receiver what he had realised, less the sum paid in costs to his solrs. On a motion by the trustee in bkpcy. that B. might be ordered to pay over to him the £20 7*s.* 8*d.* paid to the solr. :—Held : B. was not entitled to retain the sum, but must hand it over to the trustee in bkpcy., after deducting the costs of collecting the book debts, which should, in the circumstances, be allowed.—Re FORSTER, Ex p. RAWLINGS (1887), 58 L. 9045. —— Sum paid to avoid distress—Approval of creditors—Costs of application by official receiver.]—In June, 1886, debtor executed an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, under which appct. was employed to prepare a statement of affairs, &, it appearing that the landlord was threatening a distress for rent, appct., upon the instructions of the creditors, paid the amount due. In July, 1886, a receiving order was made against debtor, & the official receiver declined to repay the money so advanced by appct. for the benefit of the creditors without an order of the ct. :—Held : (1) in the circumstances, & looking to the fact that a majority of the creditors in number & value were of opinion that the payment made by appct. was beneficial & should be refunded, repayment ought to be allowed ; (2) the official receiver was entitled to deduct his costs of the hearing from the amount.—Re AYSHFORD, Ex p. LOVERING (1887), 35 W. 9046. —— 1914 (Deeds) Act—What expenses allowed—Extent of lien.]—The expenses properly incurred by the trustee under a deed of arrangement in the performance of any of the duties imposed on him by the above Act, which, by s. 21, are to be allowed or paid to him by the trustee in bkpcy. in cases where the deed is avoided by the bkpcy. of debtor, are confined to expenses incurred in the performance of duties, which a trustee under a deed has for the first time to perform under the Act.

Sect. 9.—Position of trustee or inspectors: Sub-sect. 2. Sect. 10: Sub-sect. 1, A. (a).]

A trustee under a deed of arrangement has no lien on debtor's estate in respect of matters where he would not have had a lien before the Act.—Re GEEN, Ex p. PARKER, [1917] 1 K. B. 183; 86 L. J. K. B. 175; 115 L. T. 837; [1917] H. B. R. 20.

9047. Liability for rent—Lease disclaimed by trustee in bankruptcy.]—The lessee of premises, of which pltfs. were lessors, assigned the leases, together with other property, to deft. for the benefit of her creditors, by a deed, which was an act of bkpcy. After the assignment a quarter's rent accrued due under the leases, & the lessors obtained judgment against deft. for such rent. Before the bkpcy. of the lessee a second quarter's rent accrued due, in respect of which the lessors issued a writ against deft. Before the action came on trial the lessee was adjudicated bkpt., & the trustee in bkpcy. disclaimed the leases:—Held: deft. was liable for the rent, as the bkpcy. which followed on the act of bkpcy. had not the effect of releasing the liability for the rent as between the lessors & deft. existing at the time when the writ was issued.—STEIN v. POPE, [1902] 1 K. 9048. Liability for negligence—Allowing debtor to take possession—On hearing of presentation of petition.]—A trustee under a deed of arrangement took possession of debtor's stock & sold part of it for £70. Upon hearing that a petition had been presented, the trustee went out of possession, leaving the remainder of the stock in the hands of debtor, who made away with it before the receiving order was made against him:—Held: the trustee under the deed must account to the trustee in bkpcy. for the whole of the stock which he had taken possession of, & not merely for what he had sold during the time he was in possession.—Re COOK, Ex p. PARSONS (1909), 53 Sol. NOTE.—In considering the cases set out in this Section, regard must be had to the Notes at the beginning of the Part & of Sect. 2, ante.

SUB-SECT. 1.—ALL CREDITORS GENERALLY.

A. Failure of Debtor to perform.

(a) Necessity for Performance or Tender—Pleading and Proof.

9049. Deed must be strictly complied with—Relief against penalty.]—There are some exceptions to the rule that equity will relieve against penalties. One is, where a voluntary composition is to be paid at a time certain, & in a certain manner. In that case, it is the voluntary bounty of the creditor to remit part of the debt, & the terms must be strictly complied with.—ROSE v. ROSE (1756), Amb. 331; 27 E. R. 222, L. C.

Annotations:—Mentd. Reynolds v. Pitt (1812), 19 Ves. 134, L. C.; Thompson v. Hudson (1867), 2 Ch. App. 255, L. C. & L. J.

9050. —— Execution restrained in particular circumstances.]—Though an agreement for a composition, generally, is not binding on the creditor, unless absolutely & strictly fulfilled, a bond-creditor, having concurred in a general resolution for a composition, to be secured by notes, was in the circumstances, with reference to the interest of the other creditors, restrained from taking execution in an action upon the bond, on non-payment of the notes, beyond the terms of the composition.—MACKENZIE v. MACKENZIE (1809), 16 Ves. 372; 33 E. R. 1025, L. C.

9051. Necessity for tender—Debt disputed.]—A creditor attended the first meeting by proxy & tendered a proof for £15 12*s.* debt & £1 16*s.* 6*d.* costs. The debt was admitted, but the costs were objected to. No actual tender was ever made to the creditor, but a circular letter was sent to the unpaid creditors, giving notice that the composition was payable at the office of debtor's solr., but that if refused, it would be forwarded by post office order:—Held: in the circumstances tender was impracticable, unless debtor chose to tender more than he admitted to be due, as the amount of the debt was disputed, & the creditor ought to have used the remedies given him by 1869 Act & to have proceeded in the Ct. of Bkpcy. to recover the composition, & he had no right to sue at common law for his debt.—Ex p. HEMINGWAY (1872), 7 Ch. App. 724, n.

9052. —— —— Subsequent notice that debtor prepared to pay on sum claimed.]—Defts., as acceptors of a bill of exchange for £1,039, owed pltfs. a balance of £321. Defts. failed, & their creditors, amongst whom were pltfs., agreed to take a composition of 5*s.* in the pound on their debts, by notes at four & eight months. There was a dispute as to the balance due to pltfs., & they promised to adjust their account with one of defts., & said they would do as the other creditors did. Defts. insisted for some time that £250 9*s.* 7*d.* was the balance due, but defts.' attorney afterwards called on pltfs.' attorney & told him that defts. were ready to pay the composition on £321, the sum really due, but pltfs.' attorney refused, & said they must have the whole. No actual tender was made of the notes or of cash for the amount of the composition:—Held: a tender was not necessary in the circumstances, & pltfs. could only recover the amount of the composition on the balance.—REAY v. WHITE (1833), 1 Cr. & M. 748; 3 Tyr. 596; 2 L. J. Ex. 229; 149 E. R. 600.

9053. —— —— Tender must be unconditional.]—To be discharged from liability for debts included in his statement debtor must tender unconditionally to his creditors the composition payable on the admitted debt, giving the creditor the opportunity of accepting or rejecting it.—TEA CO. LTD. v. JONES (1880), 43 L. T. 255.

9054. —— Absence of creditor abroad.]—Where the contract, on which pltf. was suing, was made in Paris, & pltf. was residing in Paris at the time of the execution by deft. of a deed of composition under 1861 Act, & at the time of its registration:—Held: pltf.'s absence abroad afforded no excuse

b. How made—Payment in accordance with resolution essential.]—A resolution passed & signed by creditors at a meeting called to consider debtor's position, that debtor "be allowed a settlement at 6, 9, & 12 months, at the rate of 25 cents in the dollar in equal payments without interest" does not, in itself, operate as satisfaction of their claims. 9056. Within what time—Proof disputed—On day order settling proof signed.]—In Feb., 1871, H. effected a composition with his creditors. The proof of one of the creditors, K., was disputed, & was only settled by the Judge on July 29, 1873. The composition on the amount as settled was not then paid at once, but the solrs. of both parties waited till the order was drawn up & signed by the registrar. On Aug. 22, 1873, debtor asked to be allowed to pay the composition partly in cash & partly in bills at two & four months. The request was refused, & K. then said that the composition not having been paid he should commence an action for the whole debt. On Aug. 27 the registrar signed the order, & on the same day debtor tendered payment of the composition in cash. That was refused, & an action for the original debt commenced on Aug. 29 :—Held : it would be inequitable to allow K. to proceed with the action.—Re HARPER, Ex p. KING (1873), L. 9057. To whom made—Creditor or authorised agent—Not workman or servant.]—Tender of composition must be made to the creditor, or to some one having authority to represent him. Tender to a mere workman or servant will not suffice.—HOADLEY v. JENKINS (1867), 16 L. T. 389, N. P.

9058. For what debt—Debt entered as partly secured—Security valued at "nil."]—Where in composition proceedings, under 1869 Act. s. 126, a creditor is placed in debtor's statement of affairs as a partly-secured creditor in respect of a certain debt, & debtor in the statement values the security at "nil," debtor must pay or tender the amount of the composition on that debt.—HAWES v. BAUMAN (1885), 34 W. 9059. Pleading performance—Replication that instalments due to creditors other than plaintiff unpaid.]—To a declaration on a bill of exchange deft. pleaded a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, containing a release by the creditors respectively, with a proviso that in case default should be made in payment of the composition to the creditors respectively, the release should be thenceforth at an end. The plea did not aver payment or tender of the composition, but contained a general averment that all things necessary in that behalf having happened & been done, pltfs. became & were bound by the deed as if they had been parties thereto & had executed same. Pltfs. replied that default was made by deft. in payment of the composition to divers of the creditors other than pltf. :—Held : the replication was bad.—HART v. SMITH (1868), L. R. 4 Q. 9060. —— Waiver of creditor's rights—Plea omitting to state that debt sued for included in schedule.]—Assumpsit for work & labour, etc. Plea, that, after the accruing of the causes of action, by an indenture between deft., of the first part, S. & H. of the second part, & pltf. & others, creditors of deft., of the third part, S. & H. were appointed trustees for carrying the indenture into effect, for the benefit of such of deft.'s creditors as should execute it. The plea then stated an excuse for profert, & alleged that pltf., S. & H., & the other creditors of deft., did acquit, release, & discharge him from all debts, etc. The replication set out the indenture, not on oyer, but in haec verba. Pltf. contended the plea was bad, because, by incorporating the indenture in the replication with the plea, it did not appear by any averment in the plea that the debt was mentioned in the schedule, & because the release only applied to such debts : —Held : as the profert was excused & the replication stated the indenture as part of itself, the indenture was not to be taken to be part of the plea, & the plea was not bad for omitting to state that the debt sued for was mentioned in the schedule to the indenture.—HYDE v. WATTS (1843), 12 M. & W. 254 ; 1 Dow. & L. 479 ; 13 L. 9061. Pleading tender—Must show consideration for discharge.]—Deft. pleaded to an action of assumpsit, as to all except £20 9*s.*, non assumpsit, & as to that sum, that deft. being in embarrassed circumstances, pltf. & other creditors agreed to take 5*s.* in the pound, & that deft. was ready & willing to pay the amount of the composition, but pltf. refused to receive it, & discharged deft. from tendering or paying the composition :—Held : the plea was no answer as to the sum agreed to be taken for composition, as no consideration was stated for pltf.'s discharging deft. from the payment of it.—COOPER v. PHILLIPS (1834), 1 Cr. 9063. —— Must state date of payments or tender.]—To counts by drawer against acceptor of two bills of exchange for £30 & £41 16*s.*, deft. pleaded as to £13 3*s.* 2*d.*, parcel of the £30 in the first count, & also, as to the second count, that deft. was in embarrassed circumstances, & indebted to pltf. in respect of the causes of action in the introductory part of the plea mentioned in the sum of £54 19*s.* 2*d.*, & to B. in another sum of money, & was unable to pay pltf. & B. their debts in full, & thereupon deft. agreed with pltf. & B. to pay them respectively, & pltf. & B. then mutually agreed with each other & deft. to accept of him 10*s.* in the pound as a composition upon & in full satisfaction & discharge of their respective debts. The plea then averred readiness & willingness to pay, with a tender of the amount of the composition, & concluded with payment of it into ct. Pltf. replied, traversing the agreement to accept the composition of 10*s.* in the pound in satisfaction & discharge, upon which issue was joined. At the trial the agreement proved was to accept a composition of 10*s.* in the pound, payable in certain sums on certain days. It also appeared that default had been made in payment of the instalments. The plea having been amended :—Held : the plea, as amended, was bad, even after verdict, for not stating that the payments were made at the precise times agreed on, or at least a tender made of them. Semble : if the pleas had been that a new mutual agreement between pltf., deft., & other creditors, binding on each at the time when it was made, was given as a substitution for, or in satisfaction of the debt due from deft. to pltf., such plea would have been good, & in that case it would have been for the jury to decide whether pltf. agreed to accept the agreement itself, not the performance of it, as a satisfaction for his debt.—EVANS v. POWIS (1847), 1 Exch. 601 ; 11 Jur. 1043 ; 154 E. The deed was made in Paris, & F., a creditor, was residing in Paris when the fourteen days expired. F. sued M. on a bill accepted by him, to which M. pleaded the composition, & that he was ready & willing to perform it, but did not plead tender :—Held : the absence of the plea of tender was not cured by the plea of readiness to perform.—FESSARD v. MUGNIER (1865), 18 C. 9065. —— —— Plea that creditor refused & exonerated debtor from tender.]—To a declaration for goods sold & delivered, defts. pleaded a deed of composition under 1861 Act, by which defts. agreed to pay 10*s.* in the pound on all their debts, payable by instalments of 2*s.* 6*d.* at certain dates, & the creditors agreed to accept the composition in full satisfaction of their respective debts, & on payment of it to execute a release, & not to molest or sue defts. for any claim, unless default should be made by defts. in payment of the instalments ; & it was agreed that if any creditor should sue contrary to the clause, the deed might be pleaded in bar of the action. The plea then alleged that defts. were ready to pay the first instalment, but pltfs. refused to accept same, & exonerated defts. from paying or tendering it, & wholly refused to consent to or approve of, or become parties to, the deed :—Held : the plea was good without payment into ct.—BAMFORD v. CLEWES (1868), L. 9066. —— —— Amount in dispute.]—It is not enough for debtor to say to his creditor, "I am ready & willing to pay your composition upon the debt I admit, if you are content to receive it as a composition upon the amount due to you," or "when we agree upon the sum upon which the composition is to be calculated."—TEA CO., LTD. v. JONES (1880), 43 L. 9067. —— That all things necessary had been done.]—To a declaration on a bill of exchange deft. pleaded a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, containing a release by the creditors respectively, with a proviso that in case default should be made in payment of the composition to the creditors respectively, the release should be thenceforth at an end. The plea did not aver payment or tender of the composition, but contained a general averment that all things necessary in that behalf having happened & been done, pltfs. became & were bound by the deed as if they had been parties thereto & had executed same :—Held : the plea was good without alleging payment or tender.—HART v. SMITH (1868), L. In an action by a creditor, who did not attend or vote on the resolution :—Held : such resolution, although duly passed & registered, did not constitute any defence, there being no proof that deft. had paid or tendered the two instalments which had become due before action, or that he had delivered the promissory notes.—GOLDNEY v. LORDING (1873), L. 9070. Effect of tender & payment into court—Action barred.]—Action on a bill of exchange. Equitable plea setting forth a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, between debtor of the first part, two sureties of the second part, & the two sureties of & other executing creditors of the third part, which, after reciting (inter alia) that there had been delivered to the creditors of the third part named in the schedule promissory notes, in payment of a composition of 3*s.* in the pound, contained a covenant by debtor & his sureties with the parties of the third part, to pay the promissory notes as they should become due, & to deliver & pay to all the other creditors like promissory notes, & was executed by debtor & the sureties only. The release was followed by the following clause :—" Provided that if debtor & the surety shall not, within two calendar months from June 17, 1867, make & deliver the promissory notes unto the creditors, according to the true intent & meaning of these presents, then & in such case these presents shall thereupon become absolutely void, & of no effect, & the creditors respectively shall be restored to their original rights, as if these presents had not been made, provided the creditors shall personally or otherwise apply for their notes." Deft. did not deliver the notes, either on the day of the date of the deed, or within two months after June 17, 1867, but pltfs. never personally or otherwise applied for them :—Held : the release was not avoided either by the non-performance of the covenant to deliver the notes on the day of the date of the deed, being wholly independent of the performance thereof, or by non-delivery of the notes within the two months, as pltfs. had not applied for them.—SOLOMON v. LAVERICK (1868), 17 L. One of the creditors who had signed the deed brought an action against debtor for his debt, insisting that the deed was void, in consequence of the breach of covenant to insure for £1,500:—Held: as the creditor was aware of the amount of the insurance soon after it was effected, & his conduct showed acquiescence in such breach of covenant, he was not entitled to take advantage of it, & must be restrained by perpetual injunction from bringing any action against debtor.—WATTS v. HYDE (1848), 17 L. Replication, that pltf. ought to be admitted to implead deft., by reason of deft.'s failure in the due payment of the instalment of the composition on Apr. 6, 1869, whereby the release became null & void:—Held: the effect of the confession of the plea in the former action was to put an end to the litigation altogether as it stood at the time of the confession, & pltf. might have replied in the former action that the release, which was itself after the action, though operative when pleaded, became avoided by non-payment of the composition, &, having omitted to avail himself of the opportunity of doing so, pltf. was estopped from relying upon it in a second action.—NEWINGTON v. LEVY (1870), L. 9082. —— —— —— As regards default in payment of subsequent instalment.]—To a declaration on a bill of exchange by pltf., as indorsee, deft., the acceptor, pleaded by way of estoppel, setting out the proceedings in a former action by pltf. upon the same bill of exchange, in which former action deft. had pleaded to the further maintenance a composition deed executed after action, by which deft.'s creditors, including pltf., agreed to release him from their debts in consideration of his agreement to pay a composition by two instalments, with a proviso that, on default in payment of the composition, the release was to become null & void. The plea then set forth that pltf. had replied to such plea in the first action the non-payment of the first instalment under the deed, & that deft. had rejoined, on equitable grounds, a mistake in non-payment on the proper day & a subsequent tender, that, thereupon, pltf. struck out the replication, confessed the plea, & taxed his costs, which were paid, & that such determination of the first action estopped pltf. from bringing the second action. Replication that after the proceedings in the first action, & before the second action, a second instalment under the deed became payable, that deft. had made default in payment of it, & that

Joint & several promissory notes of deft. & S. for the composition, payable at a bank, were given to pltfs. & the other creditors, & receipts signed by them, expressing it to be "in discharge of their debts." The first note was presented at the bank at maturity, & dishonoured, but no demand was made upon S. or the trustee :—Held : pltfs. were remitted to their right to sue for their original debt, the mere giving of the notes, without payment, not being satisfaction within the terms of the resolution or the receipt.—EDWARDS v. HANCHER (1875), 1 C. 9087. —— —— Release expressly conditional on punctual payment.]—By a composition deed under 1861 Act, executed in Mar. 1867, deft., after assigning all his effects for the benefit of his creditors, contracted to pay them a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on their debts in three instalments of 2*s.* 6*d.* each, the first & second instalments to be secured by his own promissory notes at three & six months respectively, & the third instalment by the joint & several promissory note of himself & a surety. The deed contained a conditional release by the creditors of deft. from his debts, & a covenant by the creditors not to sue, & also a proviso that if the notes of either of them were not paid, when due, the conditional release & covenant should be absolutely void. The notes became due respectively on June 4, Sept. 4, & Dec. 4, 1867. After the second note had become due, on Sept. 17, pltfs., who were creditors of deft., & who had not executed the deed, assented to the deed, & took from deft. three promissory notes, under its provisions, for the amount of the composition on their debt. 9089. —— —— After deducting payments received from debtor or surety.]—Where creditors agree to accept a composition payable in instalments, some of which are guaranteed by a surety, if default is made in the payment of any one instalment, the creditors have a right to sue debtor, or to prove in his bkpcy., for the balance of their original debts, after deducting what they have received, either from debtor or the surety, in respect of the composition, & not merely for the amount of the unpaid instalments of the composition; & the surety has no right to put the creditors to an election whether they will carry out the composition arrangement in toto or reject it in toto.

A composition agreement is made between debtor & each of his creditors that if debtor will, at three specified times, pay three specified sums of money to each of his creditors, & the other creditors will agree to accept those payments, the original debt shall, if the conditions be fulfilled, be released. If there is nothing more than this, the agreement does not amount to an accord & satisfaction by the creditor, &, if debtor fails to pay any instalment of the composition, the right of the creditor revives to sue for his original debt, less what he has received in respect of it (BRETT, L. 9090. —— Failure to pay amount of award—Right to sue thereon.]—The creditors of debtors, who had filed a liquidation petition, resolved to accept a composition, & appointed a trustee to receive & distribute it. In debtors' statement it was mentioned that two persons claimed to be creditors for a large sum, but that their claim was the subject of an action, which had been referred to an arbitrator, the reference being still pending. The two persons attended the meetings of the creditors, of which notice had been sent to them, & tendered a proof, but their proof was objected to, & they were not allowed to vote. Several months afterwards the arbitrator made his award, finding a large sum due to them. The composition not having been paid, they commenced an action against debtors for the amount of the award:—Held: the action ought not to be restrained.—Re WATSON, Ex p. WATSON (1876), 2 Ch. 9091. —— Revival of original debt.]—Upon a composition, the original debt revives upon failure of debtor in performing his undertaking.—Re KIDDER, Ex p. CROSBIE (1835), 2 Mont. & A. 393; 5 L. J. Bcy. 7, Ct. of R.

9092. —— Right to levy execution.]—A deed of composition under 1861 Act, s. 192, had been executed by deft., by which the creditors covenanted to accept a composition payable by instalments therein mentioned, & that, unless & until the instalments of the composition, or some or one of them, should become payable, & should not be paid within three days after demand, they would not arrest nor proceed against deft. It was further provided that the deed should have no effect & be void ab initio, in case the instalments should not be duly paid. A month after the first instalment became payable, pltf. being a non-assenting creditor, & having received no payment, without notice to deft. caused an execution to be levied upon deft.'s goods for the amount of a judgment obtained by him:—Held: the deed being by force of the last proviso absolutely void, the certificate of registration was no bar to pltf.'s execution.—BAKER v. PAINTER (1867), L. R. 2 C. P. 492; 17 L. T. 53.

9093. —— Revival of original remedies—Right to commit debtor.]—A judgment having been recovered against deft. for a sum of money & remaining unsatisfied, pltf. applied to a judge at chambers to commit deft. to prison under Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 71), s. 5. The judge made an order for the payment of the debt by monthly instalments. After three of such instalments had been paid, proceedings were taken by deft. for the purpose of making a composition with his creditors under 1869 Act, s. 126, & a resolution of the creditors was duly passed accepting a composition upon deft.'s debts, payable by two instalments. Default was made in the payment of the first instalment of the composition to pltf., & instalments under the judge's order having by that time become due & not having been paid, pltf. applied again at chambers for the committal of deft. to prison for non-compliance with the judge's order:—Held: the effect of the default in payment of the composition was to remit pltf. to the position he occupied before the proceedings in respect of the composition took place, & the order might be made for deft.'s committal to prison for non-compliance with the judge's order.—NEWELL v. VAN PRAAGH (1874), L. 9094. —— Right to attach funds in hands of trustee—Whether trust created.]—L., being pressed by his creditors, suggested an arrangement by which he should set aside his official salary of £1,500 per annum, together with a further sum of £100 per annum, which sum should be paid quarterly by him to defts., one of whom, S., was to act as trustee for the creditors. The terms were embodied in a deed, a lithographed copy of which was sent by S. to the creditors & was assented to by them. The deed was executed by L., but he declined to allow it to be registered, as he would thereby probably lose his official appointment. The proposal came to an end, but L. intimated to S. that he would carry out his part of the arrangement just the same, & pay the quarterly instalments as if the deed were binding. S. again communicated with the creditors, & advised them to accept the offer, as the only alternative was making L. bkpt., which would result in his losing his appointment. The first instalment of £400 was paid to S., the second one promised, but no other payment was afterwards made:—Held: the £400 in S.'s hands was not a debt due by defts. to L., as a trust had been created, & could not be attached by a judgment creditor.—RUNTZ v. LONGBOURNE (1892), 8 T. L. R. 568.

9095. —— Right to serve bankruptcy notice & present petition on debt—Provision in deed for notice by trustees that deed void—No notice given.]—A deed of arrangement, by which debtor agreed to pay his creditors their debts in full by certain quarterly instalments, contained a clause that if default were made for the space of twenty-one days in paying any one instalment, then, & in such case, it should be lawful for the trustee under the deed by notice in writing to declare such deed void, & in such event the creditors should be entitled to enforce their claims as if the deed had never been made or executed :—Held : the trustee not having given such notice, a creditor under the deed was not entitled to serve a bkpcy. notice & present a petition on account of the debt due to him.—Re CLEMENT, Ex p. GOAS (1886), 3 Morr. 153, C. A.

9096. —— On debtor's right to discharge.]—By composition resolutions it was agreed to accept 2*s.* in the pound, payable within three months, & secured to the satisfaction of the trustee, debtor to be allowed his discharge on the trustee certifying that he was satisfied with the security, & the liquidation to be closed on payment of the composition. The trustee certified that he was satisfied with the sureties, but debtor did not apply for his discharge. The first instalment was paid with the aid of the sureties, & the last, three months after the time fixed by the resolutions, out of after-acquired property. Debtor subsequently applied for, but had been refused his discharge, & the liquidation had not been closed :—Held : the bargain between debtor & his creditors contained in the resolutions must be carried out in its entirety, & debtor, having failed to pay the composition, was not entitled to his discharge, & the after-acquired property vested in the trustee.—Re HINTZ, Ex p. HINTZ (1883), 53 L. 9097. Effect of failure to tender—Right to sue for original debt.]—Pltf., the drawer of a bill of exchange accepted by deft., agreed with him & the rest of his creditors to take a composition of 8*s.* in the pound to be secured by promissory notes to be given by deft. payable on days certain, & that deft. should assign to the creditors certain debts, upon which they should execute a general release the assignment was executed, & all the creditors except pltf. received their composition & executed the release. Pltf. might have received his promissory notes if he had applied for them, but it did not appear that deft. had ever tendered them to pltf., or that he had ever applied for them. Pltf. afterwards, & after the days of payment of the promissory notes had expired, sued deft. on the bill of exchange :—Held : he was not precluded by the agreement from recovering.—CRANLEY v. HILLARY (1813), 2 M. & S. 120 ; 105 E. 9098. —— ——.]—At a meeting of creditors in a liquidation under 1869 Act, ss. 125, 126, a statement of assets & debts was produced by debtor, deft., in which pltfs. were inserted as creditors for £150, & it was resolved that a stated composition payable in four instalments, at stated intervals from date of registration of the resolutions, should be accepted & be secured by the joint & several promissory notes of deft. & a named surety, & that R. be appointed a trustee to receive & distribute the composition notes, & such resolutions were duly registered. Pltfs. did not attend the meeting, but had notice of the resolutions, nor did they assent to the amount alleged in deft.'s statement to be due to them, but claimed & sent in a proof for a larger sum. After registration of the resolutions deft. delivered to the trustee the joint & several promissory notes of himself & the surety for the composition instalments, payable at the stated periods, filled up with the correct amounts in all cases where the creditors were satisfied with deft.'s statement of such amounts, which notes were distributed to such creditors & were duly honoured. Pltfs., however, claiming a larger sum than the debt admitted to be due, the notes intended for them were delivered in blank to the trustee, who had authority from deft. & the surety to fill them up with the correct amount of the composition instalments when the amount of the debt was settled, & to hand them so filled up to pltfs. After receiving the notes the trustee by letter requested from pltfs. particulars of their claim, in order to complete the composition notes, in reply to which pltfs. referred him to their solrs. for information, to whom, however, no application was ever made, nor were any other steps taken to adjust the debt, nor were the notes ever filled up or tendered to pltfs., nor was any tender or offer to pay the composition upon the admitted debt of £150 ever made. In an action by pltfs. for the amount claimed by them to be due from deft., the trial judge found as facts, (1) the instalments of the composition were due to those bound by it before action brought ; (2) the trustee was willing to fill up & deliver the notes to pltfs. for the composition on £150, but not on any larger amount unless agreed on, which it never was ; (3) pltfs. did nothing to prevent deft. or the trustee from filling up & tendering to pltfs. the notes as a composition upon £150, & never waived the performance of anything it was incumbent upon deft. or the trustee to do, unless the facts before-mentioned amounted in law to such waiver, which they did not :—Held : owing to deft.'s omission to tender to pltfs., or to deliver to the trustee, the composition to which he admitted pltfs. were entitled, pltfs. were in a position to maintain the action for the full amount of their admitted original debt.—TEA CO., LTD. v. JONES (1880), 43 L. T. 255.

9099. —— —— Creditor not restricted to summary remedy.]—It is competent to a non-assenting creditor, notwithstanding a resolution for a composition under 1869 Act, s. 126, duly registered under s. 127, to sue for his original debt, where debtor has failed to pay or tender the composition within the time agreed on, or within a reasonable time. The creditor is not restricted to the summary remedy, by application to the Ct. of Bkpcy., provided by that sect. Qu.: as to the power of the Ct. of Bkpcy., under s. 13 or under r. 260, to restrain such an action.—EDWARDS v. COOMBE

9101. —— —— ——.]—Debtor filed a liquidation petition, & in his statement of affairs entered the name of a creditor, who had brought an action against him in which a reference was pending, & the amount of his claim. The creditor tendered a proof for part of such amount, but the proof was objected to, & he was not allowed to vote at either of the meetings of creditors. The rest of the creditors duly resolved to accept a composition of 5*s.* in the pound. Pltf. in the action received notice to appear before the registrar & prove his debt, but he did not do so, & the registrar ordered the objections to the proof to stand over till the arbitrator had made his award. The arbitrator awarded a portion of the amount claimed, & no tender of the composition having been made to him, pltf. commenced an action against debtor on the award. The costs were not taxed at the time appointed for payment of the composition, & debtor did not tender the composition to the creditor. The creditor then signed judgment, & had the costs taxed, & levied execution against the goods of debtor, for the whole amount. 9103. Right to claim dividend—& prove for residue—No fund separated before bankruptcy.]—A creditor, who has not received dividends under a composition, if a bkpcy. takes place, & there is no fund separated for his use, cannot have those dividends out of the bkpt. estate, & prove the residue of his debt, but must come in as the other creditors at the date of the bkpcy.—Ex p. D'OLIVIERA, Ex p. VON HALLE (1803), 8 Ves. 84; 32 E. 9104. —— Promissory notes for same tendered & refused.]—W. entered into a composition deed, by which it was agreed that the creditors should accept a composition of 10*s.* in the pound, secured by the joint & several promissory notes of deft. & W., the notes to be delivered seven days after registration of the deed, the whole of W.'s estate to belong to deft., & to be realised for his benefit. Pltf. agreed to assent to the deed & afterwards refused to be bound by it, on the ground that his assent had been obtained by fraud. The deed was duly registered according to 1861 Act, & the promissory notes were tendered to pltf., but he refused to accept them. Pltf. then brought an action for his debt against W., who pleaded the composition deed, which was a valid deed on the face of it, & pltf. replied that the assents were obtained by fraud. The action was referred, & deft. being unable to prove the sufficiency of the assenting creditors, so as to satisfy the Act, consented that an award should be made by which the verdict should be entered in pltf.'s favour. W. was afterwards adjudged bkpt. Deft. had realised W.'s estate. Pltf. then brought an action against deft. for the promissory notes given by deft. for the composition due to pltf. under the deed:—Held: the action was not maintainable, & pltf.'s proper remedy was by application to the Ct. of Bkpcy., which had power to do complete justice between the parties.—LATTER v. WHITE (1872), L. 9107. —— After deducting instalment of composition received.]—A., by a deed of composition of Jan. 1, 1812, between him & his creditors, agreed to pay them 10*s.* in the pound on their respective debts by instalments, to be secured by promissory notes. The creditors covenanted that "when & as soon as such promissory notes should be paid & discharged" they would acquit & release A. The deed contained a proviso that in case of default in such payment, or if any commission of bkpcy. should issue against A. before the whole of the composition should be paid, then the covenants on the part of the creditors, whose debts should be unsatisfied, should be null & void. The first instalment was paid. The second was not. A commission issued against A. on Jan. 31, 1812, at the instance of a person who had become a creditor since the deed. The deed did not assign A.'s effects:—Held: the creditors were entitled to retain the first payment, & to prove under the commission for the residue of the original debt.—Re PALMER, Ex p. VERE (1812), 1 Rose, 281, L. The deed was executed only by the major part of the creditors. After the payment of the first instalment, on Oct. 31, 1831, a commission issued on an act of bkpcy. committed in June, 1831:—Held: the creditors, who had received the first instalment, were entitled to prove for the residue of their debts without refunding the amount of the instalment.—Re WOOD, Ex p. WOOD (1832), 2 Deac. & Ch. 508, Ct. of R.

Default was made in payment of the instalments of the composition, & B. became bkpt.:—Held: A. might prove for the amount of his original debt, but he could not also retain the benefit of the assignment of the debts, & the value of the latter must be ascertained, & liberty should be given for A. to prove for the difference, if he elected to retain them.—Re CHITTY, Ex p. ELLIS (1835), 4 Deac. & Ch. 736; 2 Mont. & A. 370; 4 L. 9111. —— Though part of balance tendered—Creditor refusing to give receipt in terms asked.]—Debtor, in 1831, agreed with his creditor to pay him a composition of 5*s.* in the pound upon the amount of his debt, by instalments. The first instalment was paid, when the creditor agreed to give debtor a release in full, on his paying the balance of the composition. Debtor made default in payment of the balance, but in Feb., 1839, being pressed for the payment "of the demand" of the creditor, he made a payment of £100 in part of the balance of the composition, & required a receipt, as "for a composition of 5*s.* in the pound, upon the balance of account owing by him." The creditor acknowledged the payment of the £100, but declined signing a receipt in such form. In Sept., 1839, debtor became bkpt.:—Held: the agreement for the composition did not preclude the creditor from proving for the balance of the original debt, & it was not barred by Stat. 9112. —— Creditor surety for composition—Conduct inducing other creditors to compound—Deduction of security.]—Although a creditor is not paid the amount of a composition entered into with his compounding debtor, he will not be remitted to his original debt, in case of the bkpcy. of his debtor, if he himself was security for payment of the composition to the other creditors, & if by his conduct in the transaction it may be fairly inferred that he induced the other creditors to enter into the composition; in such case his proof will be confined to the balance of the original debt, after deducting the amount of the composition. If he holds a security, he will be allowed to place a value on it, & deduct it from the sum for which he is entitled to prove; & if he hold back any part of his debt at the time of the composition, which he is subsequently paid, it will be deducted from his proof.—Re KEARNEY, Ex p. KEARNEY (1851), 17 L. Debtor was adjudicated bkpt. upon the petition of a non-executing creditor, the act of bkpcy. proceeded upon being the execution of the deed:—Held: the deed sufficiently showed that the release was not intended to bind the executing creditors in the event of bkpcy., & they were entitled to prove.—Re STEPHENSON, Ex p. OFFICIAL RECEIVER (1888), 20 Q. 9116. —— Requisite majority obtained by secret payments to some creditors—Payments made by third party—Unknown to debtor.]—A statutory majority of the creditors, obtained by including creditors who, unknown to debtor, have received from a third person additional payments on account of their debts in order to induce them to assent, is not such a majority as will bind a dissentient minority under 1861 Act, s. 192, & the execution of a deed of arrangement, in such circumstances, raises no defence to an action for his debt brought by a dissentient creditor.—HEMMING v. PUGH (1863), 1 New Rep. 239.

9117. —— Payment made before registration.]—At a meeting of A.'s creditors, a composition of 5*s.* in the pound was offered & refused, & A. subsequently executed a deed of assignment to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors. The estate, as appeared by the account of the trustee, showed 2*s.* 2*d.* only in the pound, but, previously to the registration of the deed four creditors actually received 5*s.* in the pound from or through the clerk to the attorneys acting for both A. & the trustee. Upon application being made by a dissenting creditor for leave to render process available, notwithstanding the registration, it was contended that the payment of 5*s.* in the pound to certain of the creditors was an unfair inducement to execute the deed, rendering same void as against creditors :—Held : it was the duty of the ct. to insist upon the most perfect good faith being kept, & that no undue advantage was offered to any creditor to assent, & the application must be granted.—Re ELLIS, Ex p. NELSON (1865), 13 W. 9118. —— Executing deed.]—Declaration on the money counts. Pleas, that by a deed of arrangement made between deft. of the first part, certain trustees of the second part, & the creditors of defts. named in a schedule to the deed of the third part, deft. assigned all his estate to the trustees in trust for distribution equally among all his creditors, & that by the deed the parties of the first & second parts did, if & when the deed should have been executed by four-fifths in number & value of the creditors, release deft. from all demands, etc., that the deed was executed by such majority & amongst others by D., one of pltfs., & that deft. was released from all causes of action. The replication, on equitable grounds, averred that deft. agreed with certain of his creditors, being other than pltfs. to pay or secure to such creditors, in consideration of their executing the deed, certain pecuniary & valuable benefits & preference over the others, & thereby induced such preferred creditors to execute the deed, & that such agreement was made, & such execution by the preferred creditors procured, without the knowledge or consent of pltfs. or of the creditors of deft. other than the preferred creditors, & that deft. procured the deed to be executed by such majority by the fraudulent agreement :—Held : the deed was void against pltfs. on the ground that, in order to make such a deed binding upon the creditors, there must be perfect good faith between all the creditors, & debtor, & no creditor be induced to sign the deed in consequence of receiving some benefit beyond the rest of the creditors.—DAUGLISH v. TENNENT (1866), L. 9119. —— ——.]—The essence of a composition arrangement between debtor & his creditors is equality between the creditors, & a creditor who has executed a composition deed is entitled to repudiate it, if he afterwards discovers that other creditors have been induced to execute the deed by means of a secret bargain for a payment to them in excess of the composition, even if the bargain was made after his own execution of the deed. This principle applies, even if the additional payment is to be made at the expense of a third party, provided that the bargain is made with debtor's knowledge, & it applies whether the composition arrangement is made under the provisions of an Act or not.—Re MILNER, Ex p. MILNER (1885), 15 Q. The agreement contained a provision that it was signed by the creditors on the understanding that no concealment of fraud had been practised by debtor, the whole of the creditors receiving not exceeding the amount of the composition on discharge of their debts :—Held : the payment to P. being made under pressure, & not in pursuance of a prior agreement to give him a preference, did not render the transaction void.—CAREY v. BARRETT (1879), 4 C. 9122. —— Deed signed without prejudice to securities held.]—D., a partner in a mercantile firm, having applied to O., who was already a creditor, for further advances of money for the use of the firm, which O. had refused to make without security, mtges. were executed to him of two of the concerns of the firm to secure £15,000, & of an estate, the several property of D., for £10,000. The estate was already under mtge., but the equity of redemption was conveyed by D. to O. to secure the advances & liabilities of O. on account of the firm to the amount of £10,000. After the execution of the deeds, O. made advances on account of the firm to the extent of £20,000. The deeds were executed in 1814. After that time various accounts were settled between O. & the firm, in which a balance was found due from them to O. amounting to £7,830 beyond the £25,000 secured by the three mtges. In 1816 the firm became insolvent, & in 1817 a docket was struck against them, but the creditors being desirous of preventing a bkpcy., entered into an agreement for a composition, which was carried into execution by a deed dated in Sept., 1817, by which the creditors bound themselves to accept 7*s.* in the pound upon their respective debts, for which J., one of the partners, alone became liable, D. retiring from the firm, & being released from the debts of the firm. On Nov. 6, 1817, the equities of redemption of the premises belonging to the firm, which O. held under two deeds of mtge., were conveyed to him in discharge of the sums of £10,000 & £5,000 respectively, the sums secured upon them. On the same day another deed was executed between D. & O., by which O. upon certain conditions, bound himself to take £8,000 instead of £10,000, the sum secured upon the estate of D., & to permit him to redeem on payment of that sum. The deed of composition was signed by O., the first of the creditors, & to his signature he added the words "without prejudice to the securities which I hold." The other creditors parties to the deed wrote their signatures under that of O. Upon a bill filed by O. to raise the debt of £8,000 by sale of the mortgaged premises, & a cross bill by D. stating that the partnership premises were given up to O. at a rate far below their value, insisting that the composition was taken by O. for his whole debt, that an account ought to be taken of the value of all the partnership property originally held by O. in security for his debt, & that his separate estate should not be applied to the payment of the debt of the firm until after the partnership securities & funds had been exhausted:—Held: the signature of the composition deed by O. was not, in the circumstances, a waiver of the security, & the equity of D., if any, to an account & application of the partnership securities was lost by acquiescence, & precluded by want of interest.—DUFFY v. ORR (1831), 5 Bli. D. being applied to by C. to execute the deed, refused to do so unless his mtge. security upon the £10,000 was preserved, & C.'s solrs., one of whom, T., was a trustee under the trust deed, prepared a memorandum, which was indorsed on the deed, & declared that D., by executing the deed, should not affect his mtge. security upon the £10,000. 9125. —— —— Deducted in error in proving on joint estate.]—B. & Co. were creditors of a partnership for £2,400, for which they held a security comprising joint property of the firm & also separate property of one of the partners. The firm being in difficulties, the joint creditors agreed to accept a composition, & B. & Co. valued their security at £800, & proved & received the composition upon the balance. Subsequently they received from their security more than £800 & interest from the date of valuation. Four years after the close of the composition debtors brought an action to redeem their security. B. & Co. claimed to retain the security on the separate property until they had received payment in full of their claim, on the ground that they need not have deducted the separate property:—Held: B. & Co. could not retain the separate security, on the ground that although B. & Co. need not have deducted the value of the separate security, yet, as the composition had been fixed, & the whole proceeding in the composition had been taken & completed upon the footing of the valuation of the compound security at £800, it was too late to upset the transaction.—COULDERY v. BARTRUM (1881), 19 Ch. Pltf. indorsed away such bills for value. During the currency thereof defts. filed a petition for liquidation under 1869 Act, & their creditors duly resolved to accept a composition. The holders of the bills, by arrangement between themselves & pltf., claimed & were paid the composition on the total amounts of the bills, pltf. paying them the balance thereof. Pltf. did not send in any proof or claim any dividend, but he realised his security by sale of the goods deposited & claimed to hold the proceeds against the balance so paid by him upon the bills:—Held: pltf. had no right to do so, as by such arrangement the holders of the bills had in effect received the composition for the benefit of pltf., so that, according to the bkpcy. law, he was bound to account to defts. for the amount by which the composition paid on the bills exceeded that which would have been paid if the value of the security had been previously deducted.—BAINES v. WRIGHT (1885), 16 Q. The composition was paid to all creditors who held no security, & the bkpcy. was annulled. A secured creditor, whose securities had on realisation proved deficient, & who had not proved against the estate, sued debtor for the balance of the original debt due to him :—Held : (1) the words " unsecured creditors " in the resolution were either surplusage or included a person having a claim for an unsecured balance ; (2) a creditor holding a security was within the composition as being an unsecured creditor in respect of his unsecured balance ; (3) such creditor could not sue for the balance due.—LEVIN v. DEATH (1889), 8 N. 9138. Who may take benefit—Only creditors to whom trustees should give debentures—After investigation of claims.]—A. being greatly in debt, he & his father, in pursuance of an arrangement between themselves, conveyed estates of which they were seised for life & in remainder respectively to trustees in trust to sell for payment of A.'s debts, but no creditor was to be entitled to the benefit of the trust unless the trustees, after having investigated & allowed his debt, should give him a debenture for it. The trustees gave debentures to three of the creditors, after which one of the trustees instituted a suit against his co-trustees, etc., & on the hearing the master was directed to take an account of all A.'s debts due at the date of the conveyance & to advertise for his creditors to prove their debts by a day to be named or be excluded from the benefit of the decree. Pltf. & several other creditors of A. having proved their debts under the decree:—Held: none of them except pltf. & the debenture creditors were entitled to the benefit of the trust.—DREVER v. MAWDESLEY (1849), 16 Sim. 511; 18 L. J. Ch. 273; 13 Jur. 330; 60 E. R. 973.

9139. —— Creditor refusing to verify claim—Unfounded allegation of settled account—Previous dividends not disturbed.]—A creditors' deed was executed in 1849. Pltf., a creditor who had executed the deed, insisted on an alleged settled account, & refused to verify his claim, as required by the deed. A dividend was paid the other creditors in 1854, & in 1856 pltf. instituted a suit for the performance of the trusts of the creditors' deed. There being no valid settled account:—Held: pltf. was entitled to the benefit of the deed, but only on the terms of not disturbing any dividend already made.—FIELD v. COOK (1857), 23 Beav. 600; 53 E. 9140. —— Only creditors having provable debts at execution of deed.]—Throughout 1861 Act, the word "creditor" is used in the sense of a person having a claim which can be proved under the bkpcy., whether upon a debt or not, & in s. 192, the word "creditors" means all persons who at the time of the execution of the deed had claims which would have been provable against the estate, if debtor had then become bkpt.—WOOD v. DE MATTOS (1865), L. 9141. —— —— Party having claim for unliquidated damages.]—A person who has a claim against debtor for unliquidated damages is not a creditor within 1861 Act, ss. 192, 197.

Where a trust deed under s. 192 does not in terms extend to creditors in respect of unliquidated damages, they cannot come in under the deed by virtue of s. 153. 9142. —— Party having contingent claim.]—Debtor executed an inspectorship deed which provided that, in the case of debts due from him on negotiable instruments, either the original holder, or the present or ultimate holder, or any intermediate indorsers, might execute or assent to the deed, but that the ultimate holder should be deemed the creditor & party to the deed. Debtor was liable on acceptances on bills drawn by S., who was returned as an assenting creditor in respect of them, but, in fact, S. was, at the time of the registration, the holder of only a small part of those bills, the rest being in the hands of his bankers, who had discounted them. After the registration all the bills came into the hands of S.:—Held: the bankers were the proper parties to have been returned as creditors in respect of the bills in their hands, & S. had no right to assent in respect of his contingent liability as drawer.—Re PETRIE, Ex p. PETRIE (1868), 3 Ch. 9143. —— —— Creditor whose debt was provable under previous composition—Promissory note taken after first composition for old debt.]—A receiving order was made against debtor, & the creditors, who had proved their debts under it, were paid a composition under 1890 Act, s. 3, & the order was rescinded. Applts. were creditors who did not prove their debts & received no composition, & after the rescission debtor gave them a promissory note for the amount of their debt. Subsequently debtor, being again in difficulties, executed a deed for the benefit of his creditors, the other parties to the deed including applts. as creditors. The deed recited that he had requested the creditors to give him time for payment & that they had agreed to do so, & in consideration thereof debtor assigned to a trustee certain property upon trust to realise it & pay the creditors, including applts. Ultimately the trustee had certain money in his hands for distribution, & he applied for a declaration that applts. were not entitled to the benefit of the deed:—Held: as applts.' debt was a provable debt under the composition & had been discharged & no new consideration had been given for it, & there was no estoppel, applts. were not creditors at all, & were not entitled to the benefit of the deed.—Re PILET, Ex p. TOURSIER & Co. & BERKELEY, [1915] 3 K. B. 519 ; 84 L. J. K. B. 2133 ; 113 L. T. 926 ; 31 T. L. R. 558, D. C.

9144. —— Creditors who had voted against arrangement & defeated same—Subsequent desire to withdraw vote & assent so as to give requisite majority.]—At a meeting of creditors, whose proofs amounted to £50,075 3*s.* 1*d.* fifty-two creditors out of fifty-nine voted for a resolution for liquidation by arrangement, but their proofs fell short of three-fourths of the £50,075 3*s.* 1*d.*, by £4882, & the resolution was lost. Among those who had voted for bkpcy., as opposed to liquidation by arrangement, were two creditors whose debts amounted to £8,388. Both had voted by proxy, & were desirous of withdrawing their vote, & voting for liquidation by arrangement, in which case the requisite three-fourths in value would be attained :—Held : in the peculiar circumstances of the case, they might be deemed assenting creditors to the liquidation by arrangement.

Every case of the kind must be dealt with according to its own circumstances.—Re WEHNER (1871), 20 W. R. 199.

9145. —— Creditor not scheduled to deed—Bringing action against debtor.]—A creditor, whose name & the amount of whose debt are not entered in the statement of a compounding debtor, & who is not bound by the composition, may nevertheless take advantage of the composition & prove his debt, & claim a share in the fund in hands of the trustees.

A resolution having been passed at a meeting of creditors to accept a composition from debtor, debtor paid a sum of money to the trustee which was more than sufficient to pay the composition of all the creditors whose names & debts were entered in his statement. Other creditors, who were not bound by the composition, had previously filed a bill in Ch. against debtor & certain persons, charging them with a breach of trust. They did not come in & prove such debt in the composition, but simply gave notice to the trustee of their claim. After all the creditors who were bound by the composition had been paid, debtor applied to the ct. to order the trustee to pay back the surplus of the fund to him :—Held : pltfs. in the Ch. suit had a right to take advantage of the composition, although they were not bound by it, & the ct. would not make an order as to the disposal of the surplus until a decree had been made in the Ch. suit.—Re CAREW, Ex p. CAREW (1875), 10 Ch. 9146. —— —— After attempt to defeat deed.]—Certain creditors had contested a trust deed, under which property was assigned for the benefit of creditors :—Held : if they had not contested the deed, they might have been permitted to come in, notwithstanding lapse of time, & notwithstanding that some of them were not scheduled to the deed, but they could not be permitted to come in after having endeavoured to defeat the deed by setting up a prior claim which was rejected.—Re MEREDITH, MEREDITH v. FACEY (1885), 29 Ch. 9148. —— Creditor bringing action against debtor—In breach of covenant not to sue debtor—Action alleged to be only for purpose of ascertaining damages.]—A deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors, dated in April, 1895, contained a covenant by the creditors not to sue debtor for their debts, & provided that the deed might be pleaded as a defence to any action brought in breach of the covenant. Debtor's leaseholds were excepted from the assignment. In July, pltf. made a claim of £85 for damages for breaches of covenants in a lease to debtor committed previous to the execution of the deed, but deft., the trustee of the deed, refused to admit liability on the part of debtor's estate. In Aug. pltf.'s solrs. issued a writ against debtor claiming damages for breach of covenant, to which debtor appeared, & in their letter to deft.'s solrs. to inform them of the writ said, "our clients claim to rank as creditors in the administration of the assets." The proceedings were discontinued, & another writ was issued against debtor claiming possession, mesne profits, & damages for breach of covenant. Judgment was signed against debtor by default, & the usual inquiry as to damages was directed, to which the undersheriff duly made his return. Pltf. contended that the proceedings were taken to ascertain the amount of the claim for damages which the trustee wrongfully refused to assess, & were not inconsistent with assent to the deed of assignment :—Held : the deed was not finally acceded to by pltf., & he was not entitled to come in as a creditor under the deed. —Re LEE, PATTESON v. MILES (1896), 41 Sol. Jo. 12.

9149. Within what time—After debtor unable to have benefit of deed.]—Debtor conveyed all his property to trustees for his creditors, in consideration of a licence & release granted to him by the deed, & afterwards died. Seven years after his death a creditor, who had notice of the deed shortly after its execution, but did not execute it, filed a bill to be allowed to execute it, & to have the benefit of it :—Held : the bill should be dismissed, as debtor could not have the benefit of the

The assignor & the trustees, who were also creditors, executed the deed at once. No other creditor executed before the stipulated day, but notice of the deed was given to them all, & they forbore to sue, & fifteen years afterwards some were permitted to execute, the trustees meanwhile having taken possession of & sold part of the property:—Held: the deed was binding on the assignor, & the creditors were entitled to have the trusts of it carried into effect.—NICHOLSON

Notice thereof was published to the effect that all creditors wishing to participate in the assets of the estate should execute the deed within three months. Creditors, who resided in England, had no notice of the assignment until the three months had nearly expired, & as soon as possible thereafter they authorised an agent to come into the assignment & execute the deed, but the assignees & the other creditors refused to allow him to do so. The three months had then expired, but there had been no distribution of the proceeds of the estate:—Held: there having been no negligence on the part of such creditors, & no dividend having been paid, such creditors were not precluded from coming in & sharing with the other creditors in the distribution of the estate, & their agent should be allowed to execute the deed.—HALIBURTON v. DE WOLFE (1866), 2 Old. 381; 7 N. 9159. —— Creditor having done nothing contrary to deed.]—J., by a deed, conveyed to a trustee all his real & personal estate, upon trust for conversion, & to divide the net proceeds ratably amongst all his creditors who should execute or accede to the deed within three calendar months after the date thereof. Pltfs. were creditors, but never executed the deed, but they had, within the three months, joined with other creditors in giving J. a letter of licence to come & go for three months, without molestation, for the purpose of giving his assistance in explaining the state of his affairs ; they did not in any other way accede to the deed. Five years after the date of the deed they filed a bill, claiming to be entitled to the benefit thereof :—Held : never having done anything contrary to the deed, they were not precluded from claiming the benefit of it, though the three months had long since expired.—WHITMORE v. TURQUAND (1861), 3 De G. 9161. Provision excluding creditors not assenting within given time—Mortgagee failing to express any intention of coming in.]—Debtor assigned all his property to trustees for the benefit of his creditors, with a proviso that, in case any creditor should not come in under the deed for six months after its date, he should be peremptorily excluded from the benefit of it :—Held : a mtgee. of part of the property, whose solr. corresponded with the trustees on the subject of the mtge., but did not express any intention to come in under the deed for some years afterwards, was not entitled to the benefit of the trust.—GOULD v. ROBERTSON (1851), 4 De G. & Sm. 509 ; 64 E. 9162. —— Creditor abroad—Power of attorney arriving too late.]—Debtor by deed conveyed real & personal property to trustees upon trust for the benefit of creditors who should sign the deed, with a proviso that such creditors as should not execute or assent in writing to take the benefit of the deed, on or before July 22 then next, or within such time, not exceeding thirty days, as the trustees should appoint, should be excluded from all benefit under the deed. At the time of the execution of the deed by debtor, R., a creditor to a considerable amount, was in America, but on July 22 W., as his attorney, wrote to the trustees, assenting to the deed on his behalf. On Aug. 15 W. received a power of attorney from R., who was still in America, authorising him to execute the deed for him, but upon W. claiming to execute the deed, the trustees & the other creditors refused to allow him to do so : —Held : R. was entitled to execute & have the benefit of the deed.—RAWORTH v. PARKER (1855), 2 K. & J. 163 ; 25 L. 9163. —— With discretion to trustees to extend same—Judgment creditor seeking benefit of deed on judgment being found invalid.]—Under trust-deeds for the benefit of creditors, a time was fixed within which the creditors were to execute or be excluded from the benefit of such deeds, the trustees having discretion to allow creditors to sign after the period fixed. A judgment creditor relying upon his claim as paramount to the deeds, declined to execute during twenty-two years. The judgment subsequently turned out to be invalid, & he then petitioned the ct., in a suit instituted for carrying into effect the trusts of the deeds, to be allowed the benefit of such deeds, & offered to execute them :—Held : (1) there was no such case of mistake or misapprehension as to constitute an equity ; (2) the petition must be dismissed.—BRANDLING v. PLUMMER (1857), 27 L. J. Ch. 188 ; 6 W. R. 117.

9164. —— Deed whereby third party covenanted to pay composition—Time of essence of deed.] A. by deed covenanted to pay a composition of 6*s.* 8*d.* in the pound to all the creditors of his father & grandfather who should execute the deed within a given time, & charged certain estates with the amount of the composition. The deed contained a special provision that no creditor not executing within the prescribed time should be admitted to the benefit thereof. After the death of A., a bill was filed, by the trustees of the deed, praying that the trusts might be carried into execution by the ct. Various creditors who had not executed the deed within the given time, claimed to be entitled to the benefit of it :—Held : (1) in the absence of fraud, creditors who had executed the deed within the prescribed time were alone entitled to the benefit of it ; (2) creditors were not entitled to any notice of the deed ; (3) time was the essence of the contract, & as against creditors who had executed the deed, neither A. nor the trustees could waive actual execution of the deed within the prescribed period, & any claim founded on allegation of fraud must be asserted by a distinct suit.

The distinction in reference to letting in creditors after the prescribed time, between a deed by which a third party covenants to pay a certain composition to the creditors of A., & a conveyance by A. of property upon trust for his own creditors, pointed out & explained.—WILLIAMS v. MOSTYN (1863), 3 New Rep. 61 ; 33 L. 9165. —— Creditor not executing but acquiescing.] —Debtor executed an assignment to trustees for the benefit of his creditors in consideration of their covenanting not to take any proceedings against him for three years, & it was provided that those creditors who should not execute the deed within six months should be excluded from the benefits conferred thereby. One of the creditors neglected to sign the deed, but acquiesced in it, & took no proceedings against debtor :—Held : such creditor, having treated the deed as valid, & acquiesced in its provisions, was entitled to the benefits conferred by it.—Re BABER'S TRUSTS (1870), L. dividends.]—Debtors, on June 11, 1847, assigned by deed their property, upon trust for their creditors, whose names & seals were thereunto affixed. In July the trustees sold, &, at the sale, pltf. stated that he was a creditor, but mentioned no particulars of his demand, which, in fact, was one requiring investigation. The trustees advertised Oct. 11 as the last day for creditors to execute the deed, & stated that creditors who had not signed by that day would be excluded. On a bill filed by pltf. in Apr., 1848, after a dividend had been made:—Held: upon establishing that he was a creditor & executing the deed, he was entitled to participate in any future assets, but not to disturb the dividend already made.—BROADBENT v. THORNTON (1850), 4 De G. & Sm. 65; 64 E. B. Sufficiency of Assent.

9167. General rule—Placing himself in same position as if he had signed.]—A creditor cannot be said in any sense to have acceded to the provisions of a composition deed, unless he has put himself in the same situation with regard to debtor, as if he had actually executed the deed.—FORBES v. LIMOND (1854), 4 De G. 9168. —— Absence of clear acquiescence.]—In Mar., 1821, property was assigned for the benefit of creditors who should execute, without limiting a time. The attorney who prepared the deed & solicited signatures, was a creditor. The assignor died insolvent. The deed was taken out of his hands by a trustee in Dec., 1822, & he never executed, nor applied to do so, but when the property was divisible in 1830, he claimed a benefit under the deed, as having acquiesced under it:—Held: his claim was inadmissible, as he had not done any unequivocal act of acquiescence, binding him to the terms of it.—TAPSTER v. PLACE (1831), 1 L. J. Ch. 19.

9169. —— Mere standing by insufficient.]—The joining in a letter of licence is not an accession to a composition deed. The mere standing by or doing of any act which does not preclude a creditor from afterwards acting in opposition to the deed, is not accession.—WHITMORE v. TURQUAND (1861), 3 De G. 9170. Acceptance of composition—Acceptance of security.]—Where a composition deed or instrument is entered into by an insolvent, with a clause, that if certain creditors do not sign the deed, it shall be null & void, if such creditors accept the composition, or the security for the composition, though they do not actually sign the instrument, it is valid & good.—JOLLY v. WALLIS (1800), 3 Esp. 228.

9171. —— Under mistake of law & not of fact.]—Deft. called a meeting of his creditors & proposed a composition of 10*s.* in the pound, payable by two instalments, & a deed was prepared in supposed compliance with 1861 Act, s. 192. Pltfs., creditors, declined to assent, but, subsequently, on being informed by deft. that the deed had been executed by the required number of creditors, & had been registered, & the amount of the instalments having been remitted to them, they took the money & said nothing. The deed was afterwards decided to be void for want of a strict compliance with the above Act:—Held: pltfs. were precluded from suing defts. for the balance of their debt, as the mistake, if any, under which they had received the instalments, was one of law & not of fact.—KITCHIN v. HAWKINS (1866), L. 9173. —— Assent subject to note attached thereto.]—A deed of assignment by debtors to a trustee for the benefit of all creditors who should execute the deed was executed by pltfs., who appended a note that they executed only in respect of certain claims scheduled to the deed & amounting to $73,531. Subsequently thereto they received a sum of money from the trustee by virtue of their execution of the deed:—Held: the note did not amount to a refusal to execute, & pltfs. having received payment under the deed could not be heard to repudiate it & deny their execution.—EXCHANGE BANK OF YARMOUTH v. BLETHEN (1885), 10 App. Cas. 293; 54 L. Co., but they took new notes from defts., embracing at agreed amount all their claims against defts. on the two notes & gave a receipt for the composition:—Held: by the acceptance of the composition H. 9176. Acts not precluding creditor from suing parties to bill of exchange held by him.]—By a composition deed for winding up, under an inspector, the affairs of a partnership in Calcutta, it was provided that four members of the partnership should collect & pay the assets into the hands of the inspector, to be applied by him, after payment of costs, in payment among the several creditors of the partnerships who should have become parties to, & have executed or otherwise acceded to, the terms of the deed, but if a commission of bkpcy. or an adjudication of insolvency should be awarded issued or prosecuted against the partnership, or any of them, in respect of their then debts or liabilities, before any release should be executed, the deed should thenceforth be absolutely void. Pltfs., indorsees of two bills of exchange drawn by the partnership, remitted the bills from London to their agents in Calcutta, who, in Apr., 1848, forwarded them " to the trustees " of the partnership to be registered. The partners acting under liquidation acknowledged the receipt of the bills, &, with respect to one of them, wrote, " We have registered the claim you make on our estate ; " & with respect to the other, " We have duly noted the claim," returning the bills, which were transmitted back to pltfs. in London. In Feb., 1849, the inspector advertised a dividend of 10 per cent., which was shortly afterwards paid on several of the debts of the creditors who had executed the deed. In Mar., 1849, four members of the partnership were, on their own petition in India, adjudicated insolvent, & thereupon the inspector handed over to their official assignee the balance remaining in his hands. Pltfs. having received dividends on the bills under the insolvency in India, & from other parties in England liable upon the bills, in 1851 instituted a suit against the inspector for the payment of the 10 per cent. dividend advertised by him :—Held : pltfs., not being precluded from suing any of the parties liable upon the bills, could not be considered to have acceded to the composition deed.—FORBES v. LIMOND (1854), 4 De G. Plea, that after J. became indebted to pltfs., J. being also indebted to other persons, by an indenture between J. of the first part, E., & B., one of pltfs., trustees, for themselves & the rest of the creditors, of the second part, & the several other persons whose names & seals were thereunto subscribed & set, being creditors of J., of the third part, after reciting that J. was indebted to the parties thereto of the second & third parts, in the several sums set opposite to their names in the schedule thereunder written, which he was unable to pay in full, it was witnessed, that J. assigned all his estate & effects to the trustees, upon trust to pay ratably & without preference to themselves & their partners, & the parties thereto of the third part, the sums set opposite their names in the schedule, & in consideration of the assignment, the several creditors, parties thereto of the second & third parts, released J. from all debts which they or their partners might have against J. up to the date thereof. Replication, on equitable grounds, that B. executed the deed in his character of trustee, & not in his character of creditor, & that he did so merely for the purpose of declaring the trusts of the deed, & not with any intention of releasing the debt, that he did not sign or seal the schedule, nor was the debt of pltfs. contained therein, & that if the deed operated in law as a release, it was executed by mistake, & in ignorance that such would be its legal effect :—Held : the facts disclosed by the replication did not afford any answer to the plea on equitable grounds.—TEEDE & BISHOP v. JOHNSON (1856), 11 Exch. 840 ; 25 L. 9179. Failure to contradict statements at meeting—Other creditors induced to give time.]—At the meeting of the creditors of bkpt., a statement was made on behalf of debtor that the L. Bank, who were secured creditors, had agreed to accept a composition of 6*s.* in the pound upon the balance of their claim after deducting the value of the securities in their hands. The statement in question was uncontradicted by the agent of the bank, who was then present, & upon the faith of it the unsecured creditors executed a letter of licence to debtor, whereby they allowed time for payment of their demands. It subsequently appeared that on the day previously to the meeting of the creditors a private arrangement was made between bkpt.'s solr. & the bank for payment of a composition of 10*s.* in the pound. The bank having received the 6*s.* in the pound & bkpcy. intervening :—Held : the bank must be considered to have assented to the arrangement for payment of the 6*s.* in the pound.—Re HOILE, Ex p. THE ASSIGNEES (1864), 12 W. A deed was subsequently registered, which provided reasonable security for the payment of the third instalment, but the creditors had not approved of such security before the registration of the deed :—Held : though the assents were at first conditional on the third instalment being secured, that condition had been fulfilled before the registration of the deed, & the assents were sufficient under 1861 Act, s. 192.—HORSFALL v.

9181. —— Reserving right under former deed.]—A written assent to a deed intended to operate under 1861 Act, appearing on its face to be given "without prejudice to the assenting creditors' rights under a former deed" is invalid, because qualified, & tending to produce inequality.—JOHNSON v. OSENTON (1869), L. 9182. Assents failing to state how instalments secured—Failing to state how time to be reckoned—Assent not acted on within reasonable time.]—In pursuance of a resolution passed at a meeting of creditors, C. & Co., on May 28, 1869, issued a circular to the creditors containing a proposal by debtor for a "composition of 6*s.* 8*d.* in the pound, payable in equal instalments at three, six, & nine months, the two last instalments to be secured." Assents were given to such proposal in the following form : "We, the undersigned, hereby agree to the composition proposed, & authorise you, or either of you, to sign such deed on our behalf, & undertake to execute the deed of release, if tendered for that purpose." A deed was afterwards executed on Aug. 7, & registered on the 11th, under 1861 Act, s. 192, by which debtor covenanted to pay the composition by instalments of 2*s.* 3*d.*, 2*s.* 2*d.*, & 2*s.* 3*d.*, at three, six, & nine months from the date of registration, & to deliver promissory notes for same within fourteen days of the registration, the notes for the two last instalments to be signed by debtor & W. :—Held : the deed was not duly assented to, because, (1) the assents did not state how the instalments were to be secured ; (2) they did not state the point of time from which the periods of three, six, & nine months were to be reckoned ; &, (3) they were not acted upon within a reasonable time.—BIRKS v. CLARKE (1870), L. 9183. Assents differing from deed.] — A deed contained a licence for three years to debtor to attend to his affairs without hindrance by his creditors, & an assignment of part of his property to a trustee for the benefit of his creditors, & it was declared to be a deed within 1861 Act, s. 192. Some of the creditors necessary to make up the statutory majority had assented to a letter of licence granting debtor a period of three years for payment of 20*s.* in the pound to his creditors :—Held : this was a substantial difference between the deed & the assents, & the deed was no answer to an action by a non-assenting creditor.—STYRING v. WATERS (1870), 22 L. T. 541.

9184. Assents otherwise than by proving & accepting dividend.] — Pltfs., creditors of deft., a trader in insolvent circumstances, took an active part in procuring the acceptance of a scheme of composition of deft.'s affairs, & obtained proxies from debtor's other creditors. At a meeting of the creditors pltfs. withdrew the proof of their debt against the estate of deft. on the ground that, owing to a fraudulent statement on his part on an earlier occasion, they had been induced to forbear to press their claim against him, but they proposed a resolution that a composition of 11*s.* 3*d.* in the pound should be accepted in satisfaction of the debts due from debtor, & by using the proxies held by them they carried the resolution. A dividend of 11*s.* 3*d.* in the pound was received by pltfs. on their proof. They subsequently brought an action in the county ct. for the unpaid balance of their debt, & the county ct. judge gave a verdict & judgment for the amount claimed. Deft. obtained a rule nisi to set aside the verdict & judgment or for a new trial :—Held : pltfs., having acted as they had done, had assented to the composition otherwise than by proving their debt & accepting a dividend on it, & they could not maintain an action for the unpaid balance of their debt, & judgment should be entered for deft.—THORP v. DAKIN (1885), 52 L. T. 856 ; 1 T. L. R. 516, D. C.

9185. Words used by creditor at meeting.]—Debtor made a deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors generally. At the time he owed his landlord, deft., two years' rent. Deft. attended a meeting of creditors, & was there informed by pltf., the trustee of the deed, that if he assented to the deed, he would receive six months' rent in full, & that he could claim with the other creditors for the balance. The deed contained no provision to that effect, & the other creditors did not assent to the payment. Deft., having to leave the meeting, said to one of the creditors present, "Whatever you do, I will do," but he did not sign the form of assent sent to him, nor did he give any notice of dissent from the deed. Deft. subsequently distrained for the two years' rent owing to him, & pltf. thereupon brought an action against him claiming damages for illegal distress. At the close of pltf.'s case the county ct. judge found that the remark made by deft. did not amount to an assent to the deed & gave no cause for legal action :—Held : (1) there was some evidence to support that finding ; (2) in any event a new trial would be bound to end in favour of deft., on the ground that his assent to the deed if any, was conditional on his right to receive six months' rent in full, & he acquired no such right.—SIER v. BULLEN (1915), 84 L. A deed with a covenant to accept the composition was executed by C., the manager of pltfs.' branch at L. At the time the manager executed the deed, there were two creditors mentioned in the sched. who had not executed. Before either of those creditors had executed, & before the composition notes had been tendered to the manager, he withdrew from the arrangement. It did not appear that the head office had repudiated the manager's authority :—Held : the manager had authority to agree to accept less than the whole of the claim, & did so agree, & under R. S. O. 1887, c. 44, s. 53 (7), the agreement was irrevocable.—BANK OF COMMERCE v. JENKINS (1888), 16 O. R. 215.—CAN.

Necessity for proof of assent—Sufficiency of evidence.]—The ct. will require good proof that the requisite amount of assents in number & value has been obtained to a deed registered under 1861 Act, s. 192. Pltf. refused to join, unless defts. would pay him dividends at a rate exceeding that which was accepted by the other creditors, & this was agreed upon between pltf. & defts. without the knowledge of the other creditors. Defts. stated to pltf. as an inducement for his making this contract that no other creditor had a similar preference. Such statement was false to the knowledge of defts. In an action on the securities given under the agreement :—Held : (1) (WIGHTMAN, J.) pltf. might allege the deception put upon him by defts. in answer to the plea of release; (2) (COLERIDGE & ERLE, JJ.) pltf. could not so allege a deception practised on himself by defts. in the execution of a fraud by himself and them upon other parties.—MALLALIEU v. HODGSON (1851), 16 Q. The mother of debtor was one of the creditors. Certain creditors assigned to her their debts, proofs of debt, & the benefit of such proofs, & authorised her to exercise in her name all rights which they might be able to exercise under the deed. The mother used the votes based on those debts to defeat proposals for the disposal of the life interest :—Held : there was no implied obligation on the part of each creditor not to do any act by which the qualified power of control given to a majority of three-fourths in number & value of the creditors would be affected.—Re COCK, HOWDEN v. COCK, [1915] V. 9198. —— Right to question same.]—A. filed a petition under the arrangement clauses of 1869 Act. The first meeting of the creditors was duly held, & a resolution was passed accepting a composition of 5*s.* in the pound, payable one month after registration. On May 19 the second meeting of the creditors was held, at which the resolution was confirmed, & it was registered on the following day. At the first meeting B. attended by proxy, & tendered a proof for £15 12*s.* debt, & £1 16*s.* 6*d.* costs. The debt was admitted, but the costs were objected to. He also attended the second meeting. No tender of the composition was ever actually made to B., but on or about June 20 a circular letter was sent to the unpaid creditors, giving notice that the composition was payable at the office of A.'s solr., but that if required it would be forwarded by Post-Office order. B. alone of the then unpaid creditors denied having received such circular letter, & on Dec. 5 he entered a plaint in the county ct. for the amount of the debt admitted by bkpt. The county ct. judge having given a verdict for B. for the full amount, an injunction was granted, restraining B. from recovering under his judgment more than the composition & the costs of the action:—Held: the resolution, having been duly passed at meetings, which B. by his solr. attended, could not be called in question, but was binding on all the creditors equally.—Ex p. HEMINGWAY (1872), 7 Ch. marriage. The father & son, the intended wife & her father, & other persons, trustees, were parties to the indenture. Certain freehold estates were conveyed to the trustees for A. for life, remainder to B., & the estates were exonerated from debts due by A., which debts were made charges on certain leasehold premises expressly named. The premises were vested in trustees, on trust to keep down the interest of A.'s debts affecting any of the estates comprised in the deed, & they were empowered "with the desire & consent" of A. & B., & notwithstanding any of the trusts therein contained, to sell the leasehold premises so put in settlement for the payment of the debts & incumbrances. Another deed was executed by A. & B. in 1824, which recited the former, appointed new trustees, added new debts, & made provision for the payment of all. The trustees never acted in discharge of the trust, & the deeds were not communicated to the creditors, but B., who by an arrangement with his father had possession & management of the estates, paid the interest on the debts. After the deaths of both A. & B., the son of the latter entered into possession of the estates. C., a bond creditor, whose name & claim were set forth in the schedule to the deed of 1818, filed a bill to have the trusts of that deed carried into execution:—Held: the debt "was within the trust contained in the indenture for the payment of the scheduled debts."—SYNNOT v. SIMPSON (1854), 5 H. 9210. —— ——.]—By a deed of family arrangement executed in 1867 on the resettlement of an estate by father & son, the estate was limited to the use of the father for life, with remainder to the use of trustees, upon trust, with the consent of the father & son during their joint lives, or of the survivor during his life, & after the death of the survivor at the discretion of the trustees, to sell same & apply the proceeds, & also the rents & profits until sale, in payment, in such order & in such manner as the trustees should, with the concurrence of the father during his lifetime, determine, of all debts owing by the father, & subject thereto to hold any unsold hereditaments to the uses of an indenture of even date under which the father & son were successive tenants for life with remainder to an infant son of the son in tail. The father's creditors were neither parties to nor named in the deed, nor was it ever communicated to them. After the father's death the trustees sold part of the settled estate with the consent of the son, & applied the proceeds in payment of all the father's debts, except one due to a sister, of which the trustees were unaware. In 1889 the trustees, with the concurrence of the son, who was his father's legal personal representative, conveyed the unsold hereditaments to the uses of the second indenture of 1867. The son died in 1890. In 1896 the exors. of the sister, who had died, having become aware of the deeds of 1867 & 1889, brought an action seeking to charge the hereditaments in the possession of the infant tenant in tail with the debt due to the sister's estate:—Held: the case fell within Synnot v. Simpson, No. 9209, ante, & not within Garrard v. Lauderdale, No. 9536, post, & the infant tenant in tail took the estate subject to the liability for the debt.—PRIESTLEY v. ELLIS, [1897] 1 Ch. 489; 66 L. Right to contribution—Assenting creditor supplying goods to inspectors—Deed containing covenant to indemnify inspectors against liabilities incurred in trading—Accounts.]—The creditors, parties to an inspection deed, severally covenanted to indemnify to a certain extent the inspectors against liabilities incurred in carrying on the business of debtor, which they were empowered to do. One of the creditors who had executed the deed, & to whom the inspectors had incurred a large debt for goods supplied & advances made for the purpose of the business, filed a bill against the inspectors, debtor, & all the other acceding creditors, to have the inspectorship wound up, & the accounts taken, & to have the assets applied in payment of his claim, & the deficiency made good by rateable contributions of all the acceding creditors, including pltf., in proportion to their debts:—Held: there was no right to contribution, &, a decree for accounts having been made in a previous suit, the bill was dismissed.—SELWYN v. HARRISON (1862), 2 John. & H. 334; 70 E. 9216. —— —— Claim partly unascertained at date of execution of deed.]—A creditor, at the date of a deed of inspectorship & trust made by debtor for the benefit of his creditors, had a claim against debtor for an ascertained sum of £1,974, & an unascertained sum on account of acceptances, which he had given to debtor on goods shipped by debtor through the creditor as his factor, on a del credere commission, & which had not then been sold, of which acceptances £5,000 had then become due. The creditor, in such state of things, executed the deed generally, without specifying on the deed the amount of his debt or claim. Upon the ultimate account after the goods were sold it appeared that a balance of £5,348 was due to the creditor from debtor:—Held: the creditor was entitled to a dividend from debtor's estate for £5,348, & not merely for £1,974.—GRAHAM v. ACKROYD (1853), 10 Hare, 192; 22 L. property to the inspector for the benefit of the creditors, that upon such assignment the inspector should give a certificate that debtor had so assigned, & that thereupon debtor should be released from his debts. The deed contained a proviso that it should "cease, determine, & be void," if all the creditors to a certain amount did not execute it within six months from its date. Debtor was duly required by the inspector to execute an assignment, & did so, & received a certificate :—Held : the release constituted a good defence against a creditor who had executed the deed, & who, having had notice that all the creditors had not signed the deed, had endeavoured to obtain payment of a dividend out of the property assigned to the inspector. Semble : the proviso was inserted in the deed for the benefit of debtor, & a creditor who had executed could not take advantage of it.—DUNN v. WYMAN (1881), 51 L. 9234. —— Power of court to restrain action in Ireland.]—Where an inspectorship deed has been duly executed under 1861 Act, the ct. has power to restrain a creditor under the deed from continuing an action against debtor in Ireland.

9236. —— Bill of exchange for larger amount than that for which deed signed—Bill in creditor's hands—Bill paid away by creditor.]—If deft. has entered into a deed of composition with his creditors, containing the usual clause of release & pltf. has executed the deed as a creditor for a certain sum, that is a good defence to an action by pltf. as indorsee of a bill of exchange to a larger amount, of which deft. was indorser, & which then lay dishonoured, in pltf.'s hands. But it is no defence as to two similar bills, also of larger amount, which pltf. had paid away, & which were then in the hands of third parties.—MARGETSON v. AITKEN (1828), 3 C. & P. 338.

9237. —— Bills of exchange held secretly—Other creditors induced to compound under impression that all bills disclosed.]—If a creditor induces others to agree to the composition, on the faith of his false representation that he is not the holder of bills of exchange other than those on which he accepts a composition, or that the bills for which he accepts the composition are the only bills of debtor which he holds, he cannot sue debtor upon them, if such defence be properly pleaded & proved. —BLACKSTONE v. WILSON (1857), 26 L. 9238. —— Debt not inserted after creditor's name at request of debtor—Other creditors ignorant of debt.]—Pltf., holding two bills of exchange drawn by deft., one for £400, the other for £156 19*s.* 10*d.*, executed a composition deed, containing a general release of deft., & a schedule of the sums due to various creditors, who executed the deed. After pltf.'s name was put the sum of £156 19*s.* 10*d.* only, at the request of deft., who expected pltf. would recover the bill for £400, by suing the acceptor. The other creditors were not made acquainted with the fact, that pltf. had a debt of £400 as well as £156 19*s.* 10*d.* :—Held : he could not afterwards sue deft. on the bill for £400.—BRITTEN v. HUGHES (1829), 5 Bing. 460 ; 3 Moo. & P. 77 ; 7 L. 9239. —— Debts not set against creditor's name.]—Assumpsit on a joint & several promissory note for £1,000. One of the makers had become embarrassed, & by a deed of assignment, reciting that he was indebted to the creditors, parties to the deed, "in the sums set against their respective names," assigned the whole of his personal estate & effects to trustees, to sell & distribute the amount among the creditors proportionally, which the creditors thereby accepted, "in discharge of all their claims & demands." It was provided that if any creditor did not sign the deed, his dividend was to become forfeit. Pltf. was a party to the deed, & the sum of £536 5*s.* was set against his name. It was conceded on the pleadings, that the demand for which the action was brought, was different from such debt :—Held : the deed did not operate as a release from pltf., of other debts, besides that named in the instrument, & he was not barred by it from recovering on the promissory note.—READ v. WROUT (1839), 9 L. 9240. —— —— Creditor not voting in respect of same.]—Debtor filed a petition under 1869 Act, s. 126, which resulted in resolutions for a composition of 2*s.* in the pound, payable in one month from the registration. A. was inserted in the statement of debts & assets, under the name of A. & Co., as a creditor for a certain sum, & he proved for, voted in respect of, & received the dividend on, a larger sum. At the time of the petition A. was under liability, jointly with J., on a bail-bond, which had been given by them to free debtor's ship from arrest in a collision suit in the Ct. of Admlty., but their liability on the bond was not inserted in the statement, & no claim against debtor's estate was made in respect of it. After the dividend had been paid, the suit was decided against debtor, & A. was called upon to pay under the bond :—Held : (BRETT, L.J., diss.) A. was not bound as to such debt by the composition resolutions, the debt not having been inserted in debtor's statement under s. 126, & A. not having voted in respect of it.—WILSON v. BRESLAUER (1877), 2 C. The deed did not profess to be made with or to bind the separate creditors, & that it had been approved by the statutory majority of the joint creditors & of the separate creditors of J.:—Held: the deed was binding on all the creditors of defts., though it did not expressly refer to the separate creditors of F.

9272. Bill of exchange given as additional composition.]—Pltf., after having been adjudged bkpt. in 1855, commenced negotiations with his creditors for a composition of 5*s.* in the pound. Defts., who were creditors, & who had proved their debt under the bkpcy., arranged with pltf. that they should have a further composition of 5*s.* in the pound, & in Apl., 1856, a bill of exchange was drawn by pltf.'s brother, accepted by pltf., & indorsed to defts., for £931, an amount equal to a composition of 5*s.* in the pound on their debt. Defts. by deed assigned their debt to pltf.'s brother, in consideration of a sum of £931 paid by defts. & also of the bill of exchange. The deed contained a proviso that if the estate should ultimately realise more than 10*s.* in the pound, such additional dividend should be paid to defts. The bkpcy. was afterwards annulled, & a composition of 4*s.* in the pound was paid upon the debt of defts. The bill was not paid at maturity, & defts. commenced an action:—Held: the bill was invalid & must be delivered up.—MARE v. EARLE (1861), 3 Giff. 108; 4 L. T. 352; 7 Jur. N. S. 1230; 66 E. 9274. Guarantee given on dishonour of note.]—A., being about to compound with his creditors, in order to induce B., one of them, to execute the deed, without the knowledge of the other creditors gave him two promissory notes for £25 each beyond the amount of the composition. Upon the first becoming due it was dishonoured, & an action was brought upon it, & judgment obtained & execution issued. C., who was a party to the notes, in consideration of A.'s forbearing to enforce the judgment, gave him a guarantee for the amount of the judgment & the outstanding note, & thereupon the two notes were given up:—Held: the guarantee was tainted with the original fraud, & could not be enforced, notwithstanding part of the consideration for it was the giving up a judgment in an action in which the illegality might have been but was not pleaded.—CLAY v. RAY (1864), 17 C. t. Mortgage given to provide funds for payment of composition.]—B. & other creditors of L. resolved to accept a composition payable by his promissory notes. At the time L. was indebted to the E. Bank, which did not sign the composition deed. B. was at that time an accommodation indorser for a part of the amount owing to the bank, but held as security a with their creditors. Pltf. refused to join unless defts. would pay him dividends at a rate exceeding that which was accepted by the others, & this was agreed upon between pltf. & defts. without the knowledge of the other creditors. Pltf. received securities from defts. on account of the composition bargained for by him. At the time of the above agreement between pltf. & defts., & of the composition, there were bills outstanding which defts. had accepted in payment of the debts compounded for as above stated with pltf. Pltf., after executing the release, omitted to take up the bills, & defts., being threatened with proceedings on the acceptances, gave him their promissory notes, in order that he might provide funds to meet the bills. Being afterwards sued by him upon the notes, they pleaded the facts, & averred that, on the execution of the release, it was pltf.'s duty to take up the bills, but he had neglected to do so, & that there had been no consideration for the notes, except as above stated :—Held : the facts showed no valid consideration, for pltf., when he received the notes, was already bound to take up the bills, & defts. might allege such duty against him, though it arose out of a transaction which was a fraud upon other parties.—MALLALIEU v. HODGSON (1851), 16 Q. Joint promissory note given by debtor & surety for full debt—In consideration of creditor procuring others to accept composition—Failure to arrange composition—Whether note enforceable against surety.]—S. was indebted to pltf. for money lent, & being embarrassed, the latter informed him that if he would give security for its repayment, he would procure his creditors to accept a composition. Deft. became surety for S. in a joint promissory note, & the transaction was to be kept a secret from the other creditors. Pltf. endeavoured to obtain a composition, but failed :—Held : he could not recover as against deft. on the note, as the transaction was fraudulent & void in its inception.—WELLS v. GIRLING (1819), 1 Brod. & Bing. 447 ; 4 Moore C. 9277. Creditor induced to enter debt below true value—Notes given for dividends on remainder enforceable after other creditors paid—Bonds for balance unenforceable.]—Upon a deed of composition, one creditor was prevailed upon by debtor to represent his debt below the real amount, receiving notes for the dividend upon the remainder & bonds for the remainder of his debt beyond the amount of the dividend. Upon the bill of debtor & a creditor, party to the deed, the bonds were decreed to be delivered up ; but the ct. was of opinion deft. would be entitled to the benefit of the notes, after all the trusts of the deed were satisfied, though not as against the creditors, & directed an inquiry as to that, reserving the question.—EASTABROOK v. SCOTT (1797), 3 Ves. 456 ; 30 E. R. 1103.

9278. Delivery up of bond—No one deceived by fraud.]—Where a creditor apparently accepts & gives a receipt for a composition, in order to enable debtor to deceive his other creditors, but takes a bond as security for the rest of his demand, such bond is void, & will be ordered to be delivered up, although there is no joint agreement among the creditors, nor any one is in fact deceived by the fraud.—FAWCETT v. GEE (1797), 3 Anst. 910 ; 145 E. R. 1079.

9279. —— On grounds of public policy.]—A bond, to secure to one creditor the deficiency of a composition, not communicated to the other creditors, will be decreed to be delivered up, with costs, though to particeps criminis, the ct. proceeding upon public policy, & the relief being given on account, not of the individual, but of the public.—JACKMAN v. MITCHELL (1807), 13 Ves. 581 ; 33 E. 9280. Bond given after signature—Grantee receiving no composition.]—Deft. entered into a composition to pay his creditors 6*s.* 8*d.* in the pound, upon condition of being released. Nearly two years afterwards he gave one of them, who had agreed to sign the composition deed, a bond for the residue of her debt, without the knowledge of the other creditors, she not having received the amount of her composition, but some of the other creditors having signed the deed & received their composition :—Held : an action might be sustained on the bond.—TOOK v. TUCK (1827), 4 Bing. 224 ; 12 Moore C. 9281. Money paid to induce assent—Debtor guilty of breach of trust.]—A., being indebted to B. in respect of fraud & breach of trust, failed & compounded with his creditors for 9*s.* in the pound. B. refused to come in, unless A. paid £100 down & gave security for a further 3*s.* in the pound :—Held : although this was a fraud on the other creditors, A. was not entitled to relief from the security, because of his own breach of trust.—SMALL v. BRACKLEY (1707), 2 Vern. 602 ; 23 E. mtge. on L.'s real estate. The bank having agreed to accept an amount in cash for its claim, B. advanced money to L. & took his promissory notes & a new mtge. for the amount, having released the previous mtge. The new transaction was not made known to D., another creditor not a party to the deed of composition, who advanced a sum to L. to enable him to pay off the bank, for which he accepted L.'s promissory notes. L., having failed to pay the second instalment of his notes, D. brought an action to have the transaction between L. & B. set aside & the mtge. declared void, on the ground of having been granted in fraud of the rights of debtor's creditors :—Held : the agreement by L. with B. was valid, debtor having at the time the right to pledge a part of his assets to secure the payment of a loan made to assist in the payment of his composition.—BROSSARD v. DUPRAS (1891), 19 S. B., who was not a creditor himself, but was agent for a creditor, refused his consent unless a mtge. to debtor to secure £2,873 was assigned to his principal for £1,500. This was agreed to under pressure ; debtor obtained a reassignment of the balance of his property, & B. recovered the whole amount secured by the mtge. :—Held : (1) a fraud upon the creditors ; (2) it made no difference that B. was not a creditor in his own right.—NEWTON v. BURKE (1882), 1 N. 9282. —— Realisation of policy.]— Defts., holding as security for a debt due to them from D. a policy of assurance effected by D., refused to join in a composition deed, by which D. was to be released from his debts on paying 8*s.* in the pound, unless D. assigned the policy to them. D. assigned it, & defts. then executed the composition deed:—Held: such assignment was a fraud, &, D. having become bkpt., his assignees were entitled to recover from defts. money they had received on the policy, notwithstanding the 8*s.* in the pound was never paid.—ALSAGER v. SPALDING (1838), 4 Bing. 9284. —— ——.]—Pltf., being insolvent, proposed to his creditors to pay them a composition of 10*s.* in the pound, to be secured by his acceptances. All the creditors agreed to the arrangement except deft., who refused to execute the agreement unless he were paid an additional 2*s.* in the pound on his debt. A cheque for that amount was given him by a relation of pltf., without pltf.'s knowledge, & he then signed the agreement, & received from pltf. his acceptances for the 10*s.* composition. Semble: in the circumstances, pltf., if he were compelled to pay the bills at maturity to bonâ fide indorsees, to whom they had been transferred by deft. for value, might recover back from deft. the excess received by him beyond the amount of the composition.—BRADSHAW v. BRADSHAW (1841), 9 M. & W. 29; 11 L. 9285. —— Action for money had & received.]—A. being in insolvent circumstances, was about to enter into a composition deed with his creditors. B., a creditor, who influenced many others, would not agree, & at a private meeting between him & A., refused to sign the deed, unless A. gave him, besides the composition, a sum of £50, & a bill of exchange for £108. A. & B. knew that several other creditors were then waiting to see what B. did, whether he would sign the deed, whereupon A., to induce him to do so, paid him the £50 in cash, & gave him the bill of exchange, & the composition deed was executed:—Held: A. might recover back the money in an action for money had & received.—ATKINSON v. DENBY (1862), 7 H. & N. 934: 31 L. 9286. Payments made subsequently under secret agreement at time of executing deed.]—A creditor at the time of signing a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, took from debtor a private agreement that debtor should make future payments on his account:—Held: the agreement was so far fraudulent that debtor could recover back from the creditor the payments subsequently made thereunder.—Re LENZBERG'S POLICY (1877), 7 Ch. 9287. —— Necessity for proof that composition paid.]—A., being a creditor of B., executed a composition deed, on condition that he was paid in full. It was stipulated in the deed that the debt should be paid at 6*s.* in the pound, by promissory notes. After executing the deed, A. obtained payment from B. in full:—Held: B. could not recover back the difference between the full amount & 6*s.* in the pound, without proving that the composition notes had been paid, or giving some evidence that would be equivalent to such proof.—WARD v. BIRD (1832), 5 C. & P. 229, N. The notes were given, & the composition was paid to deft., who negotiated the promissory notes, the holder of one of which enforced payment from pltf. by action:—Held: pltf. might recover back the amount from deft. in an action for money paid, had, & received.—SMITH v. CUFF (1817), 6 M. & S. 160; 105 E. The note was given, & the composition paid to deft., who negotiated the promissory note, the holder of which enforced payment from pltf.:—Held: pltf. might recover back from deft. the sum so paid by him in an action for money paid.—HORTON v. RILEY (1843), 11 M. & W. 492; 13 L. B., a creditor, refused to sign the deed, until A. made B. a promise to give him security for the difference between the composition & the full amount of the debt. Pursuant to that agreement A. subsequently handed over to B. his promissory notes, payable to B. or order. B. indorsed the notes, & paid them in to his bankers at Leeds, to whom B. was in the habit of indorsing all bills & notes received by him, & drawing generally on account. When

Deft. refused to accede to the composition, unless, prior to his signing the composition deed, he received, in addition, goods to the value of 3*s.* 4*d.* in the pound. Pltf. gave deft. goods to the amount required, & deft. signed the composition deed:—Held: pltf. entitled to recover the amount for which the goods were sold by deft., such agreement being contrary to public policy whether the contract were executed or executory.—HELY v. HICKS (1840), 3 I. the notes were at maturity the London correspondents of the Leeds bankers presented them to A., by whom they were paid. A. continued to deal with B. down to his bkpcy. in 1840, without ever complaining of the transaction or attempting to set off the payments made in respect of the notes against the subsequent demands of B. against him. No evidence was given to show the state of the account between B. & the Leeds bankers at the time of the payments, or that A. knew the character in which the notes were held by the bankers who presented them. In an action for money paid by A. to the use of B., brought by the assignees of A. to recover back the amount of the notes, the judge left it to the jury to say whether or not the payment was voluntary, & told them that if the payment was made to the bankers as agents only, it must be considered as voluntary, & that if they found the payment to be voluntary, & to have been made with a full knowledge of the circumstances, they must find for B., otherwise for pltfs. :—Held : there must be a new trial, in order that the attention of the jury might be more precisely called to the question, whether A. knew the character in which the bankers presented the notes for payment, viz., whether as agents of B. or as holders for value.—GIBSON v. BRUCE (1843), 5 Man. & G. 399 ; 6 Scott N. 9292. —— —— Voluntary payment with full knowledge—Payee creditor's agent.]—Pltf. being about to compound with his creditors, deft., a creditor, refused to subscribe the deed, unless he were paid in full. Pltf., to obtain his signature, gave a bill of exchange, payable to deft.'s agent, for the difference between 20*s.* in the pound & 8*s.*, the proportion compounded for. Deft. then signed the deed. Pltf. did not honour the bill when due, but, on subsequent application, he paid it, some months after the dishonour, by two instalments, to the payee, & deft. received the money. The other creditors were paid according to the deed :—Held : pltf. could not recover back the amount paid to deft. above 8*s.* in the pound, for the transaction had been closed by a voluntary payment with full knowledge of the facts, & ought not to be reopened, & it made no difference that the sum in question had not been recovered by action.—WILSON v. RAY (1839), 10 Ad. & El. 82 ; 2 Per. & Dav. 253 ; 8 L. Pltf. was not an undersigned creditor, & did not assent to the deed :—Held : the plea was no answer to the action, for pltf.'s claim, being for unliquidated damages, & not having been assessed under s. 153, was not provable in bkpcy., & pltf. was not a creditor within s. 192, & not bound by the deed.—SHARLAND v. SPENCE (1867), L. Pltf. alleged that although the bond had not been paid, both C. & deft. had neglected to pay any of the premiums upon the policy of assurance, from the date of the indenture. Deft. pleaded a deed, dated June 21, 1869, under 1868 Act, between himself, two inspectors, & the creditors, who would be entitled to prove under an adjudication of bkpcy. against deft., founded on a petition filed upon the day of the date of the presents, upon an act of bkpcy. committed upon the day of the date thereof. The plea merely stated that it was agreed by the deed that the provisions therein contained should operate & have the same force & effect as an order of discharge under 1861 Act, & might be so pleaded in bar of every action commenced by any creditor of deft., & with the same effect as an order of discharge under 1861 Act, in case deft. had been adjudicated bkpt. The bills were actually held by a bank, but were after the date of the petition indorsed to a firm consisting of the drawers & another person, which firm sued upon them:—Held: the composition was a good defence to the action.—FORWOOD v. WALKER (1877), 36 L. 9300. —— Debt shown in statement not definite in amount—Nor admitted.]—At a meeting of defts.' creditors held pursuant to 1869 Act, s. 126, which resulted in a resolution by the creditors to accept a composition in satisfaction of their debts, defts. produced their statement of affairs, in which pltfs.' names & addresses were inserted in the list of persons claiming to be creditors, but in which, instead of the amount of a debt admitted to be due, there was put opposite to their names a large sum as the amount of their claim, with a note thereunder in the following words: "Acting under legal advice this claim was resisted, & became the subject of an action, & reference to J., which reference is now pending":—Held: this was not a statement showing the amount of the debt due to pltfs. within s. 126 so as to make the provisions of the composition binding on pltfs., though they were non-assenting creditors, as in order to be binding, the statement must show a debt of definite amount, admitted to be due.—MELHADO v. WATSON (1877), 2 C. k. —— ——.]—Pltf. was the payee, & deft. the indorser, of a dishonoured promissory note. The maker of the note was indebted to pltf. in a sum considerably exceeding the amount of the note. After dishonour pltf. suggested to the maker that he should assign his estate in trust for creditors. The maker agreed, & the deed of assignment was prepared & executed by the maker & by the trustee, & was then forwarded to pltf. for execution by himself & the other creditors. He neither executed it nor obtained the execution of other creditors. The deed did not reserve the rights of the creditors against sureties, but provided that in the event of assets being insufficient for payment of debts in full, the maker "should forthwith pay the balance owing" of such debts, & contained a further clause "that nothing herein contained or implied shall operate as a discharge of the debts or any of them, unless & until same shall be respectively paid in full":—Held: pltf. was bound by the deed, although he had not executed it.—HATRICK v. NICOL (1910), 30 N. 9301. —— —— Estimated costs.]—On Apr. 24 B., pltf. in an action, recovered judgment for £53 & costs. On Apr. 25 deft. filed a liquidation petition. In his statement of affairs he inserted B. as a creditor for the £53, but made no mention of the costs. The first meeting of the creditors was held on May 19. B. attended & proved a debt of £203, being the £53, & £150, the estimated amount of the costs. The meeting was adjourned to May 29, when the creditors resolved to accept a composition, B. voting in the minority. On June 8 the costs of the action were taxed at £147. On June 9 B. gave notice to debtor that he withdrew his proof, & the same day he issued execution against debtor for the judgment debt & costs. On June 11 the second meeting of the creditors was held, & B. then gave written notice that he withdrew his proof, without prejudice to again proving on a subsequent occasion. The chairman refused to take the proof off the file. The composition resolutions were confirmed. B. took objections to the resolutions, & opposed their registration, but the registration was made :—Held : by reason of the insufficient statements of B.'s debt in debtor's statement, B. was not bound by the composition, & he was not estopped by his conduct from enforcing his execution against debtor.—Re LANG, Ex p. LANG (1877), 5 Ch. 9303. —— Part only of debt shown in statement—Balance entered as due to another creditor.]—Pltf. entered into a composition with his creditors, under 1869 Act, s. 126. In his statement of affairs, presented at the meeting of creditors, he set down defts. as his creditors for a certain amount, but set down a second debt really due to them as due to some one else. Defts. attended the meeting, tendered proof of the second debt, which was admitted, took part on the discussion, opposed the resolution for a composition, &, when it was carried, declined to accept the amount of the composition :—Held : defts. were not bound by the resolution for composition as to that debt, because pltf. had not complied with s. 126, & there had been no waiver by defts.—OPPENHEIM v. JACKSON (1879), 49 L. Defts. compounded with their creditors under 1869 Act, s. 126, & in the statement of debts, entered the amount of the debt due to pltf., a non-assenting creditor, as £142 7*s.* 3*d.*, viz., the amount of the bills. Pltf. sued for £143 12*s.* 9*d.* the original debt. Defts. pleaded the composition :—Held : as the original cause of action was suspended but not satisfied by the bills, & revived when they were dishonoured, at the date of the composition the amount of the debt due to pltf. was £143 12*s.* 9*d.*, & as it was not correctly shown in the statement, the composition was no bar to his action.—BURLINER v. ROYLE (1880), 5 C. 9307. —— Conveyance to trustees for executing creditors—Deed executed by nearly all creditors.]—A. conveyed all his property to three of his creditors, in trust to pay the debts due from him to themselves & to his other creditors who should execute the deed. The trustees & nearly all the other creditors executed the deed, but with notice that B. had a demand upon A. & was about to enforce it. On a bill being filed by B. against A. & the trustees to set aside the deed on the ground that it was a mere voluntary deed of agency :—Held : the bill must be dismissed with costs.—MACKINNON v. STEWART (1850), 1 Sim. Right to enforce trusts of deed—Deed not communicated to creditors.]—See Nos. 9533 et seq., post.

9312. —— Creditor becoming such after execution of deed.]—The execution of a trust deed for the payment of creditors, does not constitute one of the creditors, who became so after the execution of the deed, & was not a party to it, a cestui que trust, entitled to call on the trustee to execute the trusts of the deed.

A. executed a trust deed, appointing B. trustee for certain purposes therein stated, one of which was for the payment of creditors, & another was to raise a sum of money by way of mtge., in order to satisfy a claim for rent due in respect of A.'s lands, then about to be enforced by ejectment. B. obtained from C. an advance of money with which he satisfied that claim. B. afterwards gave to C. a letter, written subsequently to, but dated before the day of the advance, in which, appearing to ask for the advance, he said, "I will consider such advance as raised by me under the power given me, & will, whenever you please, exercise that power by securing such advance in the best manner I am empowered by the deed." 9321. Right to set-off under mutual dealings section of 1883 Act.]—By a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors it was provided that the trustee should apply the money received by him "in paying & discharging ratably, according to the law of bkpcy. & without prejudice or priority, & by such dividends as he shall think fit, the debts due or to become due from debtor to the creditors" :—Held : the words "according to the law of bkpcy." were only descriptive of a ratable payment without prejudice or priority, & by a series of dividends, & did not import into the distribution of the money the obligation to allow a set-off under the mutual dealings sect. of 1883 Act to a person who had not signified his assent to the deed.—BAKER v. ADAM (1910), 102 L. 9322. Judgment obtained after assignment—Whether entitled to payment in full.]—A creditor, who obtains judgment after debtor has made a conveyance of his estate for payment of his debts, shall be paid only in average.—STEPHENSON v. HAYWARD (1710), Prec. Ch. 310 ; 24 E. R. 147.

9316 i. Right to file petition for adjudication—Notwithstanding resolutions for assignment.]—A creditor was present at a meeting, at which a resolution was passed, without dissent, that debtor should assign his estate to trustees, but did not vote at all, nor did he sign the deed of assignment :—Held : he had not disentitled himself to petition for a sequestration, treating the assignment as an act of insolvency.—Re WIEDEMAN (1879), 5 V. d. Right to recover on note given by purchaser of claim.]—A., a creditor in an insolvent estate, refused to sign a deed of composition. Thereafter he sold his claim against the estate to B., another creditor, obtaining from B. a promissory note therefor. B. subsequently signed the deed of composition in respect not only of his own claim, but also of the one he had purchased. A. did not sign the deed, which was duly accepted by all the creditors :—Held : in the absence of proof of mala fides, A. was entitled to sue B. on the promissory note.—ELEPHANT TRADING CO. v. GETZ (1916), T. 9323. To whom made—All creditors.]—In order to render a composition after bkpcy. made under 1849 Act, s. 230, & accepted by nine-tenths in number & value of the creditors, binding on those creditors who have not executed it, the offer of composition must be made to all the creditors, & not to those only who execute the deed.—TAYLOR v. PEARSE (1857), 2 H. & N. 36; 26 L. 9324. Necessity for equality between assenting & non-assenting creditors.]—To render an assignment of debtor's estate binding under 1861 Act, s. 192, on the minority creditors who have not executed nor assented to it, nor approved of it, it is necessary that they should stand under the deed in the same situation & with the same advantages as the creditors forming the majority.—Re SMITH & LAXTON, Ex p. COCKBURN (1863), 3 De G. 9326. —— —— Creditors exceeding their power.]—If a composition deed is within 1861 Act, s. 192, the ct. will not overrule the decision of a statutable majority of the creditors as to the reasonableness of its clauses, but where the creditors have stepped beyond the powers given by the Act, the deed will not be valid so as to bind non-assenting creditors.—WIGFIELD v. NICHOLSON (1868), L. 9329. —— Unreasonable provisions not affecting non-assenting creditors.]—To an action by a non-assenting creditor, debtor pleaded a deed under 1861 Act, containing an unreasonable provision. The plea averred facts showing that at the time of the registration of the deed, the unreasonable provision could have no operation against non-assenting creditors:—Held: a bad plea, notwithstanding the averment.—OLDIS v. ARMSTON (1867), L. 9327 i. Whether must provide for cash payment—Whether by bill of exchange.]—Semble: the offer must be of a composition by a money payment, & not by bills of exchange.—Re FAHY (1861), 14 Ir. Jur. 46.—IR.

9327 ii. —— Cash in præsenti.]—In a composition after bkpcy., made under 12 & 13 Vict. c. 106, s. 230, the offer of a money payment in præsenti is not requisite; a composition to be paid at postponed & definite periods, the postponed payments to be secured by bill or other securities, is sufficient.—R. v. KELLY (1861), 13 Ir. Jur. 258.—IR.

9328 i. Must be reasonable.]—An assignment in trust for creditors made to a person not a creditor, contained a provision empowering the assignee, without consulting the creditors, to carry on & wind up the business, no time being stated therefor, to pay all salaries, wages, etc., & advances made for conducting the business in the winding up thereof, which advances he was authorised to make, & also to sell the land as to him should seem meet, & to retain a reasonable compensation for the execution of the trusts:—Held: void, as containing provisions to which creditors could not reasonably be required to agree.—GALLAGHER v. GLASS (1882), 32 C. P. 641.—CAN.

9328 ii. ——.]—A deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors provided for payment of certain creditors in full & for a distribution of any remaining assets among unpreferred creditors in proportion to their claims. There was a further provision that all executing creditors should release the assignor from any claim of such creditors:—Held: the deed was void, as it imposed terms on unpreferred creditors to which it was unreasonable to expect them to assent.—WHITMAN v. UNION BANK OF HALIFAX (1888), 16 S. 9333. —— —— Deed granted out of kindness to debtor.]—The power given by 1861 Act, s. 192, enabling the majority of creditors assenting to a deed of arrangement to bind the non-assenting minority, is a statutory power, & must be exercised bonâ fide for the benefit of all the creditors. If the majority of creditors are induced by friendly feelings towards debtor to accept a composition greatly disproportioned to the assets, the ct. will hold the deed not to be binding on a non-assenting creditor, & will give him leave to issue execution on his debt under s. 198 ; but if the assenting majority appear to have exercised their discretion bonâ fide for the benefit of the creditors, the ct. will not sit in review on the quantum of the composition. —Re COWEN, Ex p. COWEN (1867), 2 Ch. 9334. —— —— ——.]—An officer in the army, who was under an engagement with a judgment creditor to pay the debt out of the money to arise from the sale or exchange of his commission, retired on half-pay, &, on being arrested by the judgment creditor, executed an arrangement deed, assented to by the requisite majority of his creditors, by which he bound himself to pay them a composition of 10*s.* in the pound. At that time he had money in hand a little more than sufficient to pay the composition on his debts, which debts amounted to about £3,000, & his half-pay was, at least, £150 a year. No meeting of creditors was held, nor was it shown that the assenting creditors had investigated debtor's affairs :—Held : it was to be inferred that the assenting creditors had not exercised a discretion, with a view to their own pecuniary interests, as to whether the composition was fair, but had acted from some motive leading them to favour debtor, & the deed was invalid as against a dissenting creditor.—Re DEACON, Ex p. DEACON (1868), 4 Ch. 9351. No cessio bonorum.]—To an action on a promissory note, deft. pleaded, by way of equitable defence, that, after the accruing of pltf.'s claim, he was indebted to pltf. & other persons, & that a deed was made & entered into by & between deft. of the one part, & the several persons being creditors of deft. who should execute same of the other part, relating to the debts & liabilities of deft. & his release therefrom. The deed was set out in the plea, & after reciting that deft., being unable to pay his debts in full, had applied to his several creditors to receive a composition of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, it went on as follows: "which we, the several creditors signing these presents, have agreed to do, & being a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of the creditors of [deft.] whose debts respectively amount to £10 & upwards, have agreed to accept such composition as aforesaid, & in consideration thereof, & on payment thereof, or whenever thereafter called upon for the purpose, hereby severally undertake & agree to execute to [deft.] a good & sufficient release in the law of our several & respective claims & demands upon him." The plea then averred that a majority representing three-fourths in value of the creditors of deft., whose debts respectively amounted to £10 & upwards, did in writing assent to & approve of the execution of the deed, that the deed was duly registered, & that pltf. was bound thereby as if he had been a party thereto, & had duly executed same:—Held: pltf., though a non-assenting creditor, was barred by the deed from maintaining his action, as the deed was a valid deed within 1861 Act, s. 192, & it was not necessary to the validity of a composition deed that there should be any cessio bonorum.—CLAPHAM v. ATKINSON (1864), 4 B. & S. 730; 4 New Rep. 379; 34 L. 9359. —— Sureties agreeing to creditor executing & becoming bound.]—Action by indorsee against acceptor of a bill of exchange. Plea, a composition deed registered under 1861 Act. The deed contained no reservation of rights against sureties. Replication, that the bill was accepted for value & indorsed to pltf. for value, & that if he had assented to the deed he would have discharged the drawers. Rejoinder, that before the registration of the deed the drawers consented to pltf. executing & becoming bound by the deed. The issue upon the rejoinder having been found for deft. :—Held : as by reason of such consent pltf. might have come in for the composition & have held the drawers liable for the balance, he was in the same position as if the right to have recourse to the drawers had been reserved to him in the deed, & was bound by it.—POOLE v. WILLATS (1869), L. 9381. Power to inspectors to retain dividends for non-acceding creditors—Right to non-acceding creditors to prove but not to disturb dividends.]—A deed of arrangement under 1849 Act, s. 224, is not invalid, because it contains a discretionary power in the inspectors to retain the dividend which would be payable to a creditor, who at the declaration of the dividend has not acceded to the deed, such creditor being at liberty to prove so as to have a dividend out of existing or future funds, but so as not to disturb the former dividend.—IRVING v. GRAY (1858), 3 H. & N. 34 ; 27 L. 9382. —— Right to pay such dividends before any subsequent dividends to other creditors.]—A deed of inspectorship, under 1861 Act, is not invalid, because it contains a provision that, in case any dividend shall be made before all the creditors shall have executed or assented to the deed, the inspectors may set apart a sufficient sum for the purpose of paying like rateable dividends to such last-mentioned creditors, & also to creditors, the dividend on whose debt has not been ascertained, & in case no such sum be so set apart, they may direct that out of the first money applicable to a dividend, the dividend payable to the last-mentioned creditors shall be paid or set apart for them, before any further dividend be made among the creditors who have executed or assented to the deed.—STRICK v. DE MATTOS (1864), 3 H. & C. 22 ; 4 New Rep. 368 ; 33 L. 9383. —— Right to pay such dividends on written request.]—A deed of inspectorship, purporting to be made under 1861 Act, s. 192, contained the following clause :—" Provided always that in case any dividend shall be declared before all the creditors shall have executed or assented to these presents, or before the amount of dividends payable on all their respective debts shall have been ascertained, the inspectors shall retain sufficient sums for the purpose of paying a like rateable dividend to any creditor or creditors who shall not have assented to or executed same, or the amount of dividend payable on whose debts shall not have been ascertained, & shall afterwards pay or cause to be paid such dividend to such creditor or creditors, upon his or their request in writing," etc. By the deed the dividends were made payable unconditionally, & no necessity was imposed upon assenting creditors of making a demand in writing for the payment of their dividends :—Held : no such inequality was created by the above clause between the two classes of creditors as would make the deed invalid.—HERNULEWICZ v. JAY (1865), 6 B. & S. 697 ; 6 New Rep. 257 ; 34 L. 9386. Provision for avoidance of deed—If sufficient creditors did not sign within given time.]—By a composition deed, reciting that the insolvent was indebted in certain sums to J. for rent, to the Crown for duties, to A. & B. upon judgment, & to the other creditors in the sums of money set opposite their names in the schedule, the insolvent bargained & sold to trustees all his leasehold messuages, subject to certain mtges., & all his personal estate whatsoever, upon trust to carry on a brewing & malting business for the benefit of the creditors, & to collect outstanding debts, & to sell his farming stock, & out of the money arising from the sale of any part of the estate that should be mortgaged, to satisfy the mtge., & to stand possessed of the residue upon trust to pay J. the rent due to him, the duties due to the Crown, the rent which was, or thereafter should become due for any of the premises assigned, the interest upon the mtges., then the judgment debt due to A. & B., then to pay all the creditors whose debts did not amount to £10 in full, & at the expiration of nine months to pay all the other creditors the amount of 5*s.* in the pound. There was a covenant by the creditors that they would release their respective claims to the insolvent. The indenture contained a proviso that, in case any creditor whose debt should amount to £100, or any two creditors whose debts should amount to £150 should not execute within three calendar months, the deed should be void. A. & B., the judgment creditors, whose debt exceeded £150, did not execute the deed within the time required:—Held: the deed was not thereby rendered void, the intention manifestly being that those creditors only who were to receive a composition under the deed were to execute it.—WELLS v. GREENHILL (1822), 5 B. & Ald. 869; 1 Dow. & Ry. K. B. 493; 106 E. R. 1409.

9387. —— ——.]—A deed provided that it should "cease, determine & be void," if all the creditors to a certain amount did not execute it within six months. The deed was executed by debtor, who received a certificate:—Held: the deed was not void, but voidable only.—DUNN v. WYMAN (1881), 51 L. J. Q. B. 623.

9388. —— Power given to inspectors—Power to grant certificate of conformity.]—A deed of arrangement under 1849 Act, s. 224, is not invalid, because it contains a power to the inspectors to avoid the deed in certain events at the end of three months from its date, excepting from the avoidance all acts, proceedings, conveyances, assurances, assignments, matters & things done under & by virtue of it, there being also a power to the inspectors at any time after the date of the deed to grant a certificate of conformity as in bkpcy. to all or either of several debtors.—IRVING v. GRAY (1858), 3 H. & N. 34; 27 L. 9389. Power to trustee to postpone sale—To grant lease of unsold property—To sell on credit.]—A deed of assignment under 1861 Act, contained a clause giving the trustee a discretion to postpone the sale of all or any part of the real estate of debtor, & to lease such unsold portion from year to year or for a term for such rent as he might think fit, & to give credit for the whole or any part of the purchase money, either with or without taking security for same:—Held: the provision was a reasonable one.—COLES v. TURNER (1866), L. 9390. Provision enabling creditors to bring actions with consent of inspectors—To receive dividends on amount recovered.]—A composition deed made in alleged pursuance of 1849 Act, s. 224, contained a clause enabling any creditor, by leave of the inspectors, to bring an action, & in case of success to receive dividends upon the amount recovered:—Held: inequality was produced in respect of the possible misapplication of the assets in payment of the costs of such creditors as might by leave of the inspectors bring actions & recover judgment, & the deed was not valid.—GARDNER v. CHAPMAN (1860), 8 C. 9391. Provision of forfeiture of claim if action brought against debtor.]—To an action against them as the acceptors of a bill of exchange, defts. pleaded a plea founded upon a deed of arrangement made by defts. with their creditors, under 1849 Act, s. 224, which had not been signed by pltf., but which was said on the part of defts. to be nevertheless binding on him by reason of its being executed by six-sevenths in number & value of their creditors. The instrument was not a composition-deed, but it contained a clause by which each of the creditors parties to or bound by the deed covenanted not to sue, impede, or molest defts. & then followed another clause, to the effect, that, if any creditor by whom or on whose behalf the deed should have been actually executed, should act contrary to that covenant, defts. should be absolutely discharged from all claims & demands both at law & in equity, by such creditor:—Held: this latter clause was not binding upon pltf. it being in its nature merely personal to the individual creditors who chose to sign the deed, & inapplicable to the creditors in general.—LEGG v. CHEESEBROUGH (1859), 5 C. 9392. ——.] A composition deed made in alleged pursuance of 1849 Act, s. 224, contained a clause which was to operate to defeat any action brought by a creditor, whether one who had executed the deed or not, by making the bringing of such action ipso facto a release & forfeiture of the debt:—Held: the operation of the clause was to establish inequality.—GARDNER v. CHAPMAN (1860), 8 C. B. N. S. 317; 29 L. J. C. P. 281; 6 Jur. N. S. 1254; 141 E. R. 1189.

9386 i. Provision for abandonment of assignment.]—A creditor's deed provided that if the assignment should become inoperative, or if any property thereby conveyed, or intended so to be, should not have been effectually assigned thereby, the parties might abandon it. An attempted sale in execution of the trusts failed, from inability of the trustees to make out title:—Held: the proviso contemplated an act by some stranger thereafter, & not a defect inherent in the deed itself.—DUDGEON v. O'CONNELL (1849), 12 I. 9404. —— Beyond funds of estate.]—A composition deed between partners, who carried on business as engineers, & their creditors, assigned the partnership & their separate estates to trustees for the benefit of the creditors, with power to them to postpone the sale & conversion of the premises assigned, & to employ all or any part of the joint estate, & to carry on the business for such period as they should think fit, & to make advances out of the joint estate or the proceeds thereof, & to employ the partners, or either of them, to assist in carrying on the business, & it was declared that the trustees should be indemnified out of the joint & separate estate of the creditors, in proportion to the amount of their respective debts, against all transactions & personal engagements, matters & things which they should lawfully do, enter into, or order in or concerning the management or conduct of the business :—Held: the indemnity clause imposed a personal liability on non-assenting creditors beyond the funds of the estate, & the deed was not within 1861 Act, s. 192.—WIGFIELD v. NICHOLSON (1868), L. R. 3 Q. B. 450; 9 B. & S. 261; 37 L. J. Q. B. 155; 18 L. T. 323.

9405. Releasing parties described as creditors who have executed deed—Deed executed by statutory number.]—A deed of arrangement under 1849 Act, s. 224, is not rendered void by the circumstances that the releasing parties are described to be " the parties hereto of the third part," viz., such of the creditors who have executed the deed, the deed appearing to have been executed by the statutory number required to make it a deed binding upon non-assenting creditors.—SPITZER v. CHAFFERS (1863), 14 C. j. Provision for determination of debtor's life interest in assigned property.]—By a deed between A. & some of his execution creditors, A.'s life interest in funds was assigned, upon trust for A. himself until bkpt. or insolvent, or until he should attempt to assign his interest, or until any creditor should endeavour to have the dividends or interest of the funds applied in satisfaction of his debt, but in any such event, on trusts for the benefit of the creditors. B., a judgment creditor of A., not a party to such arrangement, afterwards obtained a charging order on A.'s interest in such funds, & filed a petition praying that the proviso for determining A.'s life interest might be declared void as against B. :—Held: the proviso was void as against B.—SYNGE v. SYNGE (1855), 4 I. Ch. R. 337; 7 Ir. Jur. 271. —IR.

9406 i. Covenant not to sue.]—The payee of a dishonoured note sued the indorser. The maker of the note was indebted to pltf. in a sum larger than the amount of the note. After dishonour the maker, on the suggestion of pltf., assigned for his creditors. The deed, which was not executed by pltf., did not reserve any rights against sureties, but provided that if the assets were not sufficient for payment of debts in full, the assignor should pay any balance due, & contained a clause " that nothing herein contained or implied shall operate as a discharge of the debts or any of them unless & until same shall be respectively paid in full " :—Held: the deed prevented pltf. from taking action against the assignor until realisation of the estate. —HATRICK v. NICOL (1910), 30 N. Z. L. R. 257.—N.Z.

9407. —— Power to revoke letter of licence.]—A covenant in a composition deed not to sue debtor for a limited time is not unreasonable, neither is a power to revoke a letter of licence.—WALKER v. NEVILL (1865), 3 H. & C. 403 ; 34 L. 9412. —— By statutory declaration—Or as provided by bankruptcy laws.]—A proviso, in a deed of assignment for the benefit of creditors, that the trustees might, " if they should think fit, require any person claiming to be a creditor to prove his debt by statutory declaration, or otherwise in such manner as is required by the law of bkpcy. " :—Held : a fair & reasonable provision.—Re WYATT, Ex p. WYATT (1864), 10 L. T. 311 ; sub nom. Re WYATT, Ex p. SMITH, 12 W. R. 692.

9413. —— —— Or as trustee should think fit.]—A stipulation in a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, that it shall be lawful for the trustees to require any person or persons claiming to be a creditor or creditors of debtor to verify the nature & amount of such debt or claim, with full particulars showing the consideration thereof, by statutory declaration before the comrs., or otherwise as the trustee or trustees may think fit, is unreasonable, & renders the deed inoperative as against a non-assenting creditor.—BROMPTON WATERWORKS CO. v. JENNINGS (1865), 19 C. B. N. S. 149 ; 144 E. R. 743.

9414. —— —— ——.]—A deed of assignment under 1861 Act, contained a clause giving power to the trustee to require persons claiming to be creditors to verify their debts or claims " by statutory declaration proved before the comrs., or otherwise as the trustee might think fit " :—Held : there was nothing unreasonable in the provision, as the trustee must in some way or other ascertain whether or not the party claiming was really a creditor, & claimant might appeal to a ct. of equity or to the Ct. of Bkpcy. if his claim was improperly rejected.—COLES v. TURNER (1866), L. 9429. Provision giving surety certain advantages.]—A deed made between deft. of the first part, E. of the second part, & L. of the third part, E. & the several other persons whose names & seals were thereunto set, or who in writing had assented to or approved of the deed, of the fourth part, & the several persons named in the second schedule of the fifth part, after reciting that deft. was possessed of or entitled to certain personal property, & was indebted to E. & the several other persons parties thereto of the fourth part, & to the persons parties thereto of the fifth part, in the sums mentioned & set opposite to their names in the first & second schedules respectively, that an arrangement had been made that all the creditors should take in full discharge of their respective debts a composition of 10*s.* in the pound by two instalments of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound & 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, that it was, at the request of E., agreed that the personal estate should remain under the control & disposal of deft., that E., at the request of deft., in consideration, etc., agreed to enter into the covenants thereinafter contained, & that it was agreed that the deed should contain the release & other provisos thereinafter appearing, witnessed that, in consideration of the premises, deft. & E. covenanted with L. to pay him, on registration of the deed, such sum as should be sufficient to pay to all the creditors 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on the amount of their respective debts, provided that as regarded the liabilities under the covenants, the separate liability of E. should be treated as being in priority to the joint & several liabilities of him & deft., & also to the separate liability of deft., & deft. & E. covenanted with L. that they would, before the expiration of twelve months from the date of the deed, pay to L. such sum as should be sufficient to pay the remaining instalment of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound to all the creditors, other than E., & deft. covenanted with E. to pay him on the registration of the deed, & on or before the expiration of the twelve months from the date, the instalments of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound & 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound respectively, & it was declared that L. should stand possessed of the sums to be paid in respect of the instalments upon trust, after the registration of the deed, upon demand in writing by E. & the other persons creditors of deft., to pay E. & the other persons the instalment of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound & after the expiration of twelve months after the date of the deed upon such demand, to pay the creditors the remaining instalment of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, & E. & the persons parties thereto of the fourth part released deft. from all debts & demands which the parties of the second & fourth parts had against him. The plea setting out the deed as above then averred that a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of the creditors of deft., whose debts respectively amounted to £10 & upwards, had in writing assented to & approved of the deed :—Held : the deed was a valid deed within 1861 Act, s. 192, as (1) it did not enable E. to receive a larger dividend than the other creditors ; (2) (COCKBURN, C.J., dub.), it did not give such an advantage to E. in respect of the recovery of his instalment as to make the deed void.—WELLS v. HACON (1864), 5 B. & S. 196 ; 4 New Rep. 99 ; 33 L. 9430. —— Purchase of suretyship—Right to recover compositions paid in advance.]—By a deed with the requisite consents, etc., under 1861 Act, between debtor of the first part, P., a creditor, of the second part, & the other creditors of the third part, debtor covenanted to pay P. a composition of 5*s.* in the pound by two equal instalments at four & twelve months, & debtor & P., as surety, each covenanted with the other creditors to pay them a composition of 5*s.* in the pound on their respective debts by two instalments as above. Debtor assigned all his effects to P., upon trust to apply the proceeds towards the payment of the above composition, & afterwards towards payment of the remaining 15*s.* in the pound of P.'s debt, it being stipulated that P. should have the advantage of such security for the remainder of his debt in consideration of his undertaking the liability of suretyship, & should stand possessed of the surplus, if any, in trust for debtor. It was also agreed that if P., as such surety, should arrange with any creditor to make an immediate payment of the composition payable to him with a deduction by way of discount, P. should be at liberty to repay himself out of the trust money the whole amount of the composition payable to such creditor. In consideration of the premises, the parties of the second & third parts released their respective debts :—Held : the deed was valid & binding on non-assenting creditors under s. 192, for there was no such inequality in favour of P. as vitiated the deed, as the purchase of his suretyship must be taken to be an advantageous bargain for the creditors at large, & the clause as to payment in advance was not objectionable, as it must be assumed that P. would only avail himself of it when he could do so consistently with carrying out the trusts.—BISSELL v. JONES (1868), L. 9461. —— Composition to be considered due within ten days from assent.]—A deed of composition, purporting to be made between debtor & the whole of his creditors, contained a covenant to pay each creditor 10*s.* in the pound, with a proviso that, "in case any creditors should not at the date of the deed assent to it, the composition should be considered to become due to them within ten days from their assent being received or left at debtor's abode":—Held: the deed, by reason of such proviso, was not binding on non-assenting creditors, & the proviso could not be rejected.—ARMITAGE v. BAKER (1864), 10 L. T. 526.

9462. —— Composition payable on creditors executing deed.]—A deed of composition made between "the several persons whose names were subscribed & seals affixed in the schedule, being creditors of T., of the first part, & T. of the second part," recited that debtor was indebted to the several persons parties thereto of the first part, in the sums set opposite their respective names, & had agreed to pay a composition of 6s. in the pound, "such payment or composition to be made & paid to all & every the creditors of debtor upon their executing this deed," & witnessed that, in consideration of the payment by debtor to the several creditors of such composition the parties of the first part released debtor:—Held: a void deed, as excluding non-assenting creditors from all benefits under it, notwithstanding all the formalities prescribed by 1861 Act, s. 192, had been duly observed.—KILLBY v. WRIGHT (1865), 18 C. B. N. S. 272; 144 E. R. 447.

9463. —— ——.]—A composition deed under 1861 Act, made between debtor of the first part, the undersigned J., one of his creditors, & also all his other undersigned creditors of the second part, recited that debtor was unable to pay his several creditors the full sum of 20*s.* in the pound, but was able & willing to pay each & all of them, on signing the deed, the composition of 5*s.* in the pound, & that debtor had applied to the several parties thereto of the second part to receive & take the composition of 5*s.* in the pound, payable on signing the deed, in full satisfaction & discharge of their several & respective debts, which the parties of the second part had agreed to accept in full satisfaction, & discharge as aforesaid, & in consideration thereof thereby respectively released debtor:—Held: the deed was not binding on non-assenting creditors, since the composition was only payable on signing the deed, & the creditors who signed were in a better position than those who dissented.—MARTIN v. GRIBBLE (1865), 3 H. & C. 631; 6 New Rep. 176; 34 L. 9466. —— Agreement with executing creditors—On behalf of themselves & other creditors—Letter of licence—Absolute release.]—A deed of composition, made between debtor of the first part, & the creditors who execute or approve of same, " on behalf of themselves & all & every the creditors of debtor," of the second part, which provides for payment, within six months after registration, of a composition of 1*s.* in the pound, & which contains also a letter of licence to debtor for a period of twelve months, & an absolute release by the creditors of their claims, is invalid as against a dissenting creditor.—Re COBB, Ex p. FAIRFAX & BRYSON (1866), 14 W. R. 289.

9467. —— No provision for tender or notice to non-executing creditors.]—A composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, made between debtor of the first part, a trustee of the second part, & the creditors named in the schedule of the third part, after reciting that debtor proposed to pay all his creditors a composition by giving them promissory notes, & that such promissory notes had been deposited with the trustee to deliver to the non-executing & non-assenting creditors, witnessed that in consideration of the premises each of the creditors who executed or assented to or were bound by the deed released debtor :—Held : the deed was not bad on the ground of inequality among the creditors, by reason of its containing no provision making it obligatory on the trustee to tender the promissory notes or give notice of the deed to non-assenting creditors.—BLUMBERG v. ROSE (1866), L. R. 1 Exch. 232 ; 4 H. & C. 311 ; 35 L. J. Ex. 144 ; 14 L. T. 365 ; 12 Jur. N. S. 378 ; 14 W. R. 657.

9468. —— Deed capable of being construed to include all creditors.]—J., in June, 1861, under 1849 Act, s. 68, assigned all his personal estate to three trustees, upon trust, after payment of rent, taxes, etc., & expenses, to pay the cost of any creditor who might commence legal proceedings, & to divide the residue amongst such of his creditors as should, within three calendar months from the date, assent to the deed ; & it was thereby declared that, in case any creditors should not assent within three calendar months, then the assignor should stand in the place of the same creditors, & should have the same benefit, by way of dividend, as the creditors themselves would have been entitled to have :—Held : this was a valid assignment of all the assignor's effects in favour of all his creditors, although some of them might not have come in & proved under it.—HARRIS v. PETTIT (1862), 31 L. J. Ch. 552 ; 6 L. T. 572 ; 9 Jur. N. S. 68 ; 10 W. R. 599.

9469. —— —— Express words to include not necessary.] — A deed of composition between debtor of the first part, & the several creditors whose names were subscribed, " on behalf of themselves & all & every other the creditors," of the second part, professed to be a deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, & to secure the payment of a composition to all the creditors, & contained a covenant " with each & every of the creditors " to pay the composition, & a release by the parties of the second part :—Held : the deed was not void, on the ground of inequality, as it might be construed as making all the creditors parties, & capable of enforcing the covenant. Semble : where creditors not executing or assenting to the deed are excluded, the deed is invalid, but the absence of express words to include all creditors does not necessarily render the deed bad.—M'LAREN v. BAXTER (1867), L. 9470. —— —— Agreement with all creditors.]—To an action on a promissory note, deft. pleaded, by way of equitable defence, that, after the accruing of pltf.'s claim, he was indebted to pltf. & other persons, & that a deed was made & entered into by & between deft. of the one part, & the several persons being creditors of deft. who should execute the same of the other part, relating to the debts & liabilities of deft. & his release therefrom. The deed was set out in the plea, & after reciting that deft., being unable to pay his debts in full, had applied to his several creditors to receive a composition of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, it went on as follows : " which we, the several creditors signing these presents, have agreed to do, & being a majority in number representing three-fourths in value of the creditors of [deft.] whose debts respectively amount to £10 & upwards, have agreed to accept such composition as aforesaid, & in consideration thereof, & on payment thereof, or whenever thereafter called upon for the purpose, hereby severally undertake & agree to execute to [deft.] a good & sufficient release in the law of our several & respective claims & demands upon him." The plea then averred that a majority representing three-fourths in value of the creditors of deft., whose debts respectively amounted to £10 & upwards, did in writing assent to & approve of the execution of the deed, that the deed was duly registered, & that pltf. was bound thereby, as if he had been a party thereto, & had duly executed same :—Held : pltf., though a non-assenting creditor, was barred by the deed from maintaining his action, for the deed was a valid deed within 1861 Act, s. 192, as it sufficiently showed that it was intended to be an arrangement between debtor & the whole body of his creditors, as all had the option of coming in & signing it.—CLAPHAM v. ATKINSON (1864), 4 B. & S. 730 ; 4 New Rep. 379 ; 34 L. 9486. —— Costs awarded to debtor of arranging debtor—Less than amount of debt.]—An adjudication in bkpcy. obtained by D. against C. was set aside, & D. was ordered to pay C. his costs, for which, if not paid when taxed, C. was to be at liberty to issue execution. D. then executed an assignment to trustees for his creditors in the form of 1861 Act, Sched. D. The costs were afterwards taxed. C., at the date of the deed, owed D. a sum exceeding the amount of the taxed costs. If C., who had not acceded to the deed, was reckoned as a creditor of D. for the amount of taxed costs, the deed was not assented to by the requisite majority of creditors:—Held: C. ought to be allowed to issue execution for the costs, for if he was, in respect of those costs, a creditor of D. within 1861 Act, s. 192, the deed was not assented to by the majority requisite to bind non-assenting creditors, & if he was not such a creditor, the deed did not apply to his claim, so that in neither view could he be affected by the deed.—Re DAVIES, Ex p. CLELAND (1867), 2 Ch. C. did not know of the existence of the deed, & was, for about eighteen months after his judgment, unable to find A., but he at length took proceedings in outlawry against him without obtaining leave of the Ct. of Bkpcy. By direction of a judge in chambers, a special case was submitted to the Ct. of Common Pleas, upon argument of which judgment was given for debtor. C. then applied in bkpcy. for leave to issue execution in the arrangement matter. Pending the arrangement proceedings, he, on Feb. 15, obtained a judgment in an action against debtor, for a portion of the debt returned on the sched., &, on Feb. 20, registered the judgment as a statutable mtge. against lands of debtor. In Apr., debtor duly lodged his composition notes, including composition notes on the whole debt due to S.:—Held: the creditor was not barred from realising his demand under the judgment mtge. by the statutable operation of the arrangement proceeding.—Re ROONEY'S ESTATE (1874), 8 I. 9488. —— Creditor throughout insisting on invalidity of deed—Delay in impeaching same.]—A creditor obtained judgment against his debtor on Aug. 1, 1868. On the same day debtor executed a deed of composition with his creditors, whereby he assigned all his property to a trustee by way of security for payment of the composition. The deed was registered under 1861 Act, s. 192. The creditor refused to assent to the deed, & proceeded to sue out execution, but the sheriff interpleaded, & the issue was tried between the creditor & the trustee of the deed. The Ct. of Exch. decided, on Jan. 23, 1869, (1) the deed was invalid as a trust deed under the above sect., as the requisite number of assents had not been obtained ; (2) it operated at law as an assignment of debtor's property to the trustee, & the issue must be decided against the creditor. The creditor, without further delay, proceeded to examine debtor in bkpcy. in order to impeach the deed, & on Apr. 6 applied under s. 198 for leave to issue execution notwithstanding the deed :—Held : as the creditor had throughout the proceedings at law insisted on the invalidity of the deed, he had been guilty of no delay in not sooner impeaching the deed in bkpcy., & his application should be granted.—Re PRIOR, Ex p. OSENTON (1869), 4 Ch. App. 690 ; 20 L. T. 505 ; 17 W. R. 777, L. JJ.

9489. Grounds for refusing leave of court—Conduct of creditor—Delay.]—A composition deed contained covenants for debtor forthwith to deliver to his creditors bills of exchange, to be drawn by the creditors on, & to be accepted by debtor, & in default the deed to be void. The deed was executed on Apr. 21, 1865, & registered on May 16. On June 8, debtor's solr. wrote to inform A., a judgment creditor, that the acceptances were ready, &, the first bill becoming due on Oct. 24, tender of it & cash to the amount was made to A., but was refused by him. In Nov., 1866, he obtained leave, under 1861 Act, s. 198, from the Ct. of Bkpcy. to issue execution on his judgment against debtor, on the ground, mainly, that the bills had not been delivered "forthwith." In July A. had impeached the deed on other grounds, & had in the Ct. of Bkpcy. examined two of the creditors in support of his case :—Held : the order of the comr. must be discharged, on the ground that the conduct of the creditor & his delay had been such that a ct. of equity ought not to exercise its discretion in granting the application. —Re SULLIVAN, Ex p. SULLIVAN (1866), 36 L. 9490. —— Deed not ex facie void—Inquiry ordered.]—Debtor, by deed, registered on Nov. 2, 1866, under 1861 Act, s. 192, covenanted to pay his creditors 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound within two months from the registration, & the creditors released their debts, subject to a proviso for avoiding the deed on default in payment of the composition. Default was made, & on Jan. 3, 1867, a similar deed was registered, with the assent of the requisite majority of creditors, by which debtor covenanted for payment of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound within seven days after the expiration of four months. A non-assenting judgment creditor applied for leave to issue execution, on the ground that the deed was unreasonable, as the composition, having regard to the state of debtor's affairs, was unreasonably small, & as the second deed provided for payment only of the same composition as the first deed, after a longer time, & without any additional security. The comr. gave leave to issue execution : —Held : as the deed was not ex facie void, the circumstance that it had been immediately preceded by the other deed being not decisive against its validity, but only a circumstance rendering strict investigation proper, the order for leave to issue execution ought to be discharged, & the case remitted to the comr. for further investigation.—Re ROOTS, Ex p. ROOTS (1867), 2 Ch. App. 559 ; 36 L. J. Bcy. 38 ; 15 W. R. 728, L. JJ.

9491. —— Void clause in deed—Clause instructing trustee to sell to debtor.]—At a general meeting of creditors of debtor, who had filed a liquidation petition, a resolution was passed agreeing to the liquidation. A trustee was appointed, & a resolution was passed instructing the trustee to sell the estate to debtor at such a price as would pay to the creditors a composition of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound & the costs of the liquidation proceedings. A second meeting of creditors was held confirming the resolution. On an application to restrain a creditor, who was not a party to the proceedings, from enforcing an execution against debtor :—Held : the clause instructing the trustee to sell the estate to debtor was void, but the rest of the resolutions must be carried out, & the liquidation proceed in the ordinary course, & the creditor must be restrained from enforcing his judgment.—Re DUGDALE, Ex p. DUGDALE (1877), 36 L. 9492. Execution against garnishee.]—A deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, is a bar to an execution against a garnishee under an order made pursuant to C. L. P. Act, 1854 (c. 125), s. 63, to the same extent that it is a bar to an execution on a judgment.—KENT v. TOMKINSON (1867), L. R. 2 C. P. 502 ; 36 L. J. C. P. 224 ; 17 L. T. 41.

9493. Execution before registration of extraordinary resolutions—Whether estoppel by silence at meeting.]—A non-assenting creditor of a compounding debtor under 1869 Act, s. 126, against whom no equity can be raised by reason of his personal conduct, can acquire a valid security for his debt by levying an execution on debtor's goods at any time before the registration of the extraordinary resolution accepting the composition. The mere fact that a judgment creditor, who is entered in debtor's statement of affairs as having no security for his debts, is present in silence at the first meeting of the creditors, not proving his debt, or taking any other part in the proceedings, will not raise an equity against him so as to prevent his levying an execution on his judgment. & thus acquiring a valid security for his debt before the registration of an extraordinary resolution accepting a composition.—Re MCCOLLA, Ex p. MCLAREN (1881), 16 Ch. Secret agreement entered into with some creditors—In creditor's favour.]—Where a tradesman failing compounds, but makes an underhand agreement with some of his creditors to pay them the whole, this is a fraud on the other creditors, & a bill to compel them to perform the agreement will be dismissed.—CHILD v. DANBRIDGE (1688), 2 Vern. 71; 23 E. R. 655.

9500. —— ——.]—A declaration in covenant stated that, by an indenture made between the several persons whose names & seals were thereunto subscribed & affixed, & who were creditors of pltf. of the first part, pltf. of the second part, & M. of the third part, it was recited that pltf. was indebted to the persons of the first part, in sums secured by bills of exchange accepted by pltf., &, being unable to pay his debts, he had agreed to give his creditors a composition of 5*s.* in the pound, to be guaranteed by bills drawn by M. upon & accepted by pltf., & that such composition bills of exchange had been given, & that by the indenture, such of the creditors to whom pltf. might have given, or who might be holders of bills of exchange of pltf., did covenant with pltf. that they would indemnify him against & in respect of such bills, & all actions, losses, etc., by reason thereof. Averments, that deft. did, as such creditor, subscribe his name & affix his seal to the indenture, & that, at that time, pltf. was indebted to deft. & his partner in an amount secured by two bills of exchange accepted by pltf., & which were then outstanding, that, when the bills became due, the holder sued pltf. for their amount, &, in order to stay the action, he paid a large sum of money. Breach, that deft. did not indemnify pltf. Plea, that, before deft. executed the indenture, pltf. was indebted to him & his partner & the other persons creditors & parties to the indenture of the first part, & pltf. being unable to pay deft. & his partner & the creditors their debts in full, offered to deliver to each of them a composition bill upon the terms & conditions in the indenture mentioned, provided they would execute the indenture, & thereupon pltf. represented to the other creditors that deft. & his partner had agreed to accept the composition bills for the same proportionate amount, & upon the same terms & under the same conditions as the other creditors, & that, upon the faith of such representations, the other creditors were induced to execute the indenture, whereas in truth & in fact, at the time such representations were made it was agreed between pltf. & deft. & his partner, that pltf. should pay deft. & his partner the full price of certain goods before then sold & delivered by deft. & his partner to pltf., & which formed part of the sum due from pltf. to deft. & his partner, & that pltf. would further pay in cash to deft. & his partner 5*s.* in the pound upon the whole amount due from pltf. to them, in lieu of delivering to them composition bills, & that, for the purpose of inducing the other creditors to believe that the representations were true, deft. should, for himself & his partner, make & execute the indenture, which agreement was, at the time of the other creditors executing the indenture, unknown to them:—Held: the plea sufficiently stated that a fraud was intended to be committed by pltf. & deft. on the other creditors, & pltf. could not sue on the covenant, which was part of the same fraudulent executory agreement, & void as against the creditors, & deft. might set up such defence, although a party to the fraud.—HIGGINS v. PITT (1849), 4 Exch. 312; 18 L. The declaration also averred the execution of such assignment by pltf. & a realisation by defts. of the estate & effects, & assigned for breach the non-payment of the £50 :—Held : the declaration disclosed a transaction which was a fraud on the other creditors of pltf. who were not parties to it, & was bad even after verdict.—BLACKLOCK v. DOBIE (1876), 1 C. 9504 i. Deed containing covenant not to sue—Provision that deed pleadable in bar to action.]—Pltf. sued deft., on an adjusted account. Later deft. executed a deed, whereby he assigned all his property to pltf. & other persons as trustees for the payment of his creditors. The deed contained no release & no agreement by the creditors to take less than the full amount of their debts. It declared that the agreement for the payment of the debts was accepted by the creditors, & that, upon payment to the creditors, respectively, of the amount of their respective claims, it might be pleaded in bar to any claim in respect thereof ; & the creditors covenanted with debtor, that they would not, if debtor should pay the debts due to the creditors, bring any action, or proceeding against him in respect of the debts due. Deft. pleaded the deed to pltf.'s suit :—Held : there had been a concluded agreement, which precluded pltf. from proceeding with his suit, & to allow him to proceed would be a fraud on other creditors.—GOKULDAS MUCCANJI v. VASSANJI JAIRAM (1894), I. 9504 ii. —— —— Conditional on payment within fixed time.]—A. procured his creditors to execute a deed of composition & discharge, whereby his creditors agreed to accept a composition on their respective debts, payable thirty days from the date of the deed. There was a covenant by A. to pay the composition to the several creditors on or before a fixed date, & by the creditors with A. not to sue for their several debts, & if A. should observe & perform the covenants, the creditors would release & deliver up the bills & notes, etc., held by them, & if any of the creditors should sue for their debts the deed might be pleaded in bar. A. did not pay his creditors within the time limited :—Held : the covenant not to sue in the deed of composition & discharge was not absolute, but merely conditional on payment being made within thirty days, & A. could not set up the covenant as a bar to an action.—ANDREWS v. BANK OF TORONTO (1888), 15 O. 9512. Deed containing no release.]—Deft., a trader, by a composition deed under 1861 Act, s. 192, made between himself & a trustee on behalf of & with the assent of undersigned creditors, conveyed to such trustee all his estate absolutely to be applied for the benefit of his creditors in like manner as if he had been at the date thereof duly adjudged bkpt., & the creditors assenting thereto thereby agreed to accept the sum of 5*s.* in the pound in discharge of their respective debts, to be paid within tweve months from the date of the deed. The deed was signed by the requisite number of creditors & all the other statutory requisites were complied with. In an action by pltf., a non-assenting creditor:—Held: the deed, though valid under the Act as a composition-deed, & available for all purposes in bkpcy., yet, as it contained no release in terms of debtor from his debts, was not pleadable in bar to the action, & did not operate as a statutable release in answer to pltf.'s claim.—IPSTONES PARK IRON ORE CO. v. PATTINSON (1864), 2 H. & C. 828; 3 New Rep. 514; 33 L. To a declaration in debt by non-assenting creditors, debtor pleaded the above deed, which had been entered into after the commencement of the suit, generally to the further maintenance of the action :—Held : the release contained in the deed discharged not only the debt sued for, but also all claims or demands arising therefrom by way of damages for its detention, costs, or otherwise, & the plea was rightly pleaded generally.—TETLEY v. WANLESS (1867), L. 9521. —— Where certain creditors postponed.]—To a declaration containing indebitatus counts, a plea setting up a release contained in a composition deed, which it alleges to be binding upon pltf. under 1861 Act, & by which certain specified creditors, not however including pltf., are postponed to the general body of creditors, is bad, if it does not allege that the creditors so postponed executed, or at least assented to the deed. Semble : where the persons so postponed are trustees, it is not sufficient for the plea to allege that some or one of them executed the deed, but it ought to show that all executed it.—CAIRNCROSS v. WILLS (1869), 38 L. J. Ex. 87 ; 20 L. T. 529.

9522. —— Creditor suing inducing others to compound—Must show that all or majority of creditors agreed.]—To a declaration on three bills of exchange, deft. pleaded that he was also indebted to E., & to certain other persons, in certain other sums of money, of which pltfs. had notice, & that afterwards, & before the bills became due, & whilst he was so indebted to E., & the other persons, he, deft., became insolvent, & unable to pay his debts, that thereupon, in consideration of the premises, & with the view & intention of inducing, & of enabling deft. to induce, the other creditors of deft., to accept & receive a composition of one moiety of their debts, & in consideration that deft. would pay to them, pltfs., half the amount of the bills, when same respectively became due, pltfs. agreed to accept a composition of one half of the amount of the bills as they became due, & that afterwards the agreement, so made & entered into by pltfs., was, by deft., with their knowledge, & by their direction, represented & made known to E., being such creditor as aforesaid, who thereupon, in consideration of the premises, & in faith of that agreement, was lured & induced to accept that composition, & that he, E., had not at any time since recovered or received, or sought to recover or receive, any greater or other sum than half the amount of his debt :—Held : the plea was bad, as it did not show that all or the great body of deft.'s creditors, had come into the arrangement, & agreed to take the composition.—REAY v. RICHARDSON (1835), 2 Cr. M. & R. 422 ; 1 Gale, 219 ; 5 Tyr. 931 ; 4 L. J. Ex. 236 ; 150 E. R. 182.

9519 i. —— Need not set out deed.]—Declaration, on a joint & several note made by defts. payable to pltf. Plea (by two defts.), that the note was made by them as sureties for other deft., with notice thereof to pltf., who took same upon the express agreement that they should be liable thereon only as sureties, that pltf., while holder of the note, without their knowledge or consent, after the accrual of the alleged claim, & before action, by deed released other deft. :—Held : if it was desired to rely on the release as valid at common law, it should have been accompanied with such averments as would have shown it to be operative, or it should not have been set out in haec verba, but its legal effect only should have been stated, & its efficacy left to be established by such facts as it was contended contributed thereto.—FOWLER v. PERRIN (1866), 16 C. P. 258.—CAN.

9520 i. —— Deed entered into after action begun.]—Pltf. brought an action on promissory notes. Deft. pleaded, & thereafter obtained from his creditors a deed of composition & discharge. Pltf. did not sign the deed. Later deft. added a plea, setting up the deed & acceptance of a composition, but did not plead the discharge puis darrein continuance. The cause was tried & a verdict found for pltf., but the jury acquitted deft. of the charge of fraud. Deft. then took a rule nisi to stay proceedings on the ground that the debt had been discharged :—Held : deft. could have pleaded the discharge puis darrein continuance.—HARRINGTON v. WITTER (1881), 2 R. & G. 183 ; 1 C. 9520 ii. —— Estoppel from setting up discharge as bar to execution.]—W. sued B., who thereafter assigned for benefit of creditors, & pleaded that since action commenced he duly assigned & by deed of composition executed by his creditors he was discharged of all liability, but he did not plead that such composition & discharge thereunder were confirmed by the ct. W. recovered judgment :—Held : B. was estopped from setting up his discharge to defeat an execution on the judgment.—WALLACE v. BOSSON (1878), 2 S. C. R. 488.—CAN.

9523. —— Provision for avoidance of deed if certain creditors did not sign.]—An agreement, whereby debtor undertook to convey his property to trustees for the benefit of his creditors, contained a proviso that "the agreement was to be void, unless the creditors, whose names & descriptions were stated on the other side of the agreement, should concur in the arrangement":—Held: this was not a condition precedent, the performance of which debtor was bound to aver on setting up the agreement as an answer to a action by one of his creditors.—MATHEWS v. TAYLOR (1841), 2 Man. & G. 667; 133 E. 9525. Composition deed executed in Scotland.]—In assumpsit on a bill of exchange against the acceptor, deft. pleaded that, after the accepting & after the time for payment, he, being resident in Scotland, & subject to the laws thereof, in consideration that certain supposed creditors should forbear to molest or sue him, made his deed or writing, duly stamped & attested according to the law of Scotland, by which he conveyed to J., & such persons as might thereafter be appointed trustees by the creditors, for the use of the creditors mentioned in the deed, & of other creditors whom the trustees should assume into the benefit of the disposition, all his movable estate in Scotland, in lieu & full satisfaction & discharge of all his debts owing to the creditors, that notice of the execution of the deed was given to certain supposed creditors in Scotland & England, including pltf., that pltf. by writing signed by him, & valid by the law of Scotland, appointed H. his attorney, to concur in & adopt the deed, & receive the dividends, that H. did adopt the deed, & its provisions on pltf.'s behalf, acted therein as pltf.'s authorised agent, took part in the management of the estates, etc., that other creditors, in consideration of the assignment, & the acceptance thereof by pltf., agreed to accept, & did accept, same, in full satisfaction of their debts, that funds of deft. had since become available under the deed for the benefit of the creditors, sufficient to pay the debts of deft., including that to pltf., & that all the proceedings were pursuant to the laws of Scotland, whereby, & by reason of the premises, & by the aforesaid laws, deft. had become absolutely discharged from the causes of action stated in the declaration:—Held: (1) assuming that the allegations in the plea respecting the law of Scotland could be rejected, & the plea be construed as setting up a defence according to the law of England, such defence was not shown on the plea; (2) the pleadings must be understood to put in issue the law of Scotland, & deft., to succeed on the plea, was bound to prove such law as a fact. Semble: the allegations in the plea respecting the law of Scotland could not be rejected.—WOODHAM v. EDWARDES (1836), 5 Ad. & El. 771; 2 Har. & W. 443; 1 Nev. & P. 9526. Allegation that misrepresentation by creditor was made through agent.]—A creditor, who had accepted a composition on certain bills, & who had induced other creditors to agree to the composition on the faith of his false representation that he was not the holder of any other bills for which debtor was liable, afterwards sued debtor upon such other bills:—Held: an averment in deft.'s plea that the false representation was made by H., as the agent of pltf., meant that it was made with the authority of pltf.—BLACKSTONE v. WILSON (1857), 26 L. J. Ex. 229.

9527. Sufficiency of answer to plea of agreement.]—To an action by pltfs., as indorsees of a bill of exchange, against defts., as acceptors, defts pleaded that the necessary proceedings for a composition by defts, under 1869 Act, s. 126, had been taken, & that a trustee on behalf of the creditors had been appointed by the extraordinary resolution for receipt & distribution of the composition, & that a sum sufficient to pay the composition had been duly paid to the trustee for the purpose of his paying same pursuant to the resolution. Pltfs. replied that the amount of the composition due to them was not paid or tendered to them, but the trustee, by the direction, request, & procurement of defts., refused to pay same to pltfs.:—Held: a bad replication, on the ground that defts. were discharged on the payment to the trustee of money applicable to & sufficient to pay the composition, & the mere non-payment by the trustee did not defeat the composition, & the money being impressed with a trust for the benefit of the creditor, any direction by debtor with respect to it was a nullity.—CAMPBELL v. IM THURN (1876), 1 C. 9528. Necessity for pleading agreement—Application to stay proceedings on judgment by default.]—Deft., who, before action, had executed a deed of arrangement, did not appear but allowed judgment to go against him by default. Upon an application to stay proceedings upon the judgment, on the ground that the deed had been executed:—Held: it ought to have been pleaded, & deft. might have a rule nisi to set aside the judgment & be let in to plead the deed, on paying costs, & on terms to be ordered by a judge.—COUSTON v. ROBINS (1864), 12 W. 9530. —— Of execution of deed.]—In order to prove a deed of arrangement, defts. produced from the Ct. of Bkpcy. a certificate of the inspectors, filed there in conformity with 1849 Act, s. 226, & an account & affidavit of deft. in conformity with s. 227. The account included the debts & names of the creditors mentioned in the schedule to the deed. The certificate & other documents were not filed until after action brought. Defts. also proved that the deed was, for some time before the commencement of the action, in the same state as to the execution thereof by the several parties as when produced at the trial, with the exception of two creditors, without whom 6-7ths in number & value appeared to have executed:—Held: sufficient evidence of the due execution of the deed.—IRVING v. GRAY (1858), 3 H. & N. 34; 27 L. 9531. —— Allegation that misrepresentation of creditor was made through agent.]—A creditor, who had accepted a composition on certain bills, & who had induced other creditors to agree to the composition on the faith of his false representation that he was not the holder of any other bills, afterwards sued debtor upon such other bills. The only evidence to affect pltf. was, that S., whom he had employed as the attorney in an action on one of the bills sued on, the actions on which were afterwards consolidated, made a statement, before the other bill was due, that "all the bills," meaning the bills sued on & those on which the composition had been accepted, were pltf.'s bills:—Held: although the admissibility of the evidence had not been objected to at the trial, as it was the only evidence against pltf., & it was doubtful whether it was admissible, the verdict for deft. was unsatisfactory as not supported by evidence, & a new trial should be granted.—BLACKSTONE v. WILSON (1857), 26 L. J. Ex. 229.

9533. Creditors not parties—Voluntary deed.]—Lands were conveyed to a trustee in trust for payment of the debts of the grantor; no creditors were named, & there was a proviso that the grantor might have maintenance out of the premises for himself & his family. The grantor & trustee purported to revoke the deed, & the grantor assured the premises by bargain & sale enrolled to a purchaser who took with notice of the trust:—Held: the deed was irrevocable.—LANGTON v. TRACY & ASTREY (1670), 2 Rep. Ch. 30; 21 E. R. 607; sub nom. LANGTON v. ASHLEY (1669), Nels. 126.

9530 i. Sufficiency of evidence—Of execution of deed—Of performance.]—Action on notes. Plea to further maintenance of the action, a parol composition with pltf. & creditors, whereby it was agreed that defts. were to convey their estate to two persons in trust for pltf. & other creditors, etc. The assignment, completed after the action, was executed by many creditors, but not by pltf. At the time of the composition pleaded no part thereof was delivered or accepted, nor earnest paid, nor part payment made; nor was an agreement in writing pleaded; & one of the alleged parties to the agreement did not appear to have contracted under seal:—Held: plea was not supported.—BRUNSKILL v. METCALF (1853), 3 C. 9532 i. General rule—Limits of application—Trustee beneficially interested in deed.]—An assignment of goods to a trustee, for the benefit of the trustee & certain specified creditors, gives no legal right to those creditors, unless assented to by them, but the property remains subject to the control of the assignor, who may at any time revoke the trust.—FALCONER v. SAWYER (1851), 2 James 277.—CAN.

9532 ii. —— —— ——.]—Debtor made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors generally, to a member of a firm who were creditors of debtor. There was no evidence of acceptance of the benefits of the assignment by any other creditor or even of communication of it to any other:—Held: the fact that the assignee was a creditor & entitled to the benefit of the assignment, rendered it irrevocable.—SCHWARTZ v. WINKLER, 21 C. 9544. —— —— Creditor party to arrangement but not to deed.]—By a trust deed, executed by debtor, it was declared that the money assured by certain policies on his life should be held by the trustees, who were also creditors as security for the payment to certain creditors, parties to the deed, of the several debts therein mentioned. S., one of such creditors, never executed the deed, & it was never communicated to him :—Held : after the death of debtor, his exor. was at liberty to revoke the trusts of the deed as against S., though a party to it, it never having been communicated to him.—Re SANDERS' TRUSTS (1878), 47 L. 9545. —— —— Discretionary trust for creditors.]—By a settlement made in 1873, real estates were limited to such uses & for such trusts as A. & B. should by deed jointly appoint, with remainder, in default of appointment, to A. for life, with remainder to B. for life, with remainders over. The property settled was not B.'s property, & he was not a party to the deed. By a resettlement, made in 1888, A. & B., in exercise of their joint power of appointment under the deed of 1873, appointed the same estates to trustees for a term of years to raise by way of mtge. certain sums of money to pay (inter alia) the private debts of B., which were scheduled to the deed, with remainder to the trustees during the life of B. to permit him to receive the income until he should become bkpt., with a discretionary trust over, in the happening of that event, for the benefit of B., his wife & children or relatives, with remainders over. The trustees raised the money, & had in Mar., 1889, paid some of the debts, when they received a written notice from B. not to pay any more. In 1889 B. was adjudicated bkpt., & in 1890 A. died :—Held : the trust to pay debts was a revocable mandate which had been duly revoked, & the trustee in bkpcy. was entitled to the balance in the hands of the trustees of the settlement.—Re ASHBY, Ex p. WREFORD, [1892] 1 Q. A. afterwards, upon negotiating a compromise with his creditors, stated his apprehension that he might be compelled by B. to complete the purchase, & applied to B. to cancel the contract & return the deposit. B. refused to do either, but said he would never take any steps against A. to enforce the contract. Upon that footing, the composition proceeded, C. engaging to secure 7*s.* in the pound:—Held: it would be a fraud upon the creditors & upon C. if B. were to seek to enforce the contract, & A. could not maintain an action against B. for the deposit.—CLARK v. UPTON (1828), 3 Man. & Ry. 9555. —— For alleged balance due by him—Creditor forcibly excluded from meeting.]—At the first meeting of the creditors under a liquidation petition, one person, who claimed to be the largest creditor, was ejected by force & not allowed to vote. Resolutions were passed by the other creditors present, but the registration of them was opposed by the excluded creditor, & the ct. refused to allow them to be registered. Debtor soon afterwards commenced an action against the excluded creditor for a balance, which he alleged to be due to him. At that time no order had been made for the discharge of a receiver, who had been appointed under the petition:—Held: there was jurisdiction to restrain debtor from proceeding with his action, but the excluded creditor should be required to undertake to apply within a fortnight either for an order to call a fresh first meeting of the creditors under the petition, or for an adjudication of bkpcy. against debtor.—Re MORRISY, Ex p. TAYLOR (1874), L. 9557. To sue in his own name.]—To an action for debt, deft. pleaded a composition deed, under 1861 Act, s. 192, by which pltf. had assigned his estate to trustees, & averred that the cause of action was vested in the trustees. Pltf. replied, setting out a clause of the composition deed, which provided that the trustees might reassign the estate to pltf., & averred that the composition was paid, that the trustees had reassigned the estate to pltf., & that pltf.'s right of suing for the debt claimed had revived. Deft. rejoined that the alleged reassignment was not in pursuance of the Act, or under the sanction of the Ct. of Bkpcy :—Held : pltf. had no right to sue in his own name.—LOCKWOOD v. JENKINSON (1871), 25 L. On Jan. 20, 1871, the creditors held a statutory meeting, & passed a resolution, which was afterwards duly confirmed & registered, to accept a composition. E. then brought an action for trespass against the sheriff for retaining possession of the goods seized, & at the same time the execution creditor ruled the sheriff to return the writ of fi. fa. which had been directed to him. In those circumstances, the sheriff applied to the ct. to restrain the proceedings against him & for protection & directions :—Held : the Ct. of Bkpcy. had jurisdiction, & the execution was good against the estate of E. notwithstanding the resolution for composition, & an order should be made restraining the action which had been brought by E.—Re ENGLAND, Ex p. MIDDLESEX SHERIFF (1871), L. The sheriff afterwards, without instructions from the execution creditor, sold a portion of the goods seized under the writ in order to realise the amount of his possession-money, fees, & expenses. In an action by the execution debtor against the sheriff for an unlawful sale :—Held : in the absence of evidence to show that the sheriff was required to proceed to the sale by the execution creditor, a cause of action accrued to the execution debtor.—SNEARY v. ABDY (1876), 1 Ex. 9560. To redeem mortgage on assigned estate.]—A. by deed conveyed all his real & personal estate, subject as to part of the real estate to a mtge. in fee from A. to a mtgee. then in possession, to trustee in trust to sell for the benefit of his creditors, & to pay the surplus to himself, his exors., administrators & assigns. The trustees did not sell the mortgaged premises, nor complete the trusts for the creditors. A. filed a bill for redemption of the mortgaged estates, to which the trustees were not parties, nor was any mention made of the trust deed, but the suit did not proceed beyond the answers. A. died intestate, & the devisee of his heir-at-law filed a bill for redemption of the same estates, & claimed the benefit of A.'s suit :—Held : pltf. was not entitled to redeem, because the real estate of A. had been converted by the deed of trust into personalty, & had not been subsequently reconverted, nor had that deed been revoked by A.—GRIFFITH v. RICKETTS, GRIFFITH v. LUNELL (1849), 7 Hare, 299 ; 19 L. 9561. To protection—From arrest for costs as well as judgment—Former accessory to latter.]—On Nov. 12, 1849, deft. presented a petition to the Bkpcy. Ct. for protection for his person & property under 1849 Act, s. 211, & obtained a protection. On Nov. 28 an action against him was tried, in which pltf. recovered £29 damages, the costs of which were, on Dec. 12, taxed at £57 14*s.* 3*d.* On Dec. 7, deft. filed an account of his debts, in which he described pltf.'s debt thus :—"[Pltf.] has got judgment for debt estimated at £22, & £50." On Dec. 20 deft. made a proposal, which was accepted, to certain of his creditors to pay them 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound "with a satisfactory guarantee." On Jan. 31 all the creditors who had proved debts to the amount of £10 & upwards agreed to the terms above proposed, provided the amount of such composition were guaranteed by two parties named. That agreement was sanctioned by the Ct. of Bkpcy. :—Held : the debt of £22 was correctly described in the account, & deft., who had been arrested during the continuance of his protection, was entitled to his discharge both from the debt & costs, the latter being an accessory only to the principal debt.—SOUTHGATE v. SAUNDERS (1850), 9562. To discharge from arrest.]—Case against deft. as under-sheriff, for an escape & false return. The declaration stated that a ca. sa. on a judgment recovered by pltf. against B. was on Dec. 17, 1862, sued out & directed to the sheriff, that B., on Dec. 16 entered into a deed of assignment, which was set out, that after the delivery of the writ an entry was made of the deed by the chief registrar of the Ct. of Bkpcy. in a book kept for such registration, & a copy of such entry was published in the Gazette, pursuant to 1861 Act, that by a certificate under the hand of the chief registrar & the seal of the ct., he certified that the deed was duly registered pursuant to the Act, & that such certificate set forth the nature & effect of the deed, that the writ was delivered to deft., & he took B. & detained him in custody, but suffered him to escape & remain out of his custody until he rearrested him, after which he again suffered him to escape, & made a false return that B. was entitled to protection from arrest under the writ by virtue of 1861 Act, s. 198. The declaration then alleged that the return was false, in that deft. suffered B. to escape, & that he rearrested him & suffered him to escape upon the production of the certificates of the filing & registration of the deed, which certificate & deed were not within s. 198, & that pltf. had not executed or assented to the deed. Third plea, to the first arrest, & so much of the declaration as related to it, that deft. discharged B. out of his custody, & made such return to the writ upon the production by him of such certificate, which was set out, & at the foot of it was the following note: "This certificate is available to B. for all purposes as a protection in bkpcy." The plea then averred that the deed was valid & binding on all the creditors of B. as if they had executed it. Fourth plea, to the rearrest & so much of the declaration as related to it, the same as the third plea:—Held: the sheriff was justified in discharging debtor on the production of the certificate, although the deed afterwards turned out to be invalid, & was not liable to an accion for escape.—LLOYD v. HARRISON (1865), 6 B. & S. 36; 6 New Rep. 25; 34 L. Pltfs. replied, that the deed was a deed executed before the commencement of the action, & contained a release, &, if valid, might have been, but was not, pleaded in bar of the action, & that the judgment was signed for want of a plea, & the deed was not assented to by the required number of creditors, & was null & void, of all which defts. had notice:—Held: a good replication.—GODWIN v. STONE (1869), L. e. To object to trust accounts.]—In a trust-deed for behoof of creditors, the agent of the trustee was appointed one of the trustees, & at the first meeting of trustees he was by them appointed agent & factor in the trust. His accounts were regularly rendered at meetings of the trustees, & were examined & docqueted by them as correct, the truster being present & offering no objection to the trust management. Th first account rendered by the agent was docqueted as correct by the truster himself, along with the trustees. In an accounting at the instance of the truster:—Held: the facts alleged as inferring acquiescence, & even the signing the docquet not being proved to have taken place in the knowledge of his legal rights, the truster was not barred from objecting to the agent's accounts.—LAUDER v. MILLARS (1859), 21 Dunl. 9566. To have property reconveyed—On payment of composition—Property originally conveyed to trustee—To defeat creditors.]—Pltf., being in pecuniary difficulties, assigned certain leasehold property to a trustee with the view of defeating his creditors. Two & a half years afterwards he was adjudicated bkpt., but obtained the sanction of the creditors under 1861 Act, s. 110, to an arrangement, by which his estate & effects were revested in him, he covenanting to prosecute a suit for the recovery of the assigned property, & to pay a composition of 2*s.* 6*d.* in the pound to his creditors in case such suit had a successful termination :—Held : pltf. was entitled to have the property reconveyed to him by deft., who claimed by assignment from the original trustee.—SYMES v. HUGHES, SYMES v. HUGHES (1870), L. 9568. To order directing trustee to pay back surplus—Jurisdiction to order accounts between debtor & trustee.]—A resolution having been passed at a meeting of creditors to accept a composition from debtor, debtor paid to the trustee a sum of money, which was more than sufficient to pay the composition to all the creditors whose names & debts were entered in his statement. Other creditors, who were not bound by the composition, had previously filed a bill in Ch. against debtor & certain persons, charging them with a breach of trust. They did not come in & prove the debt in the composition, but simply gave notice to the trustee of their claim. After all the creditors who were bound by the composition had been paid, debtor applied to the ct. to order the trustee to pay back the surplus of the fund to him :—Held : the ct. had jurisdiction to entertain the application under 1869 Act, s. 72, & to take the necessary accounts between the trustee & debtor.—Re CAREW, Ex p. CAREW (1875), 10 Ch. 9569. To injunction restraining creditors from proceeding against after acquired property.]—The creditors of a manufacturer resolved on a liquidation by arrangement, & appointed a trustee & a committee of inspection. They afterwards passed a resolution accepting an offer by debtor & B., a friend of his, to purchase "the whole of debtor's estate & effects" for £6,000, towards which debtor was to contribute £200, payable by instalments. A deed was executed conveying the machinery, stock-in-trade, etc., & all other property then vested in the trustee under the liquidation, or which he had power to dispose of, to B. B. took debtor into partnership in the business, & the instalments were all duly paid. Debtor then applied for his discharge, but a meeting of the creditors, summoned to consider the question, refused to grant it :—Held : the sale included all the future property of debtor, & debtor was entitled to an injunction restraining the committee of inspection & other creditors from taking proceedings against property acquired by him since the commencement of the liquidation.—Re FRANCE, Ex p. TINKER (1874), 9 Ch. 9571. To deposit assets with surety—To amount of composition secured.]—Creditors resolved to accept a composition payable by three instalments, the first two of which were to be secured by the acceptances of debtor, & the third by the acceptances of a surety. The surety required as the condition of giving his acceptances that debtor should deposit goods to the amount thereof, but that was not known to the creditors. Debtor failed to pay the second instalment, & filed a second petition, & the trustee appointed under the second petition applied for an order upon the surety for delivery up of the goods deposited : —Held : the creditors by accepting the composition had left debtor absolute owner of the assets, & there was nothing to prevent his depositing them with the surety.—Re ROBINSON, Ex p. BURRELL (1876), 1 Ch. 9572. To rectify deed—To charge trustees with neglect—Whether application to Bankruptcy or Chancery Court.]—In cases coming under 1844 Act application to rectify a deed, or to charge trustees with wilful neglect or default, should be made in bkpcy., not in Ch.

Pltf., being unable to meet his engagements, & not being a trader, presented a petition under the above Act. Resolutions for carrying into effect the proposals contained in the petition were duly passed by the creditors, & pltf. executed a deed conveying all his property to trustees for the purpose, as he believed, of carrying into effect the resolutions. Subsequently he ascertained that the deed did not carry out the resolutions as passed by the creditors, & being advised that the Act contained no power to rectify deeds or to charge trustees with wilful neglect or default, he filed a bill in Ch. :—Held : under s. 15 such cases were to be construed by analogy to the bkpcy. law, which had power to grant adequate relief, & application to the Ct. of Ch. was unnecessary.—HUTCHINSON v. BASHAM (1876), 35 L. 9574. To raise money while authorised to carry on business.]—Two partners in trade filed a liquidation petition, under which a trustee of their property was appointed. Afterwards the creditors, under 1867 Act, s. 28, passed resolutions authorising the trustee to accept a composition from debtors, & the arrangement was approved by the ct. The composition was to be paid in four instalments, part of the last of which was to be secured by a surety. One of debtors, who was about to carry on the business alone, agreed to pay £30 to the trustee weekly, until he should have paid the amount of the composition. In case of his making default, the trustee was to be at liberty to take possession of his stock-in-trade, assets, & effects, & realise them for the benefit of the creditors of the firm. The discharge of debtors was to be granted, the liquidation closed, & the trustee released, so soon as the trustee should certify to the ct. that a sum sufficient to pay the composition had been paid to him by debtor:—Held: the resolutions of the creditors gave an implied authority to debtor to carry on the business in the ordinary way, & to pledge the assets in order to raise money for the purposes of the business, or for the purpose of paying the composition, but did not authorise the pledging of the assets as an indemnity to the surety against his liability in respect of the last instalment of the composition.—Re SIMONS, Ex p. ALLARD (1881), 16 Ch. 9575. To solicit former customers—Notwithstanding sale of goodwill by trustee.] — The trustee of a liquidating debtor sold the goodwill of debtor's business. Debtor, having obtained his discharge, started a similar business in the same town, & solicited the customers of his old firm:—Held: (1) no injunction could be granted to restrain such solicitation; (2) the concurrence of bkpt. in the assignment of his property by his trustee was immaterial, as, being bound by every lawful disposition of his property by his trustee, he was bound to respect whatever rights such a disposition conferred on the purchaser.—WALKER v. MOTTRAM (1881), 19 Ch. 9576. —— ——.]—The rule, which precludes the vendor of the goodwill of a business from soliciting the customers of the old firm, does not apply to the case of a sale not by the man carrying on the business, but by the trustees of a deed of assignment for the benefit of his creditors.—GREEN & SONS (NORTHAMPTON), LTD. v. MORRIS, [1914] 1 Ch. 562; 83 L. 9577. To use trade name & marks sold by trustee.]—For some years before 1908, A. carried on business under the name of A. & Co., as a wine & spirit merchant, owning certain brands & marks in connection therewith. In 1908 he assigned his business & property to a trustee for his creditors. Pltf. bought from the trustee the brands & marks & received from the trustee a receipt for the purchase-money, in which it was expressed to be paid in respect of the brands as per schedule, together with all the labels & advertising matter on hand appertaining thereto, brands for cases, seals, & branding irons, whether in possession of A. & Co., or in that of the firm they had been buying from, so far as they constituted the property of A. & Co. In 1911 the trustee assigned to pltf. by deed all the brands & trade marks enumerated in the schedule together with the goodwill of the business concerned in the goods with respect to which the trade marks or brands had been registered or in the goods to which they related, & pltf. became registered as proprietor of the trade marks. In July, 1914, A. commenced business as a wine & spirit merchant under the name of A. & Co. Pltf. commenced an action against A., & claimed an injunction to restrain him from using the name of A. & Co., & from using any brands or marks so contrived as by colourable imitation or otherwise to represent the marks or brands used by pltf., & also claimed damages. Deft. had used labels on his rum, whiskey & other goods which contained the name A. & Co. in the same special type as that in which pltf. had used it. Pltf. complained of the labels & also of circulars by deft.:—Held: (1) the right to the name A. & Co. passed to the trustee with the goodwill of the business & from the trustee to pltf., & pltf. was entitled to an injunction restraining deft. from using the name of A. & Co.; (2) the use of the name A. & Co. in the distinctive type in labels was an infringement of pltf.'s rights.—WOOD v. HALL (1915), 33 R. 9578. To enter into valid agreement to pay debt in full.]—After composition resolutions under 1869 Act, s. 126, have been passed & registered, debtor cannot, before the completion of the composition in accordance with the resolutions, enter into a valid agreement with one of the creditors who is bound by the resolutions, to pay him his debt in full, even though the creditor agrees at the same time to give debtor fresh credit; & such an agreement would be inconsistent with good faith to the other creditors, & with the spirit of s. 126.—Re ANDREWS, Ex p. BARROW (1881), 18 Ch. The resolution was sanctioned by the ct., & was carried out by the trustee. Debtor was not a party to the arrangement, & did not know of it for some time afterwards. The creditors did not pass any formal resolution fixing the close of the liquidation, or granting debtor a discharge, but he commenced another business. In 1881 this came to the knowledge of the trustee, & he thereupon took possession of debtor's stock-in-trade, claiming it on behalf of the creditors under the liquidation:—Held: although the trustee was entitled to debtor's after-acquired property for the benefit of the creditors, in the circumstances, debtor's costs must be paid out of the estate, & the trustee's costs must also be allowed out of the estate.—Re WAINWRIGHT, Ex p. WAINWRIGHT (1881), 19 Ch. Costs against husband & wife—Composition by husband.]—By a decree made on Feb. 7, 1877, an appeal from which was dismissed on Apr. 8, a husband & wife, co-defts., were ordered to pay pltf.'s costs. On Feb. 21, the costs not having been paid, the husband presented a petition for liquidation, &, on Mar. 14, a first meeting of creditors was held. On Mar. 15 a writ of sequestration was issued on behalf of pltf., empowering & commanding the sequestrators to enter upon property settled under a marriage settlement, & sequester the rents. Notices were given by the sequestrators to the trustees & the tenants, & a counter-notice was given by the trustees. On Mar. 21, at an adjourned first meeting of creditors, a composition of 10*s.* in the pound was resolved upon. This was afterwards duly confirmed, & pltf. proved for the costs, & received the composition of 10*s.* for the amount. Afterwards the sequestrators having again served notice on the trustees & their tenants to attorn & pay the rents to them, in discharge of the balance:—Held: by force of the composition, & the acceptance by pltf. of payment under it, the debt of pltf. had become satisfied, & the issue of the writ of sequestration was irregular & improper, & the sequestrators must withdraw.—ROE v. DAVIES, [1878] W. 9590. Debt incurred by fraud.]—C., a broker, sold without authority bonds left with him by A., a customer, for safe custody, & misappropriated the proceeds. C. became bkpt., & the sale being then discovered A. proved for the value. The creditors passed a resolution under 1869 Act, s. 28, accepting a proposal that T., a friend of bkpt., should pay a composition of 6*d.* in the pound on all the debts in full discharge thereof, & that on such payment the bkpcy. should be annulled. A. received the composition, but did not otherwise assent to the arrangement. In Aug., 1880, the bkpcy. was annulled. In May, 1886, an order in the Ch. Div. was made for administration of the estate of C., who had died in the interval:—Held: the debt due from C. to A. was incurred by fraud within Debtors Act, 1869 (c. 62), s. 15, & the debt was not discharged by the arrangement.—Re CROSLEY, MUNNS v. BURN (1887), 35 Ch. 9592. Debt incurred by breach of trust.]—Trustees invested trust funds in their private business. A receiving order was made against them & a composition was approved by the ct. New trustees of the will were appointed, & they proved for & accepted the composition. Subsequently one of the original trustees became personally entitled to a share of the estate:—Held: his debt to the estate was released or satisfied by the composition, & he was not bound to bring into account the portion of the estate subsequently coming to him.—Re SEWELL, WHITE v. SEWELL, [1909] 1 Ch. 806; 78 L. 9597. —— —— Trustee put in funds.]—The creditors of a liquidating debtor duly passed resolutions for a composition payable by instalments at certain definite times, & appointed a trustee. At the time when the first instalments of the composition became due debtor, who had sent cheques to all the creditors, had also placed in the hands of the trustee funds sufficient to pay the amount of that instalment to a particular creditor, who, however, neglected to present the cheque or apply to the trustee for the amount:—Held: such creditor was not entitled to institute bkpcy. proceedings against debtor with a view to having him adjudicated a bkpt., on the ground that he did not in fact receive the instalment of his composition upon the day named in the resolutions for payment.—Re SHERRATT, Ex p. ORTELLI (1882), 45 L. of his creditors, who were expressed to be parties to the assignment & to be named in a schedule, & the deed purported to contain an absolute release of the debts without any reservation of rights against sureties. One of the trustees was a partner in the above firm, & the deed was executed by him & the other trustees, but not by any other creditor. It was also executed by the son, with the privity & concurrence of the father. Upon its execution as an act of bkpcy., an adjudication was pronounced against the son :—Held : even assuming the father to have joined in the note as a surety merely, & the partner to have executed the deed as a creditor & not merely as a trustee, the father's liability was not discharged.—Re BLAKELY, Ex p. HARVEY, Re BLAKELY, Ex p. SPRINGFIELD (1854), 4 De G. One partner retired & a new partner was taken in, the new firm covenanting to indemnify the outgoing partner against all partnership debts & liabilities. The estate of the new firm was liquidated by arrangement under 1869 Act, & the obligees accepted a composition payable by instalments :—Held : a novation of the bond debts had taken place, the new firm becoming the principals, & the out-going partner a surety, & the composition by giving time to the principal debtors, without the consent of the surety, discharged the surety.—WILSON v. LLOYD (1873), L. 9626. —— —— Surety entitled to be put in creditor's place—Insurance of bank deposit.]—By an instrument purporting to be a "policy of insurance," it was witnessed that defts. guaranteed to the "assured," pltf., payment of a sum of money deposited by her in a bank in Australia, if the bank should make default in paying same. The bank made default in payment of the sum deposited. Subsequently to such default a scheme of arrangement between the bank & its creditors was, under the provisions of an Act of the colony, sanctioned by a meeting of creditors & the colonial ct. By such scheme the bank was to be wound up & a new bank constituted, the creditors becoming entitled to certain rights against the new bank in satisfaction of their debts. Pltf. did not assent to the scheme, which, however, was binding upon her by the colonial Act :—Held : (1) defts. remained liable to pltf. under their contract, notwithstanding the scheme of arrangement ; (2) (LORD ESHER, M.R., & LOPES, L.J.) the contract was one of insurance against a certain event, viz., the bank's default, &, that event having happened, defts. were liable to pay the sum insured, but would be entitled, the contract being one of indemnity, upon payment to be subrogated to the rights of pltf. under the scheme of arrangement ; (3) (KAY, L.J.) whether the contract was one of suretyship or one of insurance, the scheme of arrangement, which operated to discharge the bank under the Act & not by way of accord & satisfaction, did not defeat the right which had vested in pltf. under the contract upon the default made by the bank.—DANE v. MORTGAGE INSURANCE CORPN., LTD., [1894] 1 Q. 9627. —— Agreement by principal debtor to pay creditor in full—Without knowledge or consent of surety.]—Pltf. having advanced money to M., he obtained from him (inter alia) a promissory note in which deft. joined as surety. Subsequently a resolution was passed at a meeting of M.'s creditors that they would accept a composition. Pltf. assented to the resolutions, but M. agreed with pltf. in writing, without the knowledge or consent of deft., to discharge in full his indebtedness to pltf. M. failed to pay the composition & also the debt owing to pltf. 9628. Right of surety to recover from principal debtor—Deed reserving remedies against sureties.]—Pltf. became a surety for advances to be made by a banking co. to deft. Deft. afterwards executed a composition deed, to which pltf. & the banking co. were parties, whereby he assigned his property to trustees for the benefit of his creditors, & the deed contained a stipulation for a reserve of remedies against sureties for deft. Pltf. having been compelled to pay the debt to the banking co. :—Held : he was entitled to recover back the amount in an action for money paid, from deft.—KEARSLEY v. COLE (1846), 16 M. & W. 128 ; 16 L. 9629. —— —— No abandonment unless contract to that effect.]—A necessary consequence of a reservation in a composition deed of a creditor's remedies against a surety is the continuance of the surety's right to be indemnified by the principal debtor, & this right will not be held to be abandoned unless a contract to abandon it is proved.

One of the creditors who acceded to a composition deed was also a residuary legatee of a surety for compounding debtors to another creditor. One of compounding debtors happened to be the surety's exor. :—Held : the residuary legatee's accession must be taken to have been in respect of his direct debt only, & did not preclude him from insisting on the surety's estate being indemnified by debtors.—CLOSE v. CLOSE (1853), 4 De G. 9631. —— Surety compounding for cash—Principal debtor compounding by debentures for full amount—Right of surety to debentures for composition paid.]—By a scheme of arrangement under 1869 Act, s. 28, all proceedings in a liquidation were stayed, & an agreement was approved whereby the property of debtors was transferred to a co. formed to continue their business, who were to issue to every creditor, to the amount of his debt, B. debentures payable to bearer, & only payable, except at the co.'s option, out of the residue of profits after payment of certain other charges, or on the winding up of the co. Creditors to a large amount were the holders of bills drawn by liquidating debtors, on which the acceptors, who stood in the position of surety for them, had, after proof by such creditors in the liquidation, paid them a composition of 4*s.* in the pound. The surety claimed to take 4*s.* in the pound of the debentures to be issued to the creditors, on the ground that such debentures were a satisfaction of their debts in full :—Held : the debentures must be considered as taken, not in satisfaction of the debts, but of the dividends to be received in respect thereof, & the surety's only right was to pay the debt in full, & take over the debentures, or possibly (MELLISH, L.J.), if the debentures were really worth more than 16*s.* in the pound, which they were not, to require the debentures to be sold, & the surplus paid to him.—Re FOTHERGILL, Ex p. TURQUAND (1876), 3 Ch. 9633. —— Deed delivered as escrow.]—Before the execution of a composition deed, it was agreed, in the presence of the surety for the payment of the composition, that it should be void unless all the creditors executed it. The surety, at the same interview, afterwards executed the deed in the ordinary way, without saying anything at the time of execution; the deed was then delivered to one of the creditors, in order that he might get it executed by the rest of the creditors :—Held : this was to be considered a delivery of the deed as an escrow, & all the creditors not having executed it, the surety was not bound.—JOHNSON v. BAKER (1821), 4 B. & Ald. 440 ; 106 E. 9636. —— Provision for release if inspectors made debtor bankrupt—Debtor made bankrupt by non-assenting creditors.]—A general meeting of creditors held under 1869 Act, s. 126, duly resolved to accept in full satisfaction of the debts due to them, a composition payment in instalments, the last of which was to be guaranteed by deft. Debtor was until payment to carry on his business under inspection, & an inspectorship deed between debtor & the creditors was made, which empowered the inspectors, if it should appear to them from the state or position of debtor's affairs or otherwise that the instalments would not be duly met, to apply to the ct. to adjudge debtor bkpt., or to require him to assign his property to them. Deft.'s guarantee was in terms absolute, but the inspectorship deed contained a proviso that he should be released "in the event of debtor being adjudicated a bkpt., or from assignment of his property being made under the provisions of the deed." Before payment of the last instalment a creditor, who was no party to the above-mentioned resolution & deed & was not bound by them, made debtor a bkpt., & the last instalment was not paid. Pltf., to whom, on behalf of the creditors, parties to the resolution, the guarantee had been given, then sued upon it:—Held: (1) the bkpcy. of debtor subsequently to the composition did not of itself, as an incident of the ordinary law of bkpcy., supersede the deed, & release the guarantor; (2) an adjudication of bkpcy. other than one effected on the application of the inspectors did not discharge deft. from liability on the guarantee.—GLEGG v. GILBEY (1877), 2 Q.
